Hoover Asks For Roosevelt's Help on Debts

CONGRESS TOLD HOW PRESIDENT VIEWS QUESTION

Sees World Welfare in Balance.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Congress declines to create a commission to discuss revision of 11½ billion dollar war debts with the European debtors, but has no objection to the executive appointing a commission for that purpose.

Of course, any conclusions the President's commission might reach it would be necessary for the executive to submit to congress, which alone can authorize any change in the terms of the debts.

This attitude on the part of congress was disclosed by leaders of the senate and house, Republicans as well as Democrats, following the reading this afternoon of Mr. Hoover's special message on the situation produced by the default of five debtors in payment of the December installment of their debts and the pleas of all the debtors for revision of the terms downward.

Seeks Roosevelt's Coöperation.

Evidently having in mind the overwhelming opposition of congress to reduction of the debts, the President gave notice in his message that he intends to proceed independently of congress to the appointment of such a commission to treat with the debtors, and that in the organization of the negotiating agency he will seek the coöperation of President Elect Roosevelt, under whose administration the negotiations would almost entirely be conducted.

But if congress should "prefer to authorize by legislative enactment a commission set up along the lines above indicated," said Mr. Hoover, "it would meet with my hearty approval."

The President was not surprised to learn an hour later that the congressional leaders had rejected his suggestion with thanks and the comment that he possesses full power to do all the negotiating with the debtors he wants to, congress retaining the right to the last word on the subject.

Asks Roosevelt for Names.

Mr. Hoover's intention is to ask Gov. Roosevelt to furnish the names of the members of the American delegation he will send to the world economic conference next spring. To these the President would add certain members of the American delegation to the present disarmament conference. Some of the members of the commission, the President said, should be members of congress.

The commission so constituted would discuss with the debtors trade and other concessions and reduction of armaments in exchange for scaling down of the debts. This discussion would be preliminary to the economic conference, so that the question of the debts would have a bearing upon the deliberations of that body, despite the fact that at the instance of America the debts have been excluded from the agenda.

The decision to send the message to congress today was not unrelated to the possible influence it might have in inducing the French government to pay the 19 millions due on its debt last week. For the message contained not only the utmost assurance the President could give of a reopening of the debt settlements but also a veiled hint that no willful defaulters need apply for consideration.

Consideration for Those Who Paid.

"We must honor," said the President, "the request for discussion of these questions by nations that have sought to maintain their obligations to us."

Democrats as well as Republicans praised the message as probably the best state paper Mr. Hoover ever has penned. The Democrats, however, almost to a man shied away from the suggestion of drawing President Elect Roosevelt into the project for executive negotiations with the debtors. They echoed the governor's remark that "this is not my baby" before March 4.

"Nothing but good can come of the President's proposal," said Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], a member of the original war debt funding commission. "I would be in favor of congress doing it, but in my opinion congress won't. If congress doesn't, the President will."

Said Senator Joseph T. Robinson of

ILL. LIFE LOANS OF $3,447,000 UNDER INQUIRY

Receiver Is Hopeful for Policyholders.

Collateral loans totaling $3,447,000 were made by the Illinois Life Insurance company prior to the appointment of a receiver on Nov. 28, and the market value of the collateral pledged was only $125,000 on that date, a deficiency of $3,321,000. This was disclosed yesterday as agents of Gen. Abel Davis, the receiver, delved deeper into the tangled affairs of the $150,000,000 concern headed by members of the Stevens family, which failed with $13,000,000 of its assets frozen in obligations of the Stevens and La Salle hotels, controlled by the same family.

It was also learned that stocks and bonds owned by the insurance company were carried on the books at a value of $11,294,000, while their par value was only $10,424,000 and their market value as of Nov. 28 was $761,000, an excess of $10,532,000 in the book value over the market value.

$1,808,500 Loan to Official.

The largest of the collateral loans, $1,808,500, was made to George F Ramer, auditor of the company, and the market value of the securities pledged for this loan was only $35,000, according to the accounting experts. Some of the collateral put up by Ramer consisted of stock in the Stevens and La Salle hotel corporations, which stock is described as worthless, its potential earnings being subject to first, second and third mortgage bonds.

The next largest loan, $1,160,200, went to the Lincoln Securities company, an investment trust also controlled by the Stevens family. The market value of the collateral put up for this loan was only $16,000 when the company failed. Considerable mystery attached to this advance of funds on the part of the life insurance company, and the receiver's agents were seeking to learn the purpose of the loans and the disposition of the money.

Receiver Examines Books.

The books of the Lincoln corporation were turned over to the receiver on Sunday and were being examined yesterday. The early theory of the investigators was that the Illinois Life officials used the Lincoln corporation for a dumping ground for nonbankable assets.

A loan of $116,000 was made by the insurance company to Joseph E. Otis, now chairman of the board of the Central Republic Trust company, and the market value of the collateral pledged by him is only $10,000. The collateral includes 515 units of stock in the Central Illinois Securities company, an investment trust organized by the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, of which Mr. Otis was president. The insurance company used securities of the Central Illinois, owned by the Lincoln corporation, to bolster the collateral on six of its loans to individuals, presumably fearful that the insurance examiners woul dnot approve the security posted by the borrowers.

Security for Other Loans.

Other collateral loans, and the market value of the security pledged were as follows:

Name—	Total loans.	Market value of collateral.
M. M. Fell	$ 1,400	$ 1,500
E. J. Stookey	42,389	11,191

F. M. Widick	2,000	541
George L. Douglass	210,285	No value

$2,327,000 CHICAGO LOAN APPROVED FOR SOUTH SIDE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—A loan of $2,327,000 to the Chicago department of public works for construction of a modern pumping station to supply water to the south side business district was approved today by directors of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The new station, it was said, will replace three obsolete pumping plants now in use.

The loan, according to the federal agency's announcement, will be negotiated through the purchase of Chicago water bureau certificates of indebtedness bearing 5 per cent interest, and will be secured by the net revenue of the Chicago waterworks system.

Construction of the new station is expected to begin Jan. 2, the corporation said. It was estimated that 340 men will find direct employment on the project for fourteen months. In addition to erection of the pumping plant the undertaking contemplates the laying of several large mains to connect the city's water system with the new station.

EVANSTON 'L' GUARDS ASKED TO PROTECT WOMEN

A resolution demanding that attendants or guards be placed at unprotected stations of the rapid transit lines in Evanston to prevent attacks on women was introduced at a meeting of the Evanston council last night.

The matter was prompted by the attack last week on Mrs. Helen Holzfeind, daughter of a resident of Evanston, at the Ridge avenue station of the Niles center branch of the line. According to Ald. Robert James [4th], who offered the resolution, many of the stations are not protected and some of these places are frequented by hoodlums who might molest women awaiting trains.

Technically, Ald. James' motion was that the council demand protection at the stations from the rapid transit company, at least up to midnight. The request was referred to the judiciary committee.

20,000 Idle Railwaymen of Canada Ask Share in Jobs

WINNIPEG, Dec. 19.—(AP)—More than 20,000 unemployed men in the railway running rates have forwarded a petition to the federal government asking that employed railway men of Canada be restricted "during this depression" to 26 days of work each month, making it possible for many of the unemployed to be taken on again. The petition is signed by a number of railway men out of work and having seniority of 10 to 20 years.

Street Crowds to Hear W-G-N Carols Today

Beginning today the second annual series of Christmas carol radio programs sponsored by THE TRIBUNE'S station, W-G-N, will be broadcast to downtown street crowds from an elaborate system of loud speakers on Tribune tower.

The music will go on the air at 5 o'clock each afternoon until Christmas and will continue for an hour. On Christmas day the program will start at 10 a. m. and continue until 10:30.

Among those who will take part in the carol programs this year are the Paulist choir, the Mendelssohn club chorus, Eric De Lamarter, organist and assistant director of the Chicago Symphony orchestra; Margery Maxwell, opera star, and Leo Sowerby, organist of St. James Episcopal church, as well as leading W-G-N artists and other well known musicians and musical organizations.

Carols Resound in Streets.

It is expected that as many thousands will enjoy this year's broadcast as last year, when, for the first time, the strains of the beautiful old carols filled the air of downtown streets, imbuing old and young alike with the true spirit of Christmas.

Mr. De Lamarter and the famous Hamilton club chorus are on today's carol program. Lewis White, W-G-N artist, will sing.

Tomorrow's program will include singing by the Roosevelt High school chorus, organ numbers by Barret Spach of the Fourth Presbyterian church and numbers by W-G-N's Four Kings of Harmony.

Margery Maxwell, opera star and the Mendelssohn chorus will sing Thursday afternoon. Leo Sowerby will contribute the organ numbers on this program.

The Four Kings of Harmony will sing again Friday, sharing the program with the Lawson Y. M. C. A. Glee club.

Paulist Choir to Sing.

On Saturday the Paulist choir, directed by the Rev. Eugene O'Malley, organ numbers by Mr. DeLamarter and songs by Lewis White will feature the program. On Christmas morning Mr. White and the Four Kings of Harmony will sing and Leonard Salvo, W-G-N organist, will play.

Special microphones and wires will carry the programs from the churches and studios to 20 amplifiers on TRIBUNE tower. The loud speakers have been placed so as to send the music out in three directions. The programs are presented as a Christmas gift to Chicago by THE TRIBUNE and W-G-N.

PAROLE OFFICER MEETS 3 YOUTHS; MAKES FORECAST

Philip J. Barry of 3000 Sheridan road, superintendent of supervision of the state parole board, and H. C. Fleming of 550 Surf street, a parole agent, were stepping into the former's car last night in front of 857 Windsor avenue, where Barry's mother-in-law lives. Watching them from a window were their wives.

Just then the three young men appeared and poked guns at Mr. Barry and Agent Fleming. Mrs. Barry and Mrs. Fleming screamed.

From Agent Fleming the three gunmen got nothing, but from Barry they took $70. Mr. Barry hurried to the detective bureau. There was a vengeful gleam in his eyes as he told his story. Then he made a prediction.

"Sometime, maybe it'll be five or ten years, we'll get one of those boys who held me up," he said. "And if a certain one of them ever gets in he'll stay in prison a long time. I'm sure of that because this one robber left a confession behind."

The "confession" was the bandit's fingerprints on the side window of the car.

FATAL ERROR BRINGS SUICIDE OF PHYSICIAN

Parma, Mich., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Dr. Harry C. Hubbard, 61 years old, veteran physician of Parma, who died suddenly on Sunday, is believed by Coroner John Pulling to have committed suicide in remorse for having accidentally killed two patients by poisoning.

On Dec. 10 Dr. Hubbard was called to attend two residents of Parma—William J. Foor, a railroad yardmaster, and George W. Hunn, hardware merchant. Foor had an attack of flu and Hunn was suffering with indigestion. To each Dr. Hubbard gave a hypodermic injection. They died the same day.

Dr. Hubbard made a report indicating the deaths were due to apoplexy. Relatives demanded an investigation. Yesterday Dr. Hubbard died and another physician signed a certificate saying he died of apoplexy. But the coroner's investigation showed the two patients were poisoned. He learned today, the coroner added, that Dr. Hubbard had made a mistake in the injection and that his death was a suicide.

City Employes Get Christmas Checks Today

City employés will be given half a month's pay today and employés of the county, the school board and sanitary district will receive their Christmas pay checks tomorrow.

The announcement yesterday of the citizens' committee on public expenditures that it had completed its campaign to limit the 1933 tax levies of the four large governmental bodies and to meet the bond and interest payments of the city and school board the first of the year was a signal for banks to purchase the tax warrants which make the pay day possible.

Banks to Advance $5,577,000.

The tax warrant purchases are expected to total $5,577,000, but of this sum $315,000 will repay the county treasurer for funds previously advanced to pay judges and clerks of election.

Public employés received some bad news along with the good news of the Christmas pay day. In announcing the accomplishments of the citizens' committee Fred W. Sargent, its chairman, stated that in the opinion of the committee banks will be unable to make further tax warrant purchases for pay days after the present one. Future pay roll funds, the committee holds, must come from tax collections and from the sale of tax warrants to the general public.

Plan Warrant Sale Drive.

The citizens' committee is now working on plans for a drive to sell tax warrants to the public, Mr. Sargent said.

The tax levies, exclusive of bond and interest requirements, to which the larger local governments have agreed to limit themselves, are 32.8 per cent lower than the 1930 levies for the same purposes. The 1930 tax bills, which set an all time high in Cook county, were the last received by taxpayers. The levies of the various governments follow:

	1930.	1933.	Pct. Reduc.
County	$ 22,689,000	$ 12,650,000	44.3
Sanitary district	6,600,000	4,000,000	39.4
City	68,254,000	51,600,000	24.1
Schools	72,986,000	48,000,000	34.2
Major park boards	11,444,000	6,000,000	47.8
Totals	$181,973,000	$122,250,000	32.8

The south, west, and Lincoln park boards have not adopted the resolutions which were passed by the other four governments, binding themselves to the limits on levies set forth above. This action was not requested of the park boards because in the case of two of them, the west and Lincoln parks, the present boards are expected to go out of office shortly after Jan. 5 when Governor Elect Horner, who appoints the board members, takes office. Judge Horner has conferred with the Sargent committee on governmental economy, however.

County May Cut Further.

The finance committee of the county board adopted a resolution limiting its levies to $12,650,000, although the Sargent committee had suggested a limit of 12 millions. The board itself meets today to act upon the tax levy resolution.

Commissioner Maurice Kavanagh, chairman of the finance committee, said yesterday that if the Sargent committee insists the county board may adopt a further reduction in its levies today below the limit set in the finance committee resolution.

City employés are being paid for the last half of August, and school employés for the first half of May. The $127,000 which sanitary district employés will get tomorrow will be for the first half of September.

POLICE BULLETS FELL NITTI, NEW ALCOHOL KING

Detective Wounded in Office Battle.

Frank Nitti, 43 years old, principal man of business for Al Capone in the days of Chicago gangland's prosperity, and now chief of the remnants of the Capone mob, was shot and possibly fatally wounded yesterday afternoon by Detective Harry Lang of Mayor Cermak's office. During the encounter Lang was wounded in the left arm. Early this morning it was said at the Bridewell hospital Nitti was steadily "growing weaker."

The shooting occurred in room 554 of the La Salle-Wacker building, 221 North La Salle street, headquarters of the Nitti organization. Lang and three other detectives, learning that the place was a hangout for hoodlums, went there in conformity with the mayor's order to break up all meetings of gangsters. With Nitti they found six of his lieutenants.

Nitti Disobeys Police Order.

The gangsters were ordered to raise their hands. All except Nitti obeyed readily. He was the last of the seven. Lang saw him thrust a paper into his mouth and start chewing it up. At this the detective leaped toward the gang leader to try to retrieve the paper, believing it might contain important underworld secrets.

Then, according to the story told by the policemen, Nitti drew a pistol from one of his pockets and fired, a bullet striking Lang. Crying "You shot me!" Lang raised his own pistol, which he held in his hand when he entered the room, and fired five times.

Three of the bullets struck Nitti, one in the right side of the neck, one in the right side of the chest, and the third in the back near the spinal cord. He fell.

Guard Detective at Hospital.

An ambulance was called and Nitti was taken to the Bridewell hospital. Lang went to a physician's office in the building and, after emergency treatment of his wound, was sent to the John B. Murphy hospital. There a heavy police guard was established in the fear of reprisals against him by Nitti's underlings.

The other detectives, Harry Miller of the mayor's office and Chris Callahan and Michael Shannon of the detective bureau, held in custody the six men who were with Nitti when the raiders entered the office. They are Louis Campagna [Little New York], known as one of the toughest gunmen in Chicago and the bodyguard of Nitti; John Pope, whose real name is Yario, 539 Taylor street; Thomas Hurt, 5121 Fulton street; Louis Massessa, 1040 North Mason avenue; Martin Sanders, 3410 McLean avenue, and Joseph [Hinky Dink] Parrillo, 850 Forquer street.

Police Say Nitti Fired First.

All these gangsters denied that there had been a pistol in the office when the detectives arrived. They declared they had all been lined up against a wall and that Nitti had been shot without making any resistance. But Detectives Miller and Callahan were positive in their statements that Lang acted in self-defense and that the gang leader fired first. They turned over to Chief of Detectives Schoemaker two .32 caliber pistols, one of which had been fired. This weapon, they said, was the one used by Nitti.

The wounded gangster emphatically denied shooting. He remained conscious as he was being taken to the hospital, and was in full possession of his faculties when he was placed on the operating table.

"O, God," he cried, "save me this time!" Then he begged the hospital attendants to "give him a break" and send for his father-in-law, Dr. Gaetano Ronga of 1208 Macalister place, a physician. The request was first denied, but Dr. Ronga later was granted permission by Police Commissioner Allman to see the wounded man.

Quizzed About Mystery Paper.

Questioned by Chief Schoemaker about the paper he had tried to swallow, Nitti replied:

"That's just a lot of bologney."

Meanwhile Chief Schoemaker had taken charge of the paper. Last night scientists at the Northwestern university crime laboratory were striving to decipher it. Perhaps, the police reasoned, it contains the names of men slated to die, or at least important secrets.

At Nitti's request a priest, Father John R. Peterson of St. Casimir's parish, was called to the hospital and administered the last rites for the dying.

Late last night physicians said that Nitti appeared to be very weak. Because of the position of the bullets they were unable to probe for them.

Dr. Ronga, who was accompanied on his visit by another physician of his own choosing, agreed that the mode of treatment was correct.

The father-in-law, however, was bitter about the shooting. He said that Nitti, whose real name is Nitoo—the changed spelling having been adopted by gangsters after he came to Chicago—had been shot from the rear.

"Frank, who is probably dying, told me at the hospital: 'It's a lie; I never had a gun.'" said Dr. Ronga. "I don't know about the office. I think he was in legitimate business. Whatever happens, I shall stand by my own and protest against this shooting."

Mrs. Nitti, who is much younger than her husband, was refused permission to see him when she went to the hospital. Her father said that she was ill and that he had given her a sedative to make her sleep. She was at Dr. Ronga's home.

Gang Business Suspected.

Although the gangsters arrested in the office where the shooting occurred all declared that they had merely dropped in to make bets on the races, or to collect winnings, the police were convinced that the meeting was one for the transaction of gangland business. Records found in the office bore the name of the Quality Flour house, 1109 West Randolph street, and showed large dealings in flour, corn and sugar.

Actually, the investigators said, the company was doing a legitimate business in some respects. They declared that Albert Capone, a brother of Al, had taken over the wholesale flour business that was once handled by the Aiello brothers on the north side before they were erased by guns from the gangland picture. Sales were made to grocers and regularly entered on the journals and ledgers in the office. An adding machine was included in the equipment.

Find Messages in Code.

Among the messages discovered were several in code. There was a carefully drawn map of the 42d ward, north of the river, which is believed to have been used by the old Capone syndicate in its distribution of alcohol and cooking materials. There were gummed papers to use in wrapping large sums of money, the majority being for $1,000 packages of bills. There were bottles which apparently contained samples of liquor.

These discoveries convinced the investigators that Nitti, as the new Napoleon of the Chicago syndicates, used the office regularly as the assembly point for his principal followers. They looked into the renting arrangements and found that the building had leased the space to William M. Brantman, 5240 Sheridan road, an accountant with another suite of offices at 33 North La Salle street.

Brantman said that about six weeks ago he had subleased the office to a man known to him as Fred Smith. He said that he knew of no gang connections of Smith and was satisfied when the latter paid the rent regularly. At the detective bureau Brantman was unable to identify any of the prisoners taken in the raid as his tenant.

Office for Murray Humphries.

It was asserted by the police that Murray Humphries and Jack White, holdovers from the Capone régime, who have seized power in a number of unions and have tried to dominate others by using their control over motor transportation personnel, used the office at times.

Nitti, it is known, has had a hard fight on his hands during the last seven or eight months. The Capone organization, so flourishing in the days of general prosperity and political favor, has been disintegrating since Capone went to prison to serve his 11 year sentence for defrauding the government of income tax.

A hard headed business man, and always regarded as the real brains of the old Capone gang, Nitti has tried to meet the changed conditions by cutting expenses. He has given up some territories that were not profitable. Like any other conservative man of business he has tried to retrench by lowering salaries and by cutting forces.

Other Gangs Cutting In.

This last move in particular is said to have been disastrous in effects, even if necessary. The men let out, accustomed to making fat incomes in the beer and alky traffic, have joined the forces of syndicate rivals. The syndicate, once so powerful, is no longer able to protect its own. The net result has been that Marty Quirk on the south side, the Touhy gang to the northwest, and a horde of little peddlers on the west side have taken some territories that Nitti wanted to retain. There is even a report that the remnant left of the old roaring crew of Capone is threatening to split asunder.

The fall of leaders like "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, whose influence has been greatly cut down by Supervising Police Captain John Stege west of the loop, has been an additional factor against the Nitti organization. Now the little fellows are selling alcohol as low as $10 a five gallon can and Nitti has been trying to hold his price up to $15. Syndicate beer in the loop is still $55 a barrel, but the rivals are selling it for $30 or $35 in the outlying sections.

Police Urged to Shoot.

Added to all these unfavorable factors is the expressed enmity of Mayor Cermak to gang rule and to syndicates of all kinds. Since Policeman Albert J. Magoon was shot to death in a north side speakeasy the mayor has publicly expressed the hope that the police will fire first when dealing with gangsters.

Nitti's lack of color, his precise diction and his cold financial attitude toward his subordinates is said to have made him little liked among them. He was well educated in Italy, was a watchmaker and had a working knowledge of chemistry, but he does not have the magnetism of Capone.

Serves Income Tax Term.

A little over two years ago he pleaded guilty in the federal court to evasion of income tax and was sentenced by Judge Charles E. Woodward to eighteen months in Leavenworth penitentiary. With good behavior time off he was released about April 1 and returned to take up his work. He also paid a fine of $10,000.

The detectives who went to his office yesterday said that they did not at first recognize him. He had shaved off his mustache and no longer wore glasses, as was formerly his custom. They declared he seemed in a fury because he had been interrupted.

At the time of his income tax conviction Nitti displayed his mental caliber with a short speech.

"I have never been guilty of a crime of moral turpitude," he said crisply. "I paid no income tax simply because lawyers could not tell me whether I owed anything or not. But if I owe a debt to society I am ready to pay it."

REVEALS THAT EMPTY STOMACH OFTEN SAVES A WOUNDED GANGSTER

Gangsters and professional gunmen stand a good chance of surviving bullet wounds because of their knowledge that an empty stomach helps them to withstand the shock of bullet wounds and also allows a surgeon to operate at once, if an operation is necessary. This was revealed yesterday by Edward J. Denemark, superintendent of the Bridewell, as he discussed the case of Frank Nitti, gang leader, who was shot yesterday by a policeman.

Physicians said there is slight hope for the recovery of Nitti, who is in the Bridewell hospital, but the fact that his stomach was empty and his physical condition good, gives him a fighting chance, they said.

"I often wondered why gangsters and men who make a habit of living by the gun many times recover from wounds which should prove fatal," said Denemark. "I asked several of these men about it and then I discovered the reason. I investigated their stories through physicians and found them to be correct.

"Several men told me that when they go out to commit robberies or other crimes they always figure on the possibility of being shot. For that reason they go without eating so that if they are shot they are ready for immediate surgical attention."

The police say that gangsters have employed physicians by the year to care for them in the event of gunshot wounds. It is believed that from these physicians gunmen long ago discovered the trick of going without food as an aid to immediate surgery and that this information has been generally disseminated among the underworld.

Police Kill 37 Criminals and Lose 9 of Own Force in 1932; Citizens and Guards Slay 26

MAYOR'S WAR ON DENS KEEPS JUDGES BUSY

Gangsters and Beer Flat Owners in Court.

Municipal judges were busy hearing hoodlum cases yesterday as a result of Mayor Cermak's drive against beer gangsters. Some of the more important underworld characters were able to get short continuances of their cases, but mainly beer flat operators pleaded in vain for more time.

Assistant State's Attorney Dan Covelli said the most flagrant case to come to his attention involved Martin Quirk, who set himself up as the beer boss in three south side districts, and Quirk's terrorist assistant, Fred Farley. The two were taken before Judge Frank M. Padden in Felony court and were ordered to trial next Thursday.

Tells Attack on Joyce.

"Quirk and Farley went into a restaurant just opened by Patrick Joyce at 6440 Cottage Grove avenue," Prosecutor Covelli said. "They told him he would have to take beer from them; that they were the syndicate representatives. Joyce said he didn't intend to sell any beer. They told him he had to sell it. They sent two barrels to his place and then demanded $110. He refused to pay and told them to take the barrels away.

"They beat him with guns, threw him out of his place, and padlocked his door. They told him if he changed his mind to call the syndicate and they would let him open, provided he took their beer.

"Since their arrest we have had to furnish protection to the witnesses and numerous telephone calls have been received by police officials and myself asking us to give Quirk and Farley a break. I'll give them the same kind of a break they gave Joyce."

Eight Gangsters Win Case.

The eight gangsters—Murray Humphries, William (Three Fingered Jack) White, Charles Fischetti, Marcus Looney, William (Klondike) O'Donnell, Paddy Sullivan, William Martin, and Dan Alex—who were arrested in a loop office building before the election, were freed of conspiracy charges in Felony court when Assistant State's Attorney Russell W. Root said proof of the charges was lacking. They had been charged with conspiracy to collect campaign funds to influence an election unlawfully.

Charges of carrying concealed weapons, however, remained against Humphries, White, and Fischetti and they were ordered to trial on Jan. 3.

Dexter Gocha, 27 years old, and Joseph Rutkowski, 28, were fined $200 each by Judge Leon Edelman as keepers of a beer flat at 301 Hill street. Samuel Fossi, 61 years old, keeper of a beer flat at 61 West Superior street, was fined $25.

Edward Barnatto, keeper of a beer flat at 1441 North La Salle street, and Oscar Lante, operator of a flat at 226 Wisconsin street, were placed on probation.

John Zallio and John Buckley, charged with operating a beer flat at 940 North State street; Paul Schook, charged with owning a beer flat at 120 West Illinois street; Vincent Gagliano, alleged keeper of a beer flat at 1708 Sedgwick street, and James Martin, 150 East Erie street, got continuances.

Joseph Butler, reputed member of the alcohol gang responsible for the murder of Policeman Albert Magoon in a beer flat at 2908 North Halsted street, was among the prisoners awaiting further investigation yesterday. Among others held for trial on beer flat charges are Patrick Fitzgerald, 666 North Wells street; Arthur Seaman, 1041 North Franklin street, and Dominick Badama, 941 Orleans street.

BATTLE FOR BEER IN HOUSE TODAY; VOTE THIS WEEK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The battle for beer rapidly approached a climax tonight as house leaders completed final arrangements for bringing the Collier 3.2 per cent bill up for action tomorrow. Debate on the measure is expected to continue throughout the day, with a final vote due Wednesday or Thursday.

On the eve of the opening of the critical fight for quick redemption of the Democratic beer pledge, wet leaders of both parties asserted that the house will celebrate the week before Christmas by placing its stamp of approval on legislation providing for the modification of the Volstead act to bring back legalized beer.

No Beer by Christmas.

While the wets entertained no hope for giving the country legal beer for the holidays, they asserted that a favorable house vote for beer would knock such a dent in the prohibition wall as to assure Volstead act modification not later than Easter and possibly before the Roosevelt inauguration March 4. The vote Wednesday will mark the first time in the twelve years of prohibition that a modification measure has approached a vote with even a fifty-fifty chance for success.

At the end of a day of checking up Democratic votes Majority Leader Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.] and Chairman James W. Collier [Dem., Miss.] of the house ways and means committee, predicted approval of the Collier bill by a safe majority. Mr. Rainey was of the opinion that the vote would come not later than Thursday. Chairman Collier predicted the bill would be approved Wednesday night.

"Everything is set for the battle over the Collier bill," Mr. Rainey said. "We have the votes and we will push it through. We do not intend to introduce gag rule nor to hold night sessions to force a vote. We will, however, rally every possible Democratic vote back of the Democratic beer pledge. An amendment or two may be voted, but you can rest assured the bill will pass."

Dixie Democrats Backslide.

Chairman Collier admitted that many southern Democrats were backsliding from the Democratic beer pledge and would be found voting against the beer bill.

"We will, however," he said, "have a minimum of between 125 and 130 votes. If the Republicans give us the 100 votes they promise, the measure will go through the house like a greased pig. I think the bill will be approved Wednesday afternoon."

Republican wet leaders promised the Democrats tonight that the 100 votes will be forthcoming. Representative William E. Hull [Rep., Ill.] told Majority Leader Rainey that he was confident the Republicans would give the bill at least 105 votes.

Asks Wets Not to Rock Boat.

Wet leaders spent the day attempting to persuade other wets not to rock the boat during the beer debate by introducing pet amendments. There was much talk on the part of Representative F. H. La Guardia, New York radical, about bringing in an amendment limiting sales of beer to bottles or in restaurants.

Another vociferous wet, Representative John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.], was being importuned by his colleagues to refrain from fighting for a higher beer tax. O'Connor was author of the bill voted on last year. Other wets were talking of introducing amendments cutting down the alcoholic content to 2.75 by weight.

"The wets must play ball, stick together and refrain from fighting too vigorously for their pet amendments if we are to win," Representative W. E. Hull [Rep., Ill.] said tonight after a day of interviewing his colleagues.

"The wets can't afford to split up on the eve of victory."

Wets Not Entirely Satisfied.

Another wet leader, who declined to be quoted, said that while there were sufficient wet votes to put over the beer bill the beer advocates would have to put up a united front if they expect success. His opinion was that many wets would vote for the beer bill although not entirely satisfied with its provisions.

The Collier bill provides for beer with a 3.2 per cent alcoholic content by weight and a 4 per cent content by volume. It calls for a $5 a barrel tax designed to raise more than 200 million dollars a year in excise taxes as soon as the breweries can be rehabilitated to fill American demands. Under its provisions beer can be sold in any way not restricted by the states. The measure forbids and sets forth penalties against sale of beer in dry states or the transportation of beer from wet into dry states.

As matters stood tonight Chairman Collier will lead the fight for the bill with Representative Willis C. Hawley [Rep., Ore.], a lame duck and former chairman of the ways and means committee, as the leader of the drys. Majority Leader Rainey will deliver the first call to arms for passage of the bill. An attempt will be made to obtain the consent of the drys for limitation of debate to Tuesday. Wednesday will be left open for amendments, with the vote coming late that afternoon or Thursday.

Should the beer bill win approval Wednesday it would go at once to the senate, where a vote is not expected until after the Christmas holidays.

California's Dry Law Is Dead; Governor Frees 133 Violators

Sacramento, Cal., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Christmas pardons were granted today by Gov. James Rolph to 128 violators of the Wright prohibition enforcement law, which expired last midnight, and to five violators of the Jones act, a state law making it a felony to possess a liquor still.

The pardons were granted, the governor explained, because "the people at the Nov. 8 election expressed their disapproval of the Wright act by voting for its repeal."

Law on Books 10 Years.

With the Wright act repeal measure effective California today is without a state liquor enforcement law for the first time in ten years. The law was repealed by a majority of 800,000.

Six of the pardoned Wright act violators are women, four of whom were convicted in Los Angeles county.

The governor announced he had recommended to the state board of prison terms and paroles that immediate paroles be granted to eleven men serving sentences in San Quentin for violating the Jones still law. Only two of these men were convicted in the north, they being L. Barsi of San Joaquin county and Herman H. Ingram of Tulare.

The governor said he expects to pardon two San Quentin Jones act prisoners because their offenses were of a comparatively minor nature. Gov. Rolph signed the pardons soon after the Wright act repeal measure became effective at midnight. Originally he had planned to sign the papers during regular office hours today.

Worries Over Prisoners.

"Returning to Sacramento by train last night," said Rolph, "I went direct to the executive mansion. After I went to bed I got to thinking that the Wright act law would be dead at midnight and these poor fellows still would be lying in jail. So I got up and dressed, telephoned for some secretaries and went to the capitol. Shortly after midnight I finished signing the pardons."

William A. Smith, the governor's private secretary, was instructed to notify sheriffs by telephone that prisoners given pardons be released at once.

The Wright act pardon diplomas were printed on special forms, suitable, the governor explained, for "framing."

BIG GYROSCOPES HALT TOSSING OF ATLANTIC LINER

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

ABOARD THE S. S. CONTE DI SAVOIA, Dec. 19.—The Sperry gyroscopic stabilizers proved their great value today when Capt. Antonio Lena switched them on. This ship is about four and a half days out of New York on its return to Italy from its maiden voyage to the United States.

The Conte di Savoia had been rolling distressingly in heavy seas. As soon as the stabilizers were turned on the movement ceased as if by magic. By actual measurement, before the stabilizers were working the ship rolled through an arc of 30 degrees. This was reduced by the gyroscopes to 5 degrees, with an occasional peak of 6 degrees. The effect was startling.

Many passengers who had been confined to their cabins by seasickness appeared on deck for the first time. The dining salon, where meals hitherto had been served to the accompaniment of breaking crockery, became as silent as the dining room of a first class hotel. Dancing began immediately.

The gyroscopes were not switched on when the ship left New York because the captain did not wish to place a strain on the dynamos, which were soaked during the mishap on the maiden trip to New York. They were only used for demonstration purposes today and remained in operation for about six hours. Afterward the ship resumed its rolling.

LEAPS THROUGH WINDOW; SHOT.

John Cheresh, 47 years old, was shot and probably fatally wounded yesterday after he had leaped through a window of the Maxwell police station, where he had sought shelter. Policemen Schulman, Kelly, and Quinn, believing Cheresh an escaping prisoner, opened fire when he failed to heed their command to halt.

WIFE CHARGES HUSBAND PLANS LIFE IN ITALY

Mrs. Marie Mugeovi, 2664 Wallace street, who is contesting the divorce suit of her husband, Carmelo, filed a petition in the Superior court yesterday asking that the 33,000 lire which the couple have on deposit in the Bank of Rome, in Italy, be withdrawn and deposited in the United States, "the country in which we are receiving the benefits of life." The petition was contained in an answer to her husband's charges of cruelty and was filed by Attorney Harry X. Cole.

The petition says that the money amounts to $3,000 at the current rate of exchange. It alleges that Carmelo wishes to keep the money in Italy so that he can return there and live, "although he earned it in America." In a cross bill for divorce Mrs. Mugeovi alleges excessive drinking on the part of her husband.

REALTY DEALER ACCUSES RINGER IN TAX "FIX" CASE

Charles Ringer, member of the state tax commission, was charged yesterday with having accepted $1,000 as a member of the now abolished board of assessors on the promise to "reduce" taxes. The charge was made by Carl Edward, real estate man at 6246 South Park avenue, in the trial of a civil suit begun by him to collect the money. Edward started the suit, which has been pending for two years, on the allegation that no reduction was made. The trial began yesterday before Municipal Judge Michael G. Kasper and a jury.

"Ringer telephoned me in 1926 when I had filed objections to my tax bills in the County court," Edward testified. "He told me there was no use of my going through such expensive procedure when he had an organization which would accomplish my object more easily.

"I went to his office and gave him a check payable to cash for $500. He asked me for currency. I cashed the check and returned with the money. I paid him another $500 later and he went with me to the bank to cash the check. He did nothing for me."

Ringer was called as a witness by Edward's attorney to establish his acquaintance with Edward. He said he knew Edward and that the latter had called at his office to complain about his tax bills in 1923, 1926, and 1928. In 1928, Ringer said, Edward proposed that his personal property assessment be marked off the books. Ringer said he refused to do so and Edward said he would go to some one else. The trial will continue today.

Two Damage Suits Begun Against Ex-Judge Eller

The praecipes of two suits for damages growing out of an automobile accident were filed in the Superior court yesterday against Emanuel Eller, former judge of the Circuit court, and his wife, Anna. The complainants are John Bobko, 2420 West Austin avenue, who asks $10,000 and his son, John Jr., who asks $5,000 damages. The accident, according to Attorney F. E. Cash who filed the suits, took place last Labor day at Austin and Western avenues. The lawyer said that Eller was not in his automobile at the time.

Frank J. Loesch Lists Crime Causes and Offers Remedies

Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission and a member of President Hoover's commission on law enforcement, last night discussed the crime problem of the nation. He found nine basic causes and offered a remedy for each, "not so difficult to put forth as tiresome to carry out."

Mr. Loesch, now 80 years old, spoke at the opening of the second annual convention of the national institute of mercenary crime. The meeting was in the ballroom of the home of Mrs. Samuel S. Hutchinson at 6231 Sheridan road. Several hundred attended.

The usual law enforcement, Mr. Loesch said, has failed to check the atrociousness and number of felonies committed throughout the country in the last ten years.

Lists the Crime Causes.

The causes of this condition he listed from "personal experience, wide reading and information which came to me in my several official capacities." These causes are:

1. Largely unassimilable immigrants from eastern and southeastern Europe.
2. The existence of slum districts in larger cities.
3. The eighteenth amendment and prohibition laws.
4. Incompetent, corrupt and politician ridden police.
5. The automobile as a crime breeder.
6. Dishonesty in high finance.
7. Incompetent and inefficient prosecutors.
8. The Negro law breaker.
9. The decline of religion and authority.

Alien immigration has forced difficulties on the peace of cities by bringing in groups unfamiliar with the English language and the principles of our government, Mr. Loesch said. He advised guiding of immigrants to citizenship and teaching of clean politics.

Of the slum problem Mr. Losech said: "Means must be begun and persevered in to extinguish slums. It can be done by preventing their further spread and constructing under some form of organization better housing at low rents with clean streets and breathing places in their midst."

Prohibition was held by Mr. Loesch to be responsible for one-third to one-fourth of the crime wave at its present height. He pointed to demoralization of law enforcers and the growth of gangs.

"Debates in congress and private life indicates some change soon," he said.

Correction of the evils in the police system was suggested by Mr. Loesch through a permanent independent police chief, patrolmen, and detectives. He advocated improvement in ability, scientific crime fighting equipment, and a secret staff unknown to the force and in touch only with the chief.

"Too Lenient with Auto Thieves."

He declared that too much leniency has been shown to automobile thieves. Of dishonesty in high finance he said the pledges made in party platforms give hope for remedial legislation.

He said that improvement in the prosecutors of criminals can only come when they are made appointive officers removable by governors for incompetency and dishonesty in office. The Negro problem would be solved in large measure by better housing, he said. Finally he held that religion must be carried to the masses "not now reached by it in a form which will avoid patronizing them, be manly and straightforward, and educate them by joyous singing and services in small churches to the blessing of better lives."

Henry E. Ayers, former assistant state's attorney in charge of bank prosecutions, spoke of the necessity of revising banking laws. The convention will close today with public meetings in the Medinah Athletic club.

HIGHEST COURT ATTACKS SETTING OF BOOZE TRAPS

Reverses Case from North Carolina.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—In a North Carolina liquor case, in which a workman was enticed by a prohibition agent into selling a half gallon of whisky, eight justices of the United States Supreme court today vied with one another in condemning entrapment by federal officers.

CHARLES E. HUGHES.

Five members of the court, headed by Chief Justice Hughes, declared that the plea of entrapment properly might be raised as a defense.

Three members of the court, in a separate opinion, written by Justice Roberts and concurred in by Justices Brandeis and Stone, went even further, holding that proof of the entrapment of a defendant was sufficient ground to quash the indictment and set that defendant free.

Justice McReynolds, who submitted no opinion, was the sole dissenter.

Reverses Court of Appeals.

The case was the first in which the entrapment issued had been directly passed on by the Supreme court.

The majority opinion, read by the chief justice, reversed the fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, which had upheld the trial judge in refusing to allow the defense of entrapment to go to the jury.

The case was remanded for retrial.

"It is clear," the majority opinion said, "that the evidence was sufficient to warrant a finding that the act for which defendant was prosecuted was instigated by the prohibition agent, that it was the creature of his purpose, that defendant had no previous disposition to commit it, but was an industrious, law abiding citizen, and that the agent lured defendant, otherwise innocent, to its commission by repeated and persistent solicitation, in which he succeeded by taking advantage of the sentiment aroused by reminiscences of their experiences as companions in arms in the world war.

Gross Abuse of Power.

"Such a gross abuse of authority given for the purpose of detecting and punishing crime, and not for the making of criminals, deserves the severest condemnation, but the question whether it precludes prosecution or affords a ground of defense, and, if so, upon what theory, has given rise to conflicting opinions."

Even more vigorous was the separate opinion of Justice Roberts. He concurred in the reversal of the lower court's judgment, but believed that ruling should be predicated on different grounds.

"There is common agreement," the opinion asserted, "that where a law officer envisages a crime, plans it, and activates its commission by one not theretofore intending its perpetration, for the sole purpose of obtaining a victim through indictment, conviction and sentence, the consummation of so revolting a plan ought not to be permitted by any self-respecting tribunal. Public policy forbids such sacrifice of decency."

The case which thus aroused the ire of the justices was described in the briefs and the opinion as follows:

C. V. Sorrells was an employé of the Champion Fiber company of Canton, N. C. He had not missed a pay day since March 1924. On Sunday, July 13, 1930, four men visited him at his home near Clyde, N. C. Fanning Lowe, E. D. Jones, and C. J. Snyder were friends of Sorrells. The fourth who had introduced himself to Lowe as a furniture dealer on vacation and was by Lowe introduced to Sorrells was in reality R. V. Martin, a federal prohibition agent.

Martin told Sorrells he wanted to buy some whisky. Sorrells said he "did not fool with whisky." Sorrells and Jones had served in the 30th division during the war. Martin, telling the truth, said he also had. They swapped reminiscences.

Meanwhile Martin kept pressing Sorrells to get him some liquor. Sorrells finally left, was absent for 20 or 30 minutes, and returned with a half gallon of whisky which he sold to Martin for five dollars.

At the trial where the judge refused to allow the evidence of entrapment to be considered by the jury, another prohibition agent testified he had subsequently made a liquor purchase of Sorrells and that a search had disclosed jars of liquor and a keg of wine hidden in a thicket and in a field not far from Sorrells' house. It was testified Sorrels had the reputation of being a rum runner.

Defense witnesses, on the other hand, swore to Sorrells' good reputation and the three friends testified it was Martin who first asked for whisky and that he was the only one to mention it.

Sorrells was convicted of possession and sale and sentenced to 18 months in prison.

Artifice and stratagem are proper devises to be used by officers in apprehending wrongdoers, Justice Hughes' opinion pointed out.

Agent as Crime Promoter.

"A different question is presented," he declared, "when the criminal design originates with the officials of the government and they implant in the mind of an innocent person the disposition to commit the alleged offense and induce its commission in order that they may prosecute."

The opinion discussed the arguments of the government in the effort to sustain the theory that the lower court properly refused to take cognizance of the entrapment defense.

"If is manifest," the chief justice said, "that these arguments rest entirely upon the letter of the statute. They take no account of the fact that its application in the circumstances under consideration is foreign to its purpose; that such an application is so shocking to the sense of justice, that it has been urged that it is the duty of the court to stop the prosecution in the interest of the government itself, to protect it from the illegal conduct of its own officers and to preserve the purity of its courts."

Entrapment is Increasing.

The separate opinion of Associate Justices Roberts, Brandeis and Stone reached even farther. It pointed out that pleas of entrapment have reached an "amazing total."

"The increasing frequency of the assertion that the defendant was entrapped," Justice Roberts' opinion declared, "is doubtless due to the creation by statute of many new crimes [e. g., sale and transportation of liquor and narcotics] and the correlative establishment of special enforcement bodies for the detection and punishment of offenders. The efforts of members of these forces to obtain arrests and convictions have too often been marked by reprehensible methods."

The three justices departed from the majority in refusing to recognize entrapment as a proper defense. To do so, they declared, would amount to "judicial amendment" of the statutes.

"The doctrine rests, rather," Justice Roberts continued, "on a fundamental rule of public policy. The protection of its own functions and the preservation of the purity of its own temple belong only to the court. It is the province of the court and of the court alone to protect itself and the government from such prostitution of the criminal law.

"The violation of the principles of justice by the entrapment of the unwary into crime should be dealt with by the court no matter by whom or at what stage of the proceedings the facts are brought to its attention.

"Quite properly it may discharge the prisoner upon a writ of habeas corpus. Equally well may it quash the indictment or entertain and try a plea in bar. But its powers do not end there. Proof of the entrapment at any stage of the case, requires the court to stop the prosecution, direct that the indictment be quashed, and the defendant set at liberty."

IN JAIL 2½ YEARS ON ALIMONY CHARGE; SAYS IT'S VIRTUALLY LIFE

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Pleading that he virtually is serving a life sentence for nonpayment of alimony, Umbert Politano asked Supreme Court Justice Charles J. Dodd in Brooklyn today to be released.

"I have been in jail for two and one-half years," he said. "And every day my sentence becomes longer and longer. I have learned that the court orders must be obeyed and I want a chance to get out of here, so I can get a job and then obey the court's order. I have been in this jail longer than anybody else. I have learned to read and write English here."

Politano was committed to the Brooklyn city jail for failure to comply with an order to pay his wife, Mrs. Mary Politano, $12 a week. Justice Dodd directed her to show cause tomorrow why Politano should not be released.

13 ASSEMBLYMEN AGREE ON STATE SALES TAX PLAN

Vote After Parley with Cermak and Horner.

To help Chicago's next plea for relief funds from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, Illinois legislative leaders met yesterday in Corporation Counsel Sexton's office and decided to recommend enactment by the next assembly of a state sales tax "during the present period of economic difficulty."

The thirteen legislators present agreed that the sales tax was the best source of revenue suggested to them. Although the formal resolution they adopted made no mention of the percentage of tax that seemed advisable, the general discussion centered on a 2 per cent tax and it is believed likely that a measure providing for such an impost will be introduced when the new general assembly meets at Springfield in January.

Estimate Amount of Income.

Based on 1929 sales in the state, a 2 per cent tax would yield more than $75,000,000. The legislators at yesterday's meeting seemed to believe that about half that amount could be gained annually even at the present time.

Realizing that some counties would not need all their allocations from the sales tax revenue for charity work, the resolution stated that the assemblymen favored using whatever remained of these allocations to reduce the general school tax. Thus the measure would be in some sense a replacement tax.

When they left the conference, members of the lower house of the legislature departed for Springfield where the house will meet today to vote on the $1,600,000 deficiency relief bond issue, urged by President Emmett Whealan of the Cook county board and others. The bill arises from a decision of the Illinois Supreme court holding that relief bills contracted before the $20,000,000 relief measure was passed early this year cannot be paid from it.

Need for $1,600,000 Bill.

The county had contracted expense totaling $1,600,000 before the $20,000,000 bill went through and has been unable to pay these creditors because of the Supreme court decision. There is no active opposition to the deficiency bill, which has already been passed by the senate. If 102 members of the house—a two-thirds majority—can be assembled, it is predicted that the measure will be passed and the $1,600,000 of bonds issued immediately.

Mayor Cermak sent telegrams to house members asking them to attend today's session. Letters making a like request and bearing the signatures of Speaker David E. Shanahan, Majority Leader Roger F. Little [Rep., Champaign], and Minority Leader M. L. Igoe [Dem., Chicago], and of Mr. Whealan, were put in the mails on Sunday.

Consideration of the deficiency bill will probably wind up the business of the 57th general assembly, but no resolution for sine die adjournment will be presented today because the leaders wish to keep the legislature in session until the new assembly takes hold in January, to care for any emergency matter which might arise without the necessity of a special call.

Horner and Cermak Present.

Gov. Elect Horner and Mayor Cermak both met with the legislators during the sales tax session yesterday. The meeting opened with an explanation from Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the Illinois emergency relief commission, that funds would be exhausted by the end of December and that a further appeal to the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which has already advanced Illinois $25,000,000, would be necessary. The application for funds will be made within the next ten days, he said.

The operation of a sales tax was explained by Dewitt Billman, secretary of the legislative reference bureau. After considerable discussion the assemblymen adopted the resolution favoring such legislation on motion of Senator Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep., Brookfield].

Vote to Combine Election.

After the sales tax conference, Cook county Democratic members-elect of the next general assembly met in the Hotel Sherman and voted unanimously to support a measure to postpone the next Chicago aldermanic elections from Feb. 28 to June 5 so that they will be simultaneous with the judicial election. Consolidation of the two elections would save $750,000, according to estimates of election board officials.

Governor-Elect Horner, Mayor Cermak and two members of the county committee, A. J. Horan and Moe Rosenberg, attended the conference. It was voted to support the program of the next state administration as outlined in the inaugural message of the incoming governor to the legislature.

"The Democratic party is on trial," said Mayor Cermak. "We have been placed in power because the voters believe in the promises we have made to them, and among the promises we have made is that the government of Chicago, Cook county and Illinois shall be administered in an economical manner. This change in election dates is a step in the economy program."

"Illinois," said Governor-Elect Horner, "needs our best efforts in bringing about a reduction of expenditures and the end of extravagances."

No Action on Speakership.

On the speakership no action was taken. It was understood at the meeting that Governor-Elect Horner has an open mind on the matter, but would prefer the speaker to be a downstate member. Among those tentatively mentioned in the gossip were John Devine of Dixon and Arthur Roe of Vandalia. The state central committee is expected to meet shortly and its recommendations will be delivered to the Democratic house caucus in Springfield probably Jan. 6. The Cook county members agreed to support the state party organization.

SWINDLER GIVEN 90 DAYS.

Justa Waith, who says that he is a Cherokee Indian despite his Mexican accent, was sentenced to 90 days in the House of Correction yesterday and fined $10 by Judge Frank M. Padden for obtaining money by telling his victims that he has $20,000 due him from the government for Oklahoma oil lands.

Lewis Supports Wagner in Demand for U. S. Relief

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The senate today witnessed the beginning of the movement for more federal relief legislation. It heard Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] propose a broad program of remedial measures, and listened to Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] describe and defend the modern centralization of government.

"No person now living," said Senator Lewis, "will ever see the end of this new system by which, through necessity, the federal treasury has become the source from which to remedy the critical conditions that now surround us and which promise to last through all the lifetime of the present generation."

Senator Wagner, leading spirit in support of the relief measures passed at the last session of congress, called for more help from the federal government.

Calls Problem Unsolved.

"The most immediate danger confronting the American people," he asserted, "is the spread of the notion in some responsible quarters that the relief problem has been solved and that the scarcity of employment is on the way to its automatic correction."

He criticized the restriction limiting relief loans to states by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to 300 million dollars, and urged that the limitation be removed.

He criticized further the corporation's inclination to "nurse that limited fund" along and its interpretation of the statute under which, he said, it had ruled that a state "is not entitled to a relief loan until it is practically prostrate."

For Longer Term Loans.

He also proposed revision of the law, instructing the corporation to make longer term commitments, so that states might know ahead of time how their relief needs would be met.

Relief of transients, Senator Wagner said, was an acute problem and one lying within the proper sphere of federal action. He advocated the appropriation of a special fund of 10 million dollars to be distributed to communities where the problem of transient relief was found most pressing. Senator Wagner urged that relief loans be turned over to a committee of three persons "having special qualification to deal with the question."

He wished also to liberalize the provisions affecting loans for self-liquidating projects and he proposed lower interest rates for construction loans.

In addition to these changes in the relief and construction act Senator Wagner advocated as domestic policies of recovery [1] the elimination of all child labor and the return to school of the two million children between the age of 10 and 17 who are today at work; [2] establishment of systems of old age retirement insurance which would enable the aged to withdraw from employment and live in moderate comfort and thus make room for the men who are being displaced by machinery; [3] the five day week and the shorter work day; [4] unemployment insurance; [5] a nation-wide system of employment exchanges.

"The senator has pointed out one of the great needs of the hour," said Senator Lewis when Senator Wagner had concluded.

"We have passed forever," the senator from Illinois continued, "that day of ancient distinctions by which our fathers sought to preserve the divisional governments of the republic and at each border line to write the injunction 'Thus far and no farther.'

"There is no reason," Senator Lewis concluded, "if it be the people's money, that the people of the different states should not have the privilege of directing their money to any course where they think it will best serve the interests of the United States and the welfare of its people."

GENEROSITY OF UNCLE SAM WINS FOE OF NEPOTISM

But He Is Unpopular with the Social Set.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Citizens whose only personal contact with the government consists of occasional interviews with the collector of internal revenue have no way of appreciating what a fatherly and helpful government this one really is.

It is pastor if you like, ready to send you free bound copies of the invocations delivered by the chaplain of the house, it is guardian, nurse, little mother and Dutch uncle and it will tell you how to remove a gravy blot from a Sunday vest, what to do until the doctor comes and how to cook a steak, and, possibly furnish the money for the steak.

Write your congressman.

Congressman John Ridley Mitchell of Tennessee represents a farming district and is the ostentatiously plain, county seat, common people, morning neighbor type. He owns a dinner suit but no man can go before his constituents in Tennessee and accuse him of having worn it, ever. When he first came to Washington he thought he might need it for some ceremonial use, but decided that he wouldn't and therefore never unpacked it.

Foe of Nepotism.

Congressman Mitchell won his seat away from his predecessor on a campaign issue of nepotism and has been largely concerned since then with a crusade to abolish the racket which permits members of both houses to draw $4,500 a year for the hire of office help, put their sisters and their cousins and their aunts on the pay roll and hire the actual work done for much less money.

He claimed that one of the members had entered two daughters on the pay roll and sent them abroad to be educated on the money. This attitude has made Mr. Mitchell very unpopular socially with his colleagues and his proposal to reduce the pay for the office to $5,000 a year had practically insured him against opportunities to unpack the dinner suit and dress up.

Furthermore he is pretty ornery about the matter of mileage. He can drive up from Cookville, Tenn., where he lives, to Washington, about 600 miles, in one day, hard, at a cost of about $12 for gas and oil [not counting wear and tear], or in two days, easy, at a further cost of $2.50 for a room, which would be not more than $20 for the round trip. But under the government's mileage plan he is allowed $180 for the travel.

Down with Petty Graft.

If Congressman Mitchell of Tennessee had his way about such things he would save the government more than $2,000,000 a year. He is just hell on ostentation and petty graft, including the allowance of $120 per session, per member for stationery, which he deems much too high and which some of the brothers draw in cash, according to their privilege.

Your correspondent called on Congressman Mitchell but unfortunately found him absent from his office fighting the battle of the people on the floor and therefore talked with his secretary.

There were a pile of books, wrapped for mailing, stacked almost manhigh, on one side of the crowded office, and several mail sacks, crammed with franked literature, on the floor by the congressman's desk.

Just Government Documents.

"Those?" said the secretary. "O, those are just government documents. They just dump them on us and sometimes they lie around a long while and they come and lug them away and store them until they have to burn them up to make room."

The congressman's secretary brought out some samples at random. One was a bound volume of eulogies delivered in the house and published in the newspapers on the sad occasion of the death of a member some time ago. He said this was the customary way to do. Every member who dies in office gets a book containing the resolution of regret, the funeral orations of his colleagues and the newspaper obituaries, to lie around until they have to be burned to make room.

Volumes of Prayers.

Also at random out came a small brown volume on good paper, the cover lettered in gold, entitled "Prayers Offered by the Chaplain, Rev. James Shera Montgomery, D. D., at the Opening of the Daily Sessions of the House of Representatives During the 70th and 71st Congress, 1927-'31." Two pamphlets followed, "George Washington Activities For 4-H clubs, published under direction of United States George Washington bicentennial commission," and "The Character of George Washington, a speech by Daniel Webster, reprinted for the United States George Washington bicentennial commission."

"But these are nothing," Mr. Mitchell's secretary said brightly. "Look at this," hauling out a volume about three inches thick entitled, "Writings of George Washington" published at government expense. "There's four volumes of that up to now. I understand there will be twenty volumes that big when the series is complete. Anybody can have a set. Any congressman can send the whole set to every voter in his district.

"Now, look at this," and he produced a leaflet catalogue entitled "List of Available Farmers' Bulletins and Leaflets of the United States Department of Agriculture," a fascinating document of 800 descriptive titles, including, "Fly Traps and their Operation," "Guinea Pigs," "School Lunches," "Fleas and Their Control," and "Social Aspects of Recreation Places."

Free to Everybody.

"Can a constituent get all these, free?"

"Not only those but all these," and here a red book about 15 by 20 inches and three inches thick came off a shelf, 2,400 pages of lists of free government documents, covering every conceivable aspect of human existence. "How to Build a Rat Proof Chicken Coop, How to Put Up a Lightning Rod, How to Make a Chimney Draw. Anything you want to know. Ask the government for a book about it."

Congressman Mitchell voted for the cash payment of the bonus last summer and the way he figured it was like this: He just figured that the best way to relieve the people was to give the service men some money to spend. Then the farmer would pay the grocer and he would pay the lawyer and the lawyer would pay the doctor and the money would get circulated around again.

His district didn't pay much into the treasury, of course, but how can people pay income tax when they aren't making any income? Build up the income and they will pay the tax and there's your prosperity back again. And look at the saving if he could get through his bill against nepotism and the mileage and stationery rackets.

Mr. Mitchell's secretary is about to apply to the government for a few free snakes. The government gives away elk, deer and bison out of surplus every now and again and he wants some king snakes to see if they will kill the rattlers and copperheads down his way.

Ask the government.

Fiddling Smithy Dies at Age 101

UNCLE JOHN HAWKINS.

Known for Jigging

Richmond, Ind., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Uncle John Hawkins, 101, Wayne county blacksmith and fiddler, is dead. He was famous all over the United States for his jigging and fiddling in recreation away from his task of making plowshares at his little shop at Middleboro, five miles north of here.

The centenarian was born on a farm near Richmond. At 2 his parents moved to Middleboro. When he was 8, under tutorage of his father, he began his training before the forge, and when 12 he drove his first set of shoes on a horse. He used tobacco all his life and in the "old days" liked to drink whisky now and then.

"But," he said recently, "I would not think of drinking the sort of stuff they have these days. I think it would shorten my life."

NAVY WARNED TO KEEP MUM ABOUT TRADE DISCOUNTS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—A circular urging naval officers to "keep mum" about the auto tires and tubes they are privileged to buy at reduced rates in navy commissaries was made public today by Representative Joseph B. Shannon [Dem., Mo.], during hearings before the special house committee investigating government competition with private business.

Mr. Shannon, chairman of the committee, termed it an "astounding document." It not only offered the tires and tubes at "prices approximately 50 per cent of the average retail price," he declared, but asked the "patrons" of the commissaries to keep information concerning their purchase "strictly confidential."

Capt. Brantz Mayer of the navy supply corps was testifying before the committee. Said Mr. Shannon to him:

"Hereafter when you naval officers protest against salary cuts, tell the committee on appropriations you get your tires fifty per cent cheaper than ordinary citizens get them."

In two minutes he heard the evidence of two witnesses and granted a decree nisi to a petitioner. Lord Merrivale's previous record in granting a decree nisi was three and one-half minutes.

TAX ATTORNEY'S CONTRACT VOID, LA BUY ASSERTS

Demands County Refuse to Pay Winston.

Charges that Attorney Edward M. Winston, who acted for the county commissioners in attempting to force collection of delinquent real estate taxes, had violated his agreement and rendered his contract void were made yesterday by Commissioner Walter J. LaBuy. He announced that he would offer a resolution today asking the county board to consider Winston's contract invalid from its inception. The contract ran from May, 1931, to last Nov. 30.

Commissioner LaBuy said he would ask the board to repudiate any debt which remains unpaid to Winston and his associates under the terms of the contract. An examination of the county treasurer's records disclosed that Winston has drawn only expense money and that the greater part of his fees have not been paid him.

LaBuy Has Arguments Ready.

Commissioner LaBuy said that he was prepared to sustain his position with a number of legal arguments. He said that one of the first statutory provisions concerning the powers of the county commissioners limited all expenditures to appropriations made in the annual budget. The board, he explained, is powerless to spend any other money during the year.

The contract with Winston was made almost in the middle of the the board's fiscal year and the board was informed that since all Winston's pay was to be on a contingent fee basis the law was not violated, La Buy said. He pointed out, however, that a provision in the contract grants Winston $800 personal expenses and $700 office expenses during the first few months regardless of his collections. This paragraph creates a definite obligation for the board and voids the agreement, LaBuy said.

Charges Law Ignored.

He declared that Winston had failed to abide by the foreclosure laws which provide that no property may be taken into court until two forfeitures have been recorded against it. In the case of taxes, the commissioner said, two years must elapse during which no taxes are paid and the property is sold by the county treasurer before a foreclosure suit may be begun.

In many suits, LaBuy said, Winston had disregarded this fact and pressed his claims against property on which only one year's taxes were unpaid. Recently County Judge Jarecki announced that he had original jurisdiction in all tax cases until the two years have passed.

Assails Debt Actions.

Winston also filed a number of actions in debt in an effort to collect taxes in the Circuit and Superior courts, LaBuy said. Such suits differ from foreclosure suits in that debt actions are against individuals while foreclosures are against property. Winston's contract with the county makes no mention of suits against individuals, LaBuy said.

"This conflict of authority between the Superior and Circuit courts and Judge Jarecki in the County court would never have occurred if all tax collection agencies were centralized under one head," the commissioner said.

2 Accidental Shots Fired; Second Strikes Visitor

Harry Walker, 27 years old, of 4527 Drexel boulevard, a chauffeur, was shot accidentally last night while visiting at the home of Adam Norbutt, 870 East 39th street. Norbutt was showing Walker an automatic pistol which fired unexpectedly. This bullet missed Walker. Excited, Norbutt grasped the gun again, and once more it fired. The second bullet penetrated Walker's chest. At Chicago Memorial hospital surgeons said he might die.

SOUTH DAKOTA SELLS 5,500,000 ACRES OF FARM LAND FOR TAX

Pierre, S. D., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Between 5,500,000 and 7,350,000 acres of South Dakota agricultural land were for sale today under the auctioneer's hammer as county sheriffs held the annual delinquent tax sales. Besides the agricultural lands many pieces of city property were to be sold for taxes.

A total of 36,506,024 acres of land was assessed in 1931 for taxes this year and B. W. Baer, state tax director, estimated that taxes were delinquent on from 25 to 30 per cent of this acreage. He believed, however, that buyers would be few and that most of the land would not be sold.

The counties probably will take tax deeds to a large portion of the unsold delinquent lands. Baer estimated that more than 20 per cent of the state's total agricultural acreage would be removed from the tax lists after the counties took tax titles.

4 OFFICERS SHOT, 3 NEGROES SLAIN IN DIXIE BATTLE

Effort to Serve Paper Starts Fight.

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Sheriff Sam Stearns of Montgomery said on his return here tonight from Tallassee that three Negroes had been killed in skirmishes with officers and possemen in Tallapoosa county today and that six had been arrested.

Four deputies were wounded early in the afternoon when they sought to attach live stock belonging to Cliff Jemes, Negro farmer, about 12 miles east of Tallassee.

Sheriff Stearns said the bodies of two of the Negroes were found on a hillside and that of the third in a yard. He said three of the six arrested had been placed in jail at Tuskegee and Sheriff Hasty Golden of Wetumpka had charge of the others.

Ringleaders Are Killed.

The names of two of the dead men were given as Judson Simpson and John McMullen, farm hands. The authorities said they were ringleaders in the disturbance, which occurred when four deputies went to the house of Jemes.

Officers who took part in the encounter expressed belief the trouble resulted from the distribution of radical literature in this section recently.

As the heavily armed possees continued their search for the Negroes, Gov. B. M. Miller at Montgomery ordered Col. Hartley Moon, adjutant general of the Alabama National Guard, to Tallassee to see what police protection might be needed.

Second Case of Kind.

The shooting occurred several miles from the scene of another disturbance in July, 1931, in which an officer was shot and a Negro killed when the sheriff's force attempted to disperse an alleged meeting of the share croppers' union.

Deputies D. A. Ware and Cliff Elder were wounded seriously today and two fellow officers, "Stool" Allford and J. M. Gantt, former sheriff of the county, were less seriously hurt.

U. S. HIGH COURT NAMES MASTER FOR CANAL QUIZ

Acts on Four States' Plea for Receiver.

The sanitary district of Chicago received word from Washington yesterday that the United States Supreme court has appointed a master in chancery to look into its activities. The special master, Edward F. McClennen, a Boston attorney, will make the investigation in connection with the application of various lake states for the appointment of a receiver.

"We'll welcome the master and show him we haven't the funds to carry out our projects," asserted Thomas J. Bowler, president of the district. "You can't take the shirt off a naked man."

Four States Oppose District.

Four lake states, Wisconsin, Ohio, Minnesota and Michigan, in their joint application, charge that the district has willfully refused to carry out the terms of the Supreme court, under which the water diversion was to be reduced to 1,500 cubic feet a second by 1938.

Mr. Bowler pointed out that more than $20,000,000 remains unpaid on the district's tax levies for 1928, 1929 and 1930, and 1931 taxes are now being extended.

"We have $42,000,000 worth of bonds for sale," said Mr. Bowler, "but there isn't a buyer for any part of them who will give us a fair price. There aren't any other municipalities in better shape, as far as their bonds are concerned."

Seek 36 Million U. S. Loan.

The district has applied for a loan of $36,450,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. In protesting against the delay in acting on the loan Mr. Bowler charged the corporation with discriminating in favor of California. He called attention to the loan of 60 million dollars for a bridge connecting Oakland and San Francisco, to be operated on a toll basis.

"They say they will charge a toll to prove that their project is self-liquidating without taxes," Mr. Bowler declared. "But a toll is taxation. There's a gasoline tax, but it never shows up on the tax bill."

Master McClennen was given authority to subpoena witnesses and take evidence necessary to answer a series of questions of the court as to the cause for delay in the construction of controlling works in the Chicago river and in the building of sewage disposal plants.

Seize Youth Trying to Pawn Mother's Jewelry

Richard J. Caron, 18 years old, son of O. J. Caron, of 442 Wellington avenue, was held last night by police of Rockford, Ill., for having tried to pawn a $3,000 diamond bracelet belonging to his mother. The youth appeared at several pawnshops in Rockford yesterday, trying to dispose of the jewelry. While at the U. S. Loan company, he was approached by policemen. He fled, but was seized a block away. Young Caron told police, they said, that he had taken the bracelet from his mother's room a week ago because he needed money. Mr. Caron advised the police to hold the youth until he called for him.

HOUSE VOTES $30,000 TO MEXICO FOR TWO YOUTHS SLAIN IN U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The house of representatives today voted $30,000 to the Mexican government as an "act of grace" on the part of this country in compensation for the deaths of Emilio Cortez Rubio and Manuel Gomez, Mexican youths who were killed in July, 1931, by two Oklahoma deputy sheriffs. Rubio was a cousin of former President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico. Both were students at an American college and were returning home.

A similar resolution, providing $15,000 for the family of each of the dead youths, has been introduced and now is awaiting action in the senate.

The measure approved by the house today was drafted by the state department and submitted through the house committee on foreign affairs with the statement that the "principle involved is not new but has been approved by the congress in numerous instances."

Rubio and Gomez were shot by Deputy Sheriff William E. Guess and Cecil Crosby near Ardmore, Okla. The killing took place during a period when that section of Oklahoma was experiencing a series of holdups, and after the Mexican youths had displayed loaded firearms to the law officers. Both deputies were tried in court and acquitted for the killings.

Representative William W. Hastings [Dem., Okla.], opposing passage of the resolution, today declared that the deputies displayed no malice toward the Mexican youths, but had fired the fatal shots believing the boys were about to turn firearms on them.

"This is a proposition to contribute $30,000 toward good will between the United States and Mexico," said Mr. Hastings. "That's all it is. The courts of Oklahoma had the facts in the case, investigated them thoroughly and acquitted the two deputies of any wrong."

BRITAIN CLAIMS U. S. HAS AGREED TO DEBT PARLEY

Announcement Made in House of Commons.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The United States has agreed to a reëxamination of the question of European war debts. This can be the only meaning of an answer made by Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council and lord privy seal, in the house of commons today.

The question was put by Smedley Crooke, Conservative, who asked if, in order to facilitate payment of war debts to America, Britain would consider the advisability of suggesting to the governments of France, Italy, Belgium, and Germany that a conference be convened to consider common action to render the balance of trade between Europe and the United States more favorable to the former.

Declines to Call Parley.

"The United States government has agreed with his majesty's government upon a joint examination of the whole question," Baldwin replied. "His majesty's government hopes that the discussions may be initiated at an early date. In these circumstances, I do not think the course suggested would be appropriate at the present time."

Baldwin refused to say any more. The foreign office disclaimed all knowledge of any form of agreement other than the vague invitation contained in President's Hoover's note, but it is quite possible that Baldwin, Prime Minister MacDonald, President Hoover, and Secretary of State Stimson may have short circuited the usual diplomatic channels and made arrangements over the trans-Atlantic telephone, as has been done before without the knowledge of their professional advisers.

British Pleased by Message.

LONDON, Dec. 20 [Tuesday.]—(AP)—President Hoover's message to congress on the war debts question was an outstanding feature of this morning's papers. Comment, however, was confined to two or three papers.

"The message as a whole, as holding out promise of action without the loss of time, is welcome indeed to a country which, like Britain, has paid what is due in the hope of securing reconsideration on the best terms obtainable," the Telegraph said.

The paper expresses astonishment at the "change of mind" which it says it discovers in the President. "For those who recollect the ineffable satisfaction with America's lot which was inherited by Hoover from Coolidge, the change in tone is almost startling in its completeness," the paper says.

The Telegraph further said that the message shows that Hoover is being "completely cured of the delusion that his country is able to stand on its own feet economically in happy detachment from the troubles of the rest of the world."

Calls Action Courageous.

The News-Chronicle uses as the caption for its story on the message: "What Will Congress Say?"

This newspaper said the President's announcement of his intention to continue debt negotiations whatever congress may say or do is "courageous and deserves gratitude, even admiration."

The News-Chronicle, however, regards with misgiving the character of President Hoover's proposed machinery and thinks it a mistake to exclude defaulting nations, since "no settlement which is not a world settlement can be really effective."

Disapproval is also voiced by the News-Chronicle to the linking of the debts controversy with the economic conference, but the paper's main misgiving is that even if a settlement were made it will be vain if congress will not accept it.

YULE GREETINGS SENT DISABLED VETS BY HOOVER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—To disabled veterans of America's wars President Hoover today extended Christmas greetings and a hope that they will be quickly restored to health. His yuletide message said:

"Once more it is my privilege to send to you my cordial Christmas greetings and an earnest wish that the new year will bring you restoration of health and much happiness.

"Your country's continued remembrance of your sacrifices in its behalf is evidenced in the establishment and maintenance of a vast service dedicated to your needs; its gratitude and affection you have always.

"That the new year may bring you many blessings and a complete return to health is my heartfelt wish."

Text of President Hoover's Message to Congress on International Debts

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Here is President Hoover's message to congress on the war debts:

"I indicated in my message on the state of the union of Dec. 6 that I should communicate further information to the congress. Accordingly I wish now to comunicate certain questions which have arisen during the last few days in connection with the war debts. These questions, however, cannot be considered apart from the grave world economic situation as it affects the United States and the broader policies we should pursue in dealing with them.

"While it is difficult in any analysis of world economic forces to separate the cause from the effect or the symptom from the disease, or to separate one segment of a vicious cycle from another, we must begin somewhere by determination of our objectives.

Must Restore Price Levels.

"It is certain that the most urgent economic effort still before the world is the restoration of price levels. The undue and continued fall in prices and trade obviously have many origins. One dangerous consequence, however, is visible enough in the increased difficulties which are arising between many debtors and creditors. The values behind a multitude of securities are lessened, the income of debtors is insufficient to meet their obligations, creditors are unable to undertake new commitments for fear of the safety of present undertakings.

"It is not enough to say that the fall in prices is due to decreased consumption and thus the sole remedy is the adjustment by reduced production. That is in part true, but decreased consumption is brought about by certain economic forces which, if overcome, would result in a great measure of recovery of consumption and thus recovery from the depression.

Condition Is World Wide.

"Any competent study of the causes of continued abnormal levels of prices would at once establish the fact that the general price movement is world wide in character and international influences therefore have a part in them. Further exploration in this field brings us at once to the fact that price levels have been seriously affected by abandonment of the gold standard by many countries and the consequent instability and depreciation of foreign currencies.

"These fluctuations in themselves, through the uncertainties they create, stifle trade, cause invasions of unnatural marketing territory, result in arbitrary trade restrictions and ultimate diminshed consumption of goods, followed by a further fall in prices.

"The origins of currency instability and depreciation reach back again to economic weaknesses rooted in the world war, which have culminated in many countries in anxieties in regard to their financial institutions, the flight of capital, denudation of gold reserves, and consequent jeopardy to currencies.

Restrict Movement of Gold.

"These events have been followed by restrictions on the movement of gold and exchange in frantic attempts to protect their currencies and credit structures. Restrictions have not alone been put upon the movement of gold and exchange but they have been imposed upon imports of goods in endeavor to prevent the spending of undue sums abroad by their nationals as a further precaution to prevent the outflow of gold reserves and thus undermining currency.

"These steps have again reduced consumption and diminshed prices and are but parts of the vicious cycles which must be broken at some point if we are to assure economic recovery.

"We have abundant proof of the effect of these forces within our own borders. The depreciation of foreign currencies lowers the cost of production abroad compared to our costs of production, thus undermining the effect of our protective tariffs. Prices of agricultural and other commodities in the United States are being seriously affected and thousands of our workers are today being thrown out of employment through the invasion of such goods.

Must Stabilize Currencies.

"I concur in the conclusions of many thoughtful persons that one of the first and most fundamental points of attack is to reëstablish stability of currencies and foreign exchange and thereby release an infinite number of barriers against the movement of commodities, the general effect of which would be to raise the price of commodities throughout the world. It must be realized, however, that many countries have been forced to permit their currencies to depreciate; it has not been a matter of choice.

"I am well aware that many factors which bear upon the problem are purely domestic in many countries, but the time has come when concerted action between nations should be taken in an endeavor to meet these primary questions. While the gold standard has worked badly since the war due to the huge economic dislocations of the war, yet it is still the only practicable basis of international settlements and monetary stability so far as the more advanced industrial nations are concerned.

"The larger use of silver as a supplementary currency would aid to stability in many quarters of the world. In any event, it is a certainty that trade and prices must be disorganized until some method of monetary and exchange stability is attained. It seems impossible to secure such result by the individual and separate action of different countries, each striving for separate defense.

World Economic Conference.

"It is for the purpose of discussing these and other matters most vital to us and the rest of the world that we have joined in the world economic conference, where the means and measures for the turning of the tide of business and price levels through remedy to some of these destructive forces can be fully and effectively considered and if possible undertaken simultaneously between nations.

"The reduction of world armament also has a bearing upon these questions. The stupendous increase in military expenditures since before the war is a large factor in world wide unbalanced national budgets, with that consequent contribution to instable credit and currencies and to the loss of world confidence in political stability. While these questions are not a part of the work proposed for the economic conference, cognizance of its progress and possibilities must be ever in the minds of those dealing with the other questions.

"The problem of the war debts to the United States has entered into this world situation. It is my belief that their importance, relative to the other world economic forces in action is exaggerated. Nevertheless, in times of deep depression some nations are unable to pay and in some cases payments do weigh heavily upon foreign exchange and currency stability. In dealing with an economically sick world many factors become distorted in their relative importance and the emotions of peoples must be taken into account.

Conference on Debts Asked.

"As congress is aware, the principal debtor nations recently requested that the December payments on these debts should be postponed and that we should undertake an exchange of views upon possible revision in the light of altered world conditions.

"We have declined to postpone this payment, as we considered that such action [a] would amount to practical breakdown of the integrity of these agreements; [b] would impose an abandonment of the national policies of dealing with these obligations separately with each nation; [c] would create a situation where debts would have been regarded as being a counterpart of German reparations and indemnities, and thus not only destroy their individual character and obligation but become an effective transfer of German reparations to the American taxpayer; [d] would be no real relief to the world situation without consideration of the destructive forces militating against economic recovery; [e] would not be a proper call upon the American people to further sacrifices unless there were definite compensations.

"It is essential in our national interest that we accept none of these implications and undertake no commitments before these economic and other problems are canvassed and, so far as possible, are solved.

Six Nations Pay.

"Of the total of about 125½ million dollars due, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Great Britain, Italy, Latvia, and Lithuania have met payments amounting to, $98,685,910 despite the difficulties inherent in the times. Austria, Belgium, Esthonia, France, Greece, Hungary, and Poland have not made their payments.

"In the case of some of these countries such failure was unquestionably due to inability in the present situation to make the payments contemplated by the agreements.

"Certain nations have specifically stated that they do not see their way clear to make payments under these agreements for the future. Thus our government and our people are confronted with the realities of a situation in connection with the debts not heretofore contemplated.

Have Money for Armaments.

"It is not necessary for me at this time to enter upon the subject of the origins of these debts, the sacrifices already made by the American people, the respective capacities of other governments to pay, or to answer the arguments put forward which look toward cancellation of these obligations.

"I may, however, point out that except in one country the taxation required for the payments upon the debts owing to our government does not exceed one-quarter of the amounts now being imposed to support their military establishments. As their maintained armaments call for a large increase in expenditures on our defensive forces beyond those before the war, the American people naturally feel that cancellation of these debts would give us no relief from arms, but only free large sums for further military preparations abroad.

"Further, it is not amiss to note that the contention that payment of these debts is confined to direct shipment of goods or payment in gold is not a proper representation, since in normal times triangular trade is a very large factor in world exchanges, nor is any presentation of the trade balance situation complete without taking into account services, as, for instance, American tourist expenditure and emigrant remittances alone to most of the debtor countries exceed the amount of payments.

Sacrifice in Moratorium.

"I may also mention that our country made double the total sacrifice of any other nation in bringing about the moratorium, which served to prevent the collapse of many nations of Europe with its reactions upon the world. This act of good will on our part must not now be made either the excuse or opportunity for demanding still larger sacrifices.

"My views are well known; I will not entertain the thought of cancellation. I believe that whatever further sacrifices the American people might make by way of adjustment of cash payments must be compensated by definite benefits in markets and otherwise.

"In any event in protection to our own vital interests, as good neighbors and in accord with our traditional duty as wise and fair creditors, whether to individuals or nations, we must honor the request for discussion of these questions by nations who have sought to maintain their obligations to us.

"The decision heretofore reached to exclude debt questions from the coming world economic conference or from any collective conference with our debtors is wise, as these are obligations subject only to discussion with individual nations and should not form part of a collective discussion or of discussion among many nations not affected, yet it seems clear that the successful outcome of the economic conference would be greatly furthered if the debt problem were explored in advance, even though final agreement might well be contingent on the satisfactory solution of economic and armament questions in which our country has direct interest.

Lists Conclusions.

"Thus from this present complex situation certain definite conclusions are unavoidable:

"1. A number of the most serious problems have now arisen and we are bound to recognize and deal with them.

"2. It is of great importance that preparatory action should be taken at once; otherwise time will be lost while destructive forces are continuing against our agriculture, employment, and business.

"3. Adequate and proper machinery for dealing with them must be created. It is clear that ordinary diplomatic agencies and facilities are not suitable for the conduct of negotiations which can best be carried on across the table by specially qualified representatives.

"4. As I have pointed out, the discussion of debts is necessarily connected with the solution of major problems at the world economic conference and the arms conference. The ideal way would therefore seem to be that some of our representatives in these matters should be selected at once who can perform both these functions of preparing for the world economic conference and should exchange views upon the debt questions with certain nations at once and to advise upon the course to be pursued as to others.

Connection with Arms Conference.

"It would be an advantage for some of them to be associated with the arms conference. Some part of the delegates appointed for this purpose could well be selected from the members of the congress. On the side of the executive this is no derogation of either executive authority or independence; on the side of the congress it is no commitment but provides for the subsequent presentation to the congress of the deliberations, intricacies, reasoning and facts upon which recommendations have been based and is of first importance in enabling the congress to give adequate consideration to such conclusions.

"5. Discussions in respect to both debt questions and the world economic conference cannot be concluded during my administration, yet the economic situation in the world necessitates the preliminary work essential to its success. The undertaking of these preliminary questions should not be delayed until after March 4.

"I propose, therefore, to seek the coöperation of President Elect Roosevelt in the organization of machinery for advancement of consideration of these problems.

Recommended Debt Commission.

"A year ago I requested that the congress should authorize the creation of a debt commission to deal with situations which were bound to arise. The congress did not consider this wise. In the situation as it has developed it appears necessary for the executive to proceed. Obviously any conclusions would be subject to approval by the congress.

"On the other hand should the congress prefer to authorize by legislative enactment a commission set up along the lines above indicated it would meet my hearty approval.

"I had occasion recently in connection with these grave problems to lay down certain basic principles:

"If our civilization is to be perpetuated, the great causes of world peace, world disarmament, and world recovery must prevail. They cannot prevail until a path to their attainment is built upon honest friendship, mutual confidence, and proper coöperation among the nations.

Must Think of Future.

"Those immense objectives upon which the future and welfare of all mankind depend must be ever in our thought in dealing with immediate and difficult problems. The solution of each of these, upon the basis of an understanding reached after frank and fair discussion, in and of itself strengthens the foundation of the edifice of world progress we seek to erect; whereas our failure to approach difficulties and differences among nations in such a spirit serves but to undermine constructive effort.

"Peace and honest friendship with all nations have been the cardinal principles by which we have ever guided our foreign relations. They are the stars by which the world must today guide its course—a world in which our country must assume its share of leadership and responsibility.

"The situation is one of such urgency that we require national solidarity and national coöperation if we are to serve the welfare of the American people and indeed if we are to conquer the forces which today threaten the very foundations of civilization."

HOOVER TO SEEK ROOSEVELT'S AID ON DEBT PARLEY

Tells Congress His Plan for Adjustment.

Arkansas, Democratic leader of the senate:

"I concur in the opinion expressed by the President that the restoration of price levels and the stabilization of exchanges are the key to recovery. With respect to an economic conference, I do not see how it can succeed unless France and other nations, admittedly able to pay, should first meet their obligations of Dec. 15.

"The President, of course, is empowered to choose his own agents, and since he has not recommended action by congress in that regard I have no comment to make on that phase of the message, further than to say that it would seem that if discussions are to proceed separately on our part with various debtors existing diplomatic agencies might well be availed of."

Borah Favors Discussion.

Senator William E. Borah [Rad. Rep., Ida.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, said he favored a discussion with the debtors if for no other reason than as a matter of courtesy.

"But it seems to me," he went on, "that it will only end in discussion unless other questions than that of debts are included. If we can have a program which will restore the world markets, restore the monetary systems and settle armaments, then there is justification for discussing debts, and no other that I know of.

"To illustrate: About thirty nations are off the gold standard. We are still on the go' standard. That fact is destroying the last hope the farmer has for the restoration of prices. What can be gained by discussing debts unless the discussion includes all these questions? I should think the world's condition is sufficiently serious to enable us to get away from the procedure which we have been following for the last eighteen years and adopt a procedure commensurate with the awful situation with which we have to deal."

Harrison Praises Message.

Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] called the message an "admirable state paper" and said he had "no objection to it so long as it does not require reconsitution of the debt commission which congress would not consent to anyway." He saw no reason for "mixing up debts with reparations and armaments."

Representative Adolph J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.] said the President "is merely trying to do by indirection what congress would not do last year."

FLORIDA PLANS WELCOME FOR BADGER ROBIN

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 19.—(AP)—White haired Police Chief Abel J. Roberts, 49 years on the force, will welcome with suitable ceremonies a robin being shipped here from Racine, Wis.

"Sure, that's fine," said the veteran chief when told tonight that Grover C. Lutter, Racine police chief, was sending to him a robin that suffered from the Wisconsin cold.

"We'll provide a suitable welcome for the little visitor. We will set it free to join others of the feathered legions that annually come to Florida when the cold waves hit the north."

Just what the welcome would be, the chief had not decided.

INDIAN PRINCE TOWED GIRL HE MET ON LINER

ROME, Dec. 19.—(AP)—A shipboard romance between an Indian prince and the ship's stenographer is to result in their marriage, it was announced today.

Lah Vlaska, born at Pola, according to her sister, met the maharaja of Bikaner, Sir Yodig Mohammed Khan, aboard the steamer Victoria a few months ago on a voyage to India, and soon they will be married in the Mussulman rites at Bikaner.

The bride to be, having obtained her father's consent, is returning to Bombay for her wedding, but meantime she arranged that her sister should replace her as the ship's stenographer.

LEWIS OPPOSES ANY U. S. PARLEY IF IT'S TO BE HELD ABROAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—In the minds of European nations, Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] told the senate today, the chief purpose behind the proposed international economic conference is to unseat the United States from its position of world economy and financial supremacy.

Under the guise of international coöperation, the Illinois senator said, the nations indebted to this country hope to win an agreement whereby they will be able to pay in goods, thus disrupting American industry. They hope, he said, to obtain downward revisions of the American tariff, pull the United States from its position on a gold standard, and link this country in a world trade program calculated to make America only one of many nations indebted.

"It is so apparent that these devices are again afoot," said Senator Lewis, "that I suggest that the President—this one or the next one—shall not allow any economic conference or any other conference in which we are to participate to be held in any foreign land."

BRITISH LAUNCH RADIO PROGRAMS FOR THE EMPIRE

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Radio forged a new link around the British empire today when the first "empire" broadcast was sent half way around the earth from the British Broadcasting corporation's station at Daventry.

At 9:30 a. m. the booming notes of Big Ben were relayed to Australia, where it was 7:30 p. m. Programs will be transmitted every day on special low wave lengths to far off dominion colonies.

Two hour programs will be sent each morning to Australia, where they will be heard by evening listeners. Two hours each afternoon will be used in broadcasting to India, where it also will be evening, and then two hours in the evening to South Africa and West Africa and finally two hours to Canada between 1 and 3 o'clock in the morning, when it will be evening across the Atlantic. The experiment will culminate on Christmas, when King George will broadcast a message to his entire empire.

FOUND FROZEN TO DEATH.

Tell City, Ind., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—David Mitchell, 47, was found dead today at the foot of a cliff near Derby by his brother, Frank Mitchell. The body was near a twenty-five foot ladder Mitchell used to climb the cliff to reach a dwelling. Physicians said he had been knocked unconscious and froze to death.

GREECE DEMANDS 'ARBITRATION' ON AMERICAN LOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Dec. 19.—The Greek government today instructed Charalambos Simopoulos, its minister at Washington, D. C., to inform the state department that it is holding at Washington's disposal the $440,000 interest due on the $12,000,000 refugee loan of 1929, but will not hand over the money until the question of whether the loan was a war loan or a commercial loan has been decided by arbitration.

Greece proposes that the United States choose the method of arbitration, but suggests the permanent court of justice at The Hague. Minister Simopoulos was instructed to tell the American government that all political parties in Greece solidly maintain that the loan was a "war loan," although it was negotiated in 1929.

At the same time the Greek government instructed its representative at London to inform the British government that it would pay 30 per cent of the coupons due on the $30,000,000 commercial refugee loan floated by London bankers in 1924.

FRENCH PLEASED BY HOOVER PLAN FOR DEBT PARLEY

Message Provides Just What They Want.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 19.—President Hoover's message to congress today dealing with the creation of a war debt commission was received here late tonight and produced a somewhat favorable impression.

Although Premier Joseph Paul-Boncour and his aides in the new French government have not had time to study the message thoroughly, the feeling exists in governmental quarters that it may possibly modify the present aspect of the debt situation.

Just What the French Want.

The passage in which Hoover comes out against separate diplomatic conversations with individual debtors and recommends instead a conference linking disarmament and tariffs with the entire debt problem is just exactly what the French are asking for, although they want a full dress conference and not a study committee.

Thus, the Hoover message comes fairly close to filling the conditions laid down by the resolution passed by the chamber of deputies last Wednesday morning immediately after it had voted down Herriot's proposal to pay with reservations the $19,261,432 installment due on Dec. 15. It is believed the gap might be filled by diplomatic negotiations—even with a government as weak as Paul-Boncour's.

Reveal Default Unnecessary.

At the same time it was evident today that the debt policy of the new government will consist mainly in stalling for time. There is a strong tendency to hold up everything until President Elect Roosevelt takes office in 75 days.

A fact which may become important in future negotiations over the interest payment defaulted last Thursday came to light today. It is that Herriot was never really obliged to ask the chamber for the appropriation. It had been voted with the rest of the 1932 budget long before, but had been forgotten by everybody.

Paul-Boncour can send the money to Washington any time he wants without consulting the chamber, but since the chamber's resolution was an official statement of French policy, he must first obtain approximate acceptance of its terms by America. Practically, political considerations compel him to secure the chamber's approval of any negotiations he concludes with Washington.

Statement of Policy Thursday.

The government held its first cabinet meeting today to discuss the terms of its first message to the chamber, which will be read Thursday. Herriot officially handed over his powers to his successor this morning.

An amusing sideline on the debt controversy is that more than a score of Frenchmen have written the American embassy here saying that they regretted the chamber's action and enclosing 48 cents—the per capita share of each citizen in the defaulted debt payment. On the other hand, a much greater number of insulting, virulent or menacing letters are pouring into the embassy daily.

Workman Electrocuted in Apartment Elevator Shaft

Paul Nieuwenhyse, 44 years old, was electrocuted yesterday while working on an elevator in the South Shore Towers apartment building at 7300 South Shore drive. He fell between the cage and the shaft wall, and firemen were called to free his body. He lived at the hotel.

WINS DAMAGE SUIT

PATSY RUTH MILLER.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Appellate department of the Superior court today decided Patsy Ruth Miller, screen actress, was not responsible for injuries received by Eloise Neahr and Henry J. Neahr in a motor car accident here last Jan. 26. A lower court had decided against Miss Miller. Miss Miller was driving the car, but the Appellate court held an auto livery which rented the car to Buenaventura Famero, who lent it to the actress, was responsible.

SUIT CALLS 1930 TAXES EXCESSIVE; ASK INJUNCTION

A petition for an injunction to restrain County Treasurer McDonough from collecting 1930 taxes against their property on the grounds that the tax levies for that year, made by the city, school board, sanitary district and county are in excess of statutory limits, was filed in the Circuit court yesterday.

The complainants were Edward and Merthe Martin, owners of four parcels of property, three of which are in the near north side district and the fourth in the Hyde Park district.

The petition asserts the 1930 objection filed in the County court recently was overruled by Judge Jarecki. It states that if the 1928 and 1929 objections had been tried first, a proper case might have been proved. The petition also charges that part of the 1930 county levy of 56 cents was illegal because it provided funds for certain bond issues which should have been included in the corporate levy.

Levies for the 1930 city bond and interest fund and for South Park improvement bonds are attacked on the ground that the bonds were issued too late to become liens on 1930 taxes.

Ponder Plea to Expunge Order Freeing Sammons

The Supreme court yesterday took under advisement a petition filed by the office of State's Attorney Courtney asking for a mandamus action against Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of Lake county, to compel him to expunge his order on which James [Fur] Sammons, gangster, was released from the penitentiary. Sammons was released on a writ of habeas corpus filed before Judge Shurtleff despite the fact that the sentence was from Chicago.

2 HELD FOR TEA STORE ROBBERY.

Leo Michalowski, 45 years old, 1921 Milwaukee avenue, and Joseph Rice, 35, of 1920 Milwaukee avenue, were held to the grand jury in bond of $10,000 each yesterday by Judge Padden on the charge of robbing the National Tea store at 2237 North Western avenue.

GOV. ROOSEVELT SILENT ON NEW CALL BY HOOVER

Said to Retain Former Position on Debts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Franklin D. Roosevelt, President elect, declined today to comment on President Hoover's latest attempt to bring him into the European war debt situation in advance of his inauguration as President on March 4. A definite impression was gained, however, that he did not favor linking a war debts discussion with the general economic conference or with the arms conference, as proposed by President Hoover.

Holds Same Opinion.

There is little reason to believe, it was learned from persons close to the President elect, that he has changed his opinion since he set forth his position on war debts nearly four weeks ago, immediately after his conference with President Hoover at the White House. In that statement, Gov. Roosevelt declared that he was opposed to the creation of a war debt commission, asserted that it was a fundamental right of a debtor to seek revision or adjustment of a debt with a creditor, and added that it would be his policy to conduct negotiations for revision of the war debts with each nation separately through ordinary diplomatic channels.

Opposes General Conference.

Gov. Roosevelt has been opposed to consideration of the war debts at any general conference at which the representatives of the United States would be on one side of the general conference table and the representatives of all the European debtor nations on the other. In other words, his position has been that he did not wish to put the government of the United States in a conference at which representatives of the other governments participating could "gang up" on the American representatives. So far as could be learned, there is no reason to believe that he has changed this position.

This attitude, however, would not prevent Mr. Roosevelt, after he became President, from appointing a special representative to take up possible revision of our war debt with any particular country. In fact, it is quite likely that he might adopt that procedure and appoint a special representative to discuss the same question with the government of France, the negotiations being kept separate and the decision in each case being based on the individual debtor nation's capacity to pay.

Confers With Young.

Simultaneously with President Hoover's message to congress, Mr. Roosevelt received a call from Owen D. Young, an expert on war debts and co-author of the reparations payment plan which bore the name of former vice president Charles G. Dawes.

Mr. Young has been mentioned for secretary of state, treasury or commerce for several weeks. The governor did not reveal any details of his talk with Mr. Young except to say that it was "a general discussion of economics."

"Did you discuss the war debts situation with Mr. Young?" the governor was asked.

"Wouldn't you like to know," he replied with a smile.

Can't Talk About Hoover.

"Have you received any word from President Hoover?" was another question.

"I can't tell you," Gov. Roosevelt replied.

No information could be obtained as to whether or not Gov. Roosevelt would accept President Hoover's suggestion that he approve the delegates whom Mr. Hoover proposes to appoint to the disarmament conference with authority to negotiate on war debts.

Wife of Manufacturer's Son Charges Cruelty

Mrs. Susan Candy, 1131 Fair Oaks avenue, Oak Park, filed suit in the Circuit court yesterday for a divorce from Albert T. Candy Jr., whose father is head of the wax manufacturing company bearing his name. The bill charged cruelty, alleging that Candy struck his wife on two occasions. It sets forth that the couple were married in May, 1926, and separated June 30, 1932. Mrs. Candy asked for the custody of her sons, Albert III., 5 years old, and Thomas, 3 years old, and funds for their support.

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY.

III. Who Owns Lake Michigan and Why.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan has given thought to the objections of the Mississippi valley states and is now recommending a redrafting of the St. Lawrence treaty. He has asked the state department to consider reservations to the treaty which would recognize the right of the United States, without consulting Canada, to keep Chicago's drinking water wholesome and maintain navigation in the Mississippi.

Now that he has grasped the fact that the treaty deprived the United States of the right to control the waters of Lake Michigan, a right won by conquest and maintained strenuously in the past by the state department, Senator Vandenberg may well turn his attention to inquiring why the state department behaved as it did. It has been obvious from the first that pressure on the Canadian government for the construction of the seaway was at least as powerful as the corresponding pressure on the American government. The state department had to make no extraordinary concessions, therefore, to obtain Canadian cooperation. Yet an amazing and wholly unwarranted concession of principle and of national interest was made in the clause of the treaty dealing with the diversion. Why?

We wonder if Senator Vandenberg will not find the answer to this question in the well known society of Washington diplomacy to subject the United States to domination by the league of nations. When the effort to bring the United States directly into the league failed the agitation for membership in the world court was undertaken in the belief that that would lead eventually to league membership or at least to the assumption of the responsibilities of membership. Meanwhile the Kellogg pact is being interpreted by our diplomats to imply the duty of the United States to become a party to every international quarrel and in effect, therefore, to join the league in the effort to police the universe.

One subterfuge succeeds another. It seems clear that when Canada and a European nation in the rôle of arbitrator are given jurisdiction over navigation on Lake Michigan and the power to prevent navigation on the Mississippi river they will have a powerful lever to force the United States into compliance in other directions. The American people have ample reason to wonder if the internationalism and servility of our state department are not again at work to destroy the independence of the United States, this time taking advantage of the anti-Chicago hysteria systematically worked up by the Cleveland shipping companies. It is interesting in this connection to observe that the shipping interests have already taken alarm and are now opposing the seaway, but the change of heart may have come too late.

The reservations which Senator Vandenberg is now willing to consider must be regarded as a necessary preliminary to any serious consideration of the treaty on its economic merits. Whatever the seaway may be worth to the commerce of the country, an avoidable epidemic of typhoid fever in the second largest city of the country is a price out of all proportion to the benefits.

Likewise the destruction of the investment in the gulf waterway through an inadequate diversion would be ridiculously and needlessly high. The gulf waterway is built. It will be opened for traffic from Chicago within a few weeks. The St. Lawrence seaway will not be completed for a decade under favorable circumstances. If the present financial crisis in the federal treasury continues, as it well may, the possibility of appropriations for the St. Lawrence waterway disappears. The treaty as it stands cannot assure the completion of the St. Lawrence route if the money to build it is not available, but the treaty can assure the failure of the Mississippi waterway. Unless the treaty is altered to conform with American rather than foreign interests the central valleys stand a good chance of having not two waterways but none.

Senator Vandenberg's change of front on the question of the diversion does him credit. It is to be hoped that, having gone so far, he will now find it possible to examine somewhat more objectively than he has yet done the claims of economic advantage to this country which will result from the seaway if constructed. There has been much loose talk about the benefits our farmers, manufacturers and consumers will derive from opening the lakes to ocean vessels. No one is disposed to say that no advantage will be obtained; the basic question is, merely, Will the advantages be sufficient to justify the huge outlay required?

Senator Vandenberg might well start with Michigan and see what his state may be expected to gain compared with what it will cost the taxpayers of his state. He may proceed from that point to evaluate the national advantages and compare them with the whole expense. With the waters of Lake Michigan left within control of the United States, the economic questions raised by the seaway proposal can be studied on their merits.

DEALING WITH FRANCE IN DEFAULT.

The administration has endeavored to put a muffler on the natural instincts of congress to become declaratory and declamatory on the debt default. This is a rather obviously sensible procedure. A suspension of judgment and a restraint in comment will do the United States no injury at this time, and such a procedure will leave the affair more embarrassingly at the disposal of France.

Political action is certainly no less volatile in France than elsewhere in countries of representative government. There may be second thought. The consequences of default persisted in will not be mitigated by American restraint now. It does not seem either necessary or judicious for the United States to take a high tone or needlessly to aggravate a situation which is potentially very serious.

The French deputies, animated to some extent by a socialistic element, have taken action which they must face in various uncertain aspects. The instant pouncing upon the treaty of Versailles is one indication of what a repudiation of treaty obligations may mean. The increased uncertainty regarding the franc is another. The fact that an ability to pay could not enter the decision not to do so makes the issue one of good faith which must challenge French intentions in many directions.

The gravity of the question is entirely on French shoulders, and very likely nothing will be lost if the French chamber of deputies has an undisturbed moment in which to take a sober second thought. It has been suggested that no further debt negotiations can be had with nations in default. That seems to be a reasonable position to take, and it also has consequences the future of which can be awaited.

BEER AND WINE.

The ways and means committee of the house of representatives has separated the beer bill from the wine bill. The beer bill is reported to the house. The wine bill failed of a committee indorsement. Chairman Collier of the committee explained that the element of doubt increased very considerably in the wine bill. For beer an alcoholic content by weight of 3.2 per cent is allowed. For wine a 10 per cent content would be required.

A separation of the two questions is undoubtedly expedient so long as the 18th amendment remains in effect. The undertaking in congress is one of modification under the amendment. It is a matter of regret, of course, that America barred out so civilized a beverage as wine, customarily used moderately for the purpose which best justifies the existence of alcoholic beverages and allowed by the laws and habits of the world's most cultured peoples. In America just now it happens that we are not dealing with ideal conditions, but are under the restraints which an unreasonable constitutional amendment has imposed. That fact cannot be ignored. The interim provision for a palatable malt beverage contains a benefit both for the relief of an overtaxed country and for the revival of a sense of adult competence.

The wine producing states may think it inequitable that their product cannot go along with the emancipation of beer, but they should reason that their cause cannot be aided by obstructing the release of privileges as to beer.

A DEPARTMENT FOR THE SPECIALIST.

The work of the Reconstruction Finance corporation in Kentucky was described to the house committee on appropriations by Dr. Arthur T. McCormack, state health officer. The cash came from funds provided under the emergency relief and construction law. The people of the Kentucky rural regions, particularly of the hills, are simple and their emergencies are simple. Reconstruction under the direction of Dr. McCormack already has given them 1,700 federal built utilities and the doctor says that each has been decorated with a planting of vines and roses.

This extension of the federal government was viewed by the congressmen with interest if not with alarm. Dr. McCormack defended it stoutly. Here is the beginning of another federal department. In another year Chic Sale will be a member of the cabinet.

Editorial of the Day

WHAT EVERY SENATOR OUGHT TO ASK.

[New York Sun.]

Before any senator votes to put the United States into the permanent court of international justice, commonly known as the league court, he should first discover the answer to an important question: Through what channel would the American government deal with the court if it were a member?

The statute of the court gives it jurisdiction over the interpretation of treaties. Under the constitution of the United States treaties are made by the executive, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. Once the interpretation of a treaty was handed over to the league court how much would the senate have to say about the fate of the treaty?

The Root protocol now before the senate declares that the court "shall not, without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest." Who would give that consent—the President, through the state department, or the President plus the senate? Who would decide and say whether the United States has or claims an interest?

The protocol refers to the "exercise of the powers of withdrawal" by the United States from the court under certain unpleasant circumstances. Who would exercise these powers? Would it be the President, or the President and the senate, or the President and congress?

The constitution contains no answer to these questions for the reason that the framers of the constitution never dreamed of such a surrender of sovereignty as is proposed by the proponents of adherence to the league court. None of the court propagandists has answered them for the reason that they suggest trouble of the sort that is certain to follow American entry into the court.

But they ought to be answered, if there are answers, before the protocol comes to a vote.

The schoolmaster was interesting his class of boys in red Indians.

"What do we call the leaders of the tribes, Smith?" he asked.

"Chiefs, sir."

"Quite correct. And what do we call the red Indian women, Jones?" was the next question.

Jones hesitated, then said, "Well—mischiefs, sir."—Tit-Bits.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WE WANDERED AROUND in the shops the other day and saw the presents they are buying for Junior. Steam saw mills that steam and saw, electric railroads that run trains whirling around the room on real tracks, toy automobiles that exceed the speed limit, jig saws, tool chests, work benches, toy foundries with real moving cranes and furnaces, steam shovels that ought to be able to excavate a Turkish rug for six feet and dig up part of the floor in fifteen minutes, fire engines and hook and ladder wagons that go clang-clanging all over the place, and a lot more things like that. And they used to get toy soldiers and jumping jacks. Well, this machine age brings different kinds of Christmas presents to Junior and they probably please him very much. But God help papa when he comes home at night and walks into 'em.

PRESIDENT MACHADO down in Cuba is going to issue $C0,000,000 in fiat money, which means money that is such only because he orders it and that it does not represent or is based upon such silly things as gold or silver and contains no promise of redemption. To make fiat money you just need a printing press. Isn't the printing press wonderful!

"REMEMBER ALSO," says Monsieur Patenotre, undersecretary of state of France, "the chamber has not refused to pay the interest on the American debt, but merely voted to postpone payment pending negotiations." And to all our numerous creditors, the butchers, the bakers and the candlestick makers, to say nothing of the tailors who have hopefully submitted their December bills, we wish to say a merry Christmas, one and all, and the mere fact that we have not paid you does not mean we refuse to pay, but that we have merely postponed payment pending negotiations. Well, France got away with it. It's worth trying, anyhow.

Manchuria! When you mention the word there are lots of people who will ask what is a Manchuria. Admitting for the sake of argument that here and there you will find somebody who knows Manchuria is not a new kind of soft drink, but is an animal fed on baled hay and pate de foie gras that can go seven days without a drink (no, that would be a camel), they still are a little hazy on the subject. I feel that I can talk freely about Manchuria, because I lived there fifty years once. I was paid only a year's salary in that time, so it must have been one year, but it seemed fifty years. With the temperature down to fifty and sixty below in winter and up to a hundred in the shade in summer makes the time seem long in Manchuria. And in summer the air is often filled with great clouds of sand that roll in from the desert of Gobi. Also when I was out there the sand was frequently full of small hunks of lead, as the Russians and Japs were quarreling then and often became quite rough. . . .

NOTWITHSTANDING EVERYBODY laughs at the braggetting and boasting of New York, you really must admit that at times down there they are almost modest in their claims. The city is now sending out glowing descriptions and beautiful pictures of a proposed thirty mile elevated highway to encircle the city and which will cost ninety million dollars. With New York deep in the red and going deeper every day we are greatly surprised that the city stands up and stoutly maintains it will pay ninety millions of dollars for the new highway. The surprise is that they say they will pay only ninety million for this improvement. Knowing New York as we do, we wonder that they did not say ninety billion.

EVERY ONCE IN A WHILE something bobs out of the past that should make us think there are some of the old books almost as worth reading as the current best sellers. While a gentleman named Socrates [never heard of him] did not write up to date novels or detective [detecative as usually pronounced] stories he really put down some quite worth while things. The death of Edmund Vance Cooke reminds the newspapers that the poet said at the funeral of his sister a few months ago:

> "And when we stand in the presence of this darker twin of the twin mysteries—life and death—I know of no words to excel those of Socrates to this effect:
>
> "'Death cannot be an evil, for if we wake again we visit with the great ones gone before us, and if we never wake again, what more grateful than a never ending slumber?'
>
> "So, today, I ask the eternal question: 'Whither?'"

THE AFTERMATH.

A PERSON who constantly has low blood pressure is a good risk. Insurance companies want to insure him and the agents will chase him persistently. A slow, steady pulse is also basis for a prophecy of longevity. Insurance agents also pursue that group. If a person comes of a long-lived stock he is properly a target for insurance agents.

On the other hand, there are persons who are of a kind or who have had certain experiences that make them poor insurance risks. Agents are liable to shy off these people, or, if the agent lands them as prospects, the men who pass on the risks turn them down and pass the word around, or else they accept them at advanced rates.

An investigation made by Rollo Britten on the relation of certain experiences to the life expectancy of people among the policyholders in several companies established this: If the effects of the illness are not experienced at once they will come later on. If they are not produced directly they will come indirectly. One conclusion is that persons who are overweight are poor risks. They may succumb to pneumonia, to diabetes, or to some other disease that gets fat persons, or they may have to undergo an operation for gallstones, a fat man's disease, and not survive the immediate hazards—a fat man's danger. Those with large girths and smaller chest measures are not good investments for insurance companies.

The man with a rapid pulse, or one that is irregular, is also a poor risk. As a rule, persons with this symptom are nervous and apprehensive. Nothing helps them so much as to be reassured. While this is true, it is also true that, averaging some thousands of them, the insurance companies do not regard the rapid and irreguiar pulse people as good risks.

They also look askance at those with high blood pressure. As a rule, people in this group are overly anxious. They think they are worse off than they are. Most of them will live many years and will be able to work. While this is true, an insurance company is willing to let the other company insure the people of the high blood pressure group.

A history of being subject to rheumatism is one that leads the insurance company to ponder. To begin with, such a history makes them examine the heart with extra care. They want to know about heart murmurs, the size of the heart, the condition of the heart muscle and the muscles generally. A history of having had tuberculosis or having been closely associated with the case makes them cautious. Especially is this true if the person investigated is underweight and young. If a man who has had consumption is in good health, is in good flesh, and is over 50 he is pretty well out of the woods. A history of diabetes or of albuminuria decreases the life expectancy.

THE HORSE IS GONE.

W. N. U. writes: I have been told that one predisposing influence to colds is a deficiency in certain vitamins and that drinking more orange juice when one suspects a cold coming on is likely to lessen the chances of taking cold.

1. Is this true?

2. Is there any other way to get the vitamins that is better than by drinking orange juice?

REPLY.

1. No. When one feels a cold coming on he is already infected. He has already taken cold. The horse is already outside the stable. Taking fruit juice at that time is for the purpose of overcoming a tendency to acidosis which has resulted from the infection. There is a theory that the habitual taking of vitamin preparations and especially those that contain D increases resistance to colds, but the more recent reports have been very contradictory and confusing.

2. Drinking orange juice is as good a way as any of getting vitamin C. However, it is not superior to tomato juice. Other fruits and vegetables are good. Eating oranges is just as satisfactory as drinking the juice.

VITAMIN CONCENTRATES.

J. A. R. writes: 1. I understand there are preparations or extracts of various vitamin concentrates. Do these show quicker or better results than eating the foods containing the vitamins?

2. What organs and glands in the body are affected by vitamin E and in what way? What foods contain it?

3. Would it be safe to take a vitamin E concentrate without a doctor's advice and what harm might result?

REPLY.

1. Each has some advantages and disadvantages. A sweeping answer each way would be about half wrong.

2. Most hold that vitamin E is a part of vitamin B complex. Those who think it a separate vitamin hold its use promotes reproduction and the bearing and rearing of offspring. Among the foods that contain it are yeasts and the germs of grains.

3. Yes. People eat yeast and grain germs on their own.

1. One year from the commencement of probate proceedings.

2. Yes.

3. We assume that by overseer you mean the executor named in the will.

BONDED EMPLOYE.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I signed bonds in 1928 and 1929 for a secretary of a building and loan association who stole some thousands of dollars. 1. The president and cashier knew about it all the time. In the years 1930 and 1931 he was insured by a bond insurance company. 2. Now the shareholders agreed to a 10 per cent loss on their money. The secretary was sentenced to a prison term. 3. Am I responsible for the bonds which I signed? 4. Must I pay the amount of money for which I signed the bonds? S. D.

1. Do you mean that they knew of preceding thefts at the time you signed?

2. Agreed with whom? If with you this would seem to settle your question.

3 and 4. The facts are not clear enough for us to advise. On a matter of this complexity and importance you should employ an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 20, 1916.

LONDON.—Announcement in the house of commons this afternoon by David Lloyd George, the new prime minister, that the first act of his administration was the rejection of the proposal of the central powers for a peace conference constituted one of the most momentous scenes in parliamentary history. The new premier declared that before the allies could give favorable consideration to such an invitation they must know that Germany was prepared to accede to the allies' terms, giving "complete restitution, full reparation, and effectual guarantees." He added: "To enter a conference upon the invitation of Germany, proclaiming herself victorious, without any knowledge of her proposals, would be putting our heads into a noose with the end of the rope in Germany's hands." He announced that at the moment Germany was penning the note, assuring her convictions as to the rights of other nations, she was dragging Belgians into slavery.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It was stated authoritatively the United States will continue to act only as an intermediary between the belligerents. The official view is that the British premier's speech has shown that any positive action by the United States toward mediation not only would be premature but might embarrass such action later.

PARIS.—Premier Briand in the senate announced that a concerted reply will be made tomorrow by the entente to the German peace proposals. He said it is impossible to treat the request seriously. "The central empires are at bay. Their request for peace is a last bluff that Germany wishes to try. She would also like to exonerate herself by making believe that the war was imposed upon her, but the war had been decided upon by her forty years ago. It was in the blood of the Germans, who felt certain they would conquer," he said.

PARIS.—There was spirited artillery activity by both sides on the right bank of the Meuse, especially in the regions of Bezonvaux, the Cauriéres wood, and Chambrettes. South of the River Somme German troops undertook a surprise attack upon our trenches north of Chilly.

BERLIN.—On both banks of the Somme the artillery and mine thrower fire was temporarily heavier. Northwest and north of Reims French detachments, advancing upon our trenches after strong artillery preparation, were repulsed. On the east bank of the Meuse [Verdun front] the artillery engagement increased in intensity.

CHICAGO.—Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson, Spanish war hero and a leading temperance advocate, will become a resident of Illinois. He has leased a residence in Evanston, coming from Tuxedo Park, N. Y., the home of Mrs. Hobson's parents. Capt. Hobson intends to be near the battle front of what he considers to be the most important prohibition fight in America. He considers Chicago the silent of "the enemy—booze."

CHICAGO.—The Rev. Herbert Franklin Fisk, D. D., LL. D., connected for forty-three years with Northwestern university, Evanston, thirty years as head of the Evanston academy, and thirteen years as professor in the university, died at his residence, 1625 Judson avenue, Evanston. Dr. Fisk was 76 years old and was the oldest professor in the college of liberal arts of the university.

WHEN AN AMERICAN TOURIST IN FRANCE SUGGESTS DEBT REDUCTION

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

AMERICA IN THE LONDON PRESS

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 1.—While spending a year in Geneva observing the league of nations, in councils and conferences, I have had occasion to become acquainted with the London newspapers, more particularly the Express, Herald, Morning Post, News Chronicle, Telegraph, Times.

As a result of my observation I am led to send a joint note to the above papers, carrying a suggestion, made merely "for the good of the order."

I assume that what Kaye Don calls a "friendly understanding between nations" is worth cultivating and especially between English speaking nations. The misfortune of a lack of friendly understanding comes to the front when any question like that of the debts, disarmament, education, prohibition comes up for discussion. During my reading of London papers during the last year it has occurred to me that there was an entire absence of articles written by Americans on subjects of common interest, giving the American viewpoint. I recall only one exception, an article by Mencken, written on request of the editor, and it was sharply critical of American life.

From the standpoint of mutual understanding it is unfortunate. I do not see how English people can come to understand American people unless they can gain the viewpoint of Americans through American writers. I mean American writers, in English papers.

May I be allowed, without discourtesy, to call attention to a feature of American papers that certainly contributes to understanding from the American side? I have lived in New York, Chicago, Seattle. In practically all the papers appear articles by Englishmen on politics, education, prohibition, and frankly critical of American life. On the whole these hundreds of articles are helpful and at least make Americans acquainted with the English viewpoint. Incidentally these articles stimulate travel Englishward.

To illustrate, the New York Times carries scores of articles by Englishmen and its editorials are more friendly Londonward than Washingtonward. The Christian Science Monitor looks even more Englishward, frequently carrying English inspired editorials and from four to seven columns of British news. I recall articles by Wells, Shaw, Lloyd George, Robert Cecil, Bertrand Russell, Churchill, Eddington, and many others. Important religious weeklies like the Christian Century, the World Tomorrow, Unity, would not feel that they were ready for keeping house had they not taken on the staff a regular correspondent in England. All of which makes for cultivation of mutual understanding from the American side.

I am assuming that mutual understanding among English speaking peoples is desirable. The suggestion made to the editors of the London papers comes from observation covering a year. It is offered modestly "without hope of reward" but for mutual understanding, in which lies peace.

SYDNEY STRONG.

FROM FRANK LOESCH.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—The recent leading editorials in THE TRIBUNE on the tax question, and especially that in last Sunday's TRIBUNE, headed "Next Stop Moscow," must meet the warmest approval of every intelligent man who gives any thought whatever to the burden of taxation and the cost of it.

The placing in a parallel column of the quotation from Mr. Thompson's address to the American Bar association last October was a happy thought and should prove effective in driving home the truths set out in the editorial.

Turn as we will, we always return to excessive taxation as probably the leading cause of our inability to come back. However, excessive taxation is a symptom of a disease. That disease is the looking to the government, state and municipal, to perform functions which the citizen, until recently, performed for himself.

We have had too much interference by constituted authorities with the lives of individuals and their activities. With more interference by government there is not only less freedom but there is less business and higher taxation. Added to that is the dishonesty which our excessive taxation necessarily causes when the public officials will not heed the cry of distress to reduce taxes but simply look for other sources of revenue to keep up the burden. That burden, it is evident, cannot longer be borne.

Personally I thank you for putting this situation so graphically before the thoughtful readers. FRANK J. LOESCH.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—In the Nov. 21 issue you published an editorial regarding nonparticipation in the Century of Progress exposition by the Swedish government. The Swedish Engineers' society, an organization of Swedish-American engineers and industrialists in this city, is very much interested in having an official Swedish exhibit take place. We therefore wish to thank you for the editorial and express our appreciation of your paper, as later developments now indicate that your editorial had an immense bearing on the late decision of the Swedish government to reconsider participation in the 1933 World's Fair.

Receiver Voices Hope for Policyholders.

18 City of Highland Park 4s	14,025	4,500
10 Exmoor Coun. C. 6s	9,957	5,000
Total par value		$10,424,400
Total book value		11,284,173
Total market value		781,823
Excess of book over mkt. value		10,535,648

*No value. †The figure on the market value of the Central Republic bank stock apparently is a stenographer's error and probably should be for an amount of something more than $3,000, in view of the total given for the market value of the assets and the fact that Central Republic bank shares sold for only a few dollars apiece immediately prior to the reorganization of that bank as the City National bank last October.

Other investments in obligations of the Stevens and La Salle hotels on the part of the insurance company, including the purchase of mortgages on related properties, brought the total holdings of these hotels' obligations to approximately $13,000,000.

Hopeful for Policyholders.

Gen. Davis, the receiver, expressed optimism yesterday as to the future of the interests of the 20,000 policy holders of the company.

Attorney William M. Klein, counsel for the receiver, informed Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson during a hearing on the motion to file an intervening petition that he would file a petition today, asking permission to solicit and receive proposals for a reinsurance of the 70,000 policy holders, and Gen. Davis' hopes for the company's future were based on such a plan.

Plans Aid for Policy Holders.

"When you consider the aggregate impairment of the reserves, approximately $9,000,000, it looks serious," said the receiver, "but spread over the $150,000,000 of insurance outstanding the impairment becomes small on each policy. On a $1,000 policy it is about $60, which means that a woman whose husband carried a $1,000 policy would get $940 upon his death."

Gen. Davis said he was most concerned with the working out of some plan for a reinsurance of the policy holders and expressed the opinion that a complete recovery could be effected in normal times were the Illinois Life taken over by some responsible concern.

He pointed out that the death claims when he became receiver on Nov. 28 were only $175,000 and that the company had cash on hand of $275,000. A loan of $1,000,000 was obtained from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. This was secured by $2,500,000 of collateral.

Investigate Securities Company.

The agents of Gen. Davis were working yesterday on the books of the Lincoln Securities company, which also was controlled by the Stevens family. Loans totaling $1,160,000 were made by the insurance company to this corporation, and the investigators were seeking to learn the purpose of these loans and the disposition of the money.

An order was obtained from Judge Wilkerson restraining the Chicago Safe Deposit company, 208 South La Salle street, from permitting officers or agents of the Lincoln corporation to remove the contents of two boxes it maintains. An order to examine the contents will be requested in due time, Attorney Klein said.

The order tieing up the contents of the safe deposit boxes was based on a petition filed by Attorney Klein as counsel for the receiver, setting forth that Raymond W. Stevens, former president of the Illinois Life, is also president of the Lincoln Securities company, and that G. F. Ramer, former auditor of the insurance company, is also secretary of the securities concern. The petition also alleged that the securities company is insolvent and unable to pay its $1,160,200 debt to the insurance company.

Petition Accuses Official.

Ten small policyholders sought yesterday to file a petition to intervene in the receivership action. The petitioners, represented by Attorney Herbert J. Friedman, allege that the original plaintiffs in the receivership suit have no proper standing in the action and are not concerned with the best interests of the policyholders. Charges against officials and directors of the insurance company are made in the petition.

The hearing on the motion for leave to file the petition was continued until this morning because of another engagement of Judge Wilkerson, but Attorney Friedman made some of his charges orally in a colloquy with Attorney Klein, who opposed the motion.

Judge Wilkerson expressed reluctance to permit the stockholders to intervene without a substantial reason and said he did not want "a multiplicity of suits or suits within a suit."

Lawyer Attacks Action.

Mr. Friedman was informed that one policy holder, Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Wharf, had already intervened and the suit and that of the original plaintiffs had been consolidated. Mr. Friedman at this point announced that he would attack the propriety of the action by the original plaintiffs.

"Be careful lest you talk yourself out of court," said Judge Wilkerson, smiling. He explained to the lawyer that under the rules of equity an intervening petition is subordinate to the original plaintiffs and admits the propriety of their complaint when he seeks to intervene.

"You have two courses of action," said the judge. "You may file an independent suit or you may intervene in this one, but in seeking an intervening petition you are agreeing with the plaintiffs."

Hits Dividend Payments.

Mr. Friedman attacked first the complaint of Mary Martha Layton and Alfreda Post, the original plaintiffs, who are stockholders.

"They have no proper complaint against the company," he said. "As stockholders they received dividends in 1930 and 1931. This company was insolvent during those years and the directors had no legal right to declare and pay dividends. It is our contention that the stockholders, instead of having a complaint, are obligated to the company in the amount of the improper dividends they received."

$9,000 Loan Under Fire.

Next Attorney Friedman attacked the standing of Mrs. Wharf, the intervening policy holder, because, he said, one of the company's collateral loans was made to E. C. Wharf.

"That E. C. Wharf loan was made under suspicious circumstances," he said. "I want to know who E. C. Wharf is, whether he is the husband of Elizabeth Jane Wharf. That loan, as well as all those collateral loans, was undercollateralized." Counsel for the other side professed to know as little as Mr. Friedman about the identity of the Wharfs. The loan to E. C. Wharf was $9,000, and the market value of the collateral put up as security is about $3,200.

Calls Salaries Unwarranted.

The petition of the ten small policy holders recites the finds made by Gen. Davis that approximately $13,000,000 of the company's assets were frozen in obligations of the Stevens and La Salle hotels, which are in receivership. The salaries paid by the insurance company to Raymond W. Stevens as president and James W. Stevens as chairman are attacked as unwarranted. The salaries were $72,300 a year each.

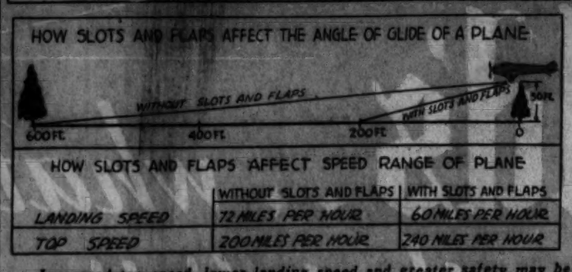
United States Attorney Dwight H. Green and his first assistant, William J. Froelich, left yesterday for Washington to confer, it was reported, with officials there regarding the government's investigation into the failure of the insurance company. Mr. Green is expected to request that several auditors and accountants be put to work immediately on the books of the insurance company.

Another development yesterday was the filing of precipes of suits in the Superior court seeking the recovery of $750,000 on notes. The Central Republic Trust company is the plaintiff. One suit is for $500,000 against the Lincoln Securities company, and the other is for $250,000 against James W. Stevens. According to Attorney William Haddad, representing the law firm of Fischer, Boyden, Bell, Boyd & Marshall, the double action amounts to ordinary bank procedure. The actual amount of the notes is between $600,000 and $650,000, but $750,000 is demanded to cover usual costs.

POISON FATAL TO WOMAN.

Mrs. Mary Offelke, 50 years old, 3862 West End avenue, took poison yesterday while despondent over ill health, and died a few hours later in the county hospital.

Slots and Flaps Speed Airplanes



Increased top speed, lower landing speed and greater safety may be achieved in new commercial air liners by the adoption of slots and flaps, aeronautic experts say. The wing equipment is expected to widen the speed range of the planes and to decrease the angle of glide, allowing the planes to be landed in smaller areas. This drawing was prepared for a story published yesterday morning.

PUBLISHER GOES ON TRIAL; CHARGE IS CRIMINAL LIBEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 19.—Canadian legal machinery moved forward here today in the trial of a local publisher, J. J. Harpell, who is accused of criminally libeling T. B. Macaulay, president of the Sun Life Assurance company, the largest insurance company in the British empire.

Harpell, who is publisher of the Journal of Commerce, in a recent issue called Macaulay a swindler and religious hypocrite, and accused him of stealing policy holders' funds. He compared Macaulay's operations to those of the late Ivar Kreuger.

Macaulay holds a high position in Canadian business circles. Harpell, who is a policy holder in the Sun company, has been attacking Macaulay for years.

The trial opened today before a jury of twelve, with Chief Justice Greenshields presiding. The prosecution merely exhibited the issue in which the alleged libelous statements were published, and showed that Harpell, who is a university graduate, had published them.

The prosecution had finished its case by afternoon, and the defense was presenting its case when the trial ended for the day. The case will resume tomorrow and likely will be over in a few days. Aime Geoffrion, Canada's leading lawyer, is handling the case for Macaulay.

MARQUIS GIVEN DIVORCE; LINKS WIFE TO EX-M. P.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The Marquis de Casa Maury, well known in artistic and international sporting circles, was granted a divorce today on the ground of misconduct by his wife with W. E. D. Allen, former conservative member of parliament from West Belfast.

The Marchesa de Casa Maury is one of the most beautiful women in London society. The De Casa Maury flat, with walls almost entirely of looking glass and with some of its rooms lit by concealed lamps beneath the floor and costly antiques, is one of London's show places.

The marquis has sacred pictures painted inside the cockpit of his airplane, "Toi et Moi," which was recently blessed by a priest.

TODAY IS YOUR LAST CHANCE TO BE A GOOD FELLOW

Mail Coupon for Name of Needy Family.

This is the last day for mailing enrollments in the Good Fellows. The coupon printed on this page will not be published any more this year.

Tear out the coupon and mail it today to Good Fellows, THE TRIBUNE, Chicago. You'll receive the name and address of a needy family that will have no Christmas cheer except what you bring them in an inexpensive basket of toys, candy, fruit and holiday foodstuffs.

Tomorrow May Be Too Late.

Tomorrow will be too late to rely upon the overcrowded mails to bring you the name of a family in time to do your shopping before Christmas eve. You'll still be able to get the name of a family by calling in person at the Good Fellow headquarters in THE TRIBUNE public service office at Dearborn and Madison streets, but this may not be as convenient as addressing a letter. So tear out that coupon today.

You don't want this Christmas to pass without being a Good Fellow. You'll enjoy brightening the faces of children and lightening the hearts of parents in some home where your visit and your basket will dispel the gloom of poverty on a day of general merriment. And you'll enjoy the rest of your week-end program the more for having spent an hour and a few dollars to make others happy.

You've always wanted to do something like this on Christmas. You've always wanted to give a doll and an apple to some little girl who otherwise wouldn't have a Santa Claus. You've always wanted to put some candy and a ball in a boy's stocking that otherwise would be empty on Christmas morning. This is your chance. Tear out that coupon.

Chance to Aid Aged, Too.

Maybe at this time of the year your sympathies turn to the destitute old couples, without children and alone, subsisting in nooks of the big city on scant allowances from overtaxed charities. You can make Christmas a holiday for some such couple if you'll mail that coupon today.

All the families recommended to Good Fellows for baskets next Saturday have been investigated by the United Charities, the Central Charity bureau, the Cook County Bureau of Public Welfare, the Juvenile court or other affiliates of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

All Cases Investigated.

This inquiry assures the Good Fellow that he will be the only Santa Claus at his assigned home. It assures the Good Fellow that his charity is going to a deserving family where it is needed and will be appreciated. THE TRIBUNE pays all the administration costs.

There'll be something missing in your Christmas if you don't deliver a basket on Saturday. However, if it's impossible for you to make a delivery personally, you can still be a Good Fellow by mailing a cash donation, large or small, to be used in buying inexpensive gifts for the poor. Address Good Fellows, TRIBUNE, Chicago. The telephone number is Superior 0100.

A benefit charity ball, the proceeds to go to the fund for Good Fellow baskets, will be given at 9 o'clock tonight at the Croyden hotel. James A. Hart, manager, said radio and stage performers will be present. Dave Moore and his orchestra will provide the music. Robert Hollinshead will be master of ceremonies.

DRAKE RESIGNS AS RECEIVER FOR THE BLACKSTONE

Foreclosure Motion Is Continued.

Tracy C. Drake resigned yesterday as co-receiver for the Blackstone hotel which he and his brother, John B. Drake, erected in 1910 and which they owned and operated until last summer when the hotel went into a receivership in the court of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. The resignation was accepted without comment by Judge Wilkerson, leaving Paul G. Evans as receiver for the property.

TRACY C. DRAKE. (Lewis Smith Photo.)

Earlier in the day Mr. Drake and Mr. Evans appeared before Judge Wilkerson and informed him that the hotel had lost $66,000 since their appointment as receivers on July 7. Their appearance was in the foreclosure proceedings brought by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company which has a mortgage on the hotel property that went into default on Aug. 1 in the amount of $1,616,000 plus interest. Drake and Evans were not represented by an attorney.

Judge Continues Hearing.

"It appears that my receivers are in bankruptcy and unable to hire a lawyer," Judge Wilkerson said with a smile. "It's been many years since I have practiced law but I will act as their lawyer. I may have to study up a bit first."

Judge Wilkerson then continued until Thursday the motion of the insurance company that the property be sold. The fact that the hotel is not earning operating expenses and that its employes have been unpaid for some time brought the move for some kind of action, it was said. Lawyers said the various creditors were unable to agree among themselves regarding the money necessary to keep the hotel open, and also disagreed over the disposition of current revenue.

The Blackstone has long been known as one of the city's leading hotels at which many of the distinguished visitors to Chicago stopped. It contains nearly 500 rooms.

Insurance Loan $1,700,000.

The Drakes had acquired a lease on the ground for 144 years. In 1927 they purchased the land for $990,000 and borrowed $1,700,000 from the insurance company on terms that called for two annual payments of $17,000 each on the principal and interest of 5½ per cent until 1937 and 5 per cent thereafter.

The Drake brothers put up the Drake hotel on the north side and the two hotels were under the same management until recently when a syndicate acquired the Drake hotel.

Mayor McKee Has Cold; Ordered to Stay in Bed

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee was instructed to remain in bed for five days or a week today to recover from what his physician described as a "bad broncial condition" due to overwork and a cold. Steps to cut $40,000,000 from the city budget are scheduled to be taken at city hall tomorrow.

OPTOMETRISTS SEEK CHILD DELINQUENCY CAUSES IN EYES

Defective vision may contribute to the delinquency of children, according to a survey to be presented today before the closing session of the three day meeting of the American Academy of Optometry in the Palmer house.

Dr. W. B. Needles and Dr. W. J. Heather of the Northern Illinois College of Optometry, 4043 Drexel boulevard, will present the results of the survey which was conducted in the Chicago Parental home.

"It was found that among the 308 children studied, the percentage of biologically defective was very little higher than the average run of children in any school," said Dr. Needles yesterday. "But we did find the number of cases having serious eye defects to be 20 per cent higher than any similar group. This indicated a strong relation between defective sight and delinquency."

Dr. Needles also warned that defective teeth may cause eye symptoms in many persons.

At yesterday's meeting, Dr. Harry E. Pine, president of the Illinois State Society of Optometrists, declared: "One of the chief causes of automobile accidents is thought to be momentary suspension of vision, or flashes of suspension. This would account for the occasional failure of drivers to see objects in the street."

HOLIDAY TURKEY PRICES LOWEST FOR 31 YEARS

Large Supplies of Fowls Reach Market.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A veritable avalanche of prime young turkeys descended on Chicago over the week-end from Texas, Oklahoma, and the northwest, and yesterday the poultry markets of the city gave assurance that there would be plenty of turkeys for Christmas dinners retailing from 18 to 31 cents a pound.

The wholesale market prices have dropped 25 per cent since Thanksgiving day and fine quality turkeys will be selling at retail this week for less than half their 1929 prices. The prices are the lowest in 31 years.

Fat birds, matured during the recent cold weather under shelter, were coming into the city in carload lots. The entire record breaking output of Texas farms was in shipment by last Thursday. Northern grown young toms and hens exceed last year's large Christmas supply.

Retailers Delay Orders.

A peculiar position in the New York and Chicago turkey markets was revealed yesterday. Ordinarily the large chains of stores, butchers, and retail trade would have placed their orders yesterday and Sunday for the bulk of the Christmas birds. But, as one of the largest poultry packers in the city explained it, the heavy purchases by retailers are being held off because most of them have hoped for a repetition of a sudden last minute break in the market of 2 cents, such as occurred two days before Thanksgiving.

Large Stocks in Storage.

Another peculiarity in the turkey trade this year is the immense stocks of turkeys which have been purchased for storage, to be consumed later this winter and spring.

"The movement of turkeys into storage during November, taking the country as a whole, was the heaviest on record for any one single month," declared C. L. Pier, a Chicago poultry marketing authority.

Make $1 go as far as $3 when fighting sore throat colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes 3 times as far. And whether you buy the 25c, 50c, or $1 size, you still get 3 times as much for your money.

THERE are other good antiseptics on the market that will help you prevent colds . . . but they cost three times as much to use. That's the great advantage Pepsodent Antiseptic has.

Only two kinds

When fighting sore throat colds and Bad Breath (Halitosis), remember there are really only two leading kinds of antiseptics on the market. In one group is the mouth antiseptic that must be used full strength to be effective. In the other group is Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with 2 parts of water and yet kills germs in less than 10 seconds.

Makes $1 equal $3

Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against stubborn colds and throat irritations. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be sure! Be safe—and save money!

IMPURE BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds prove its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, even when diluted with water it still kills germs.

Sore Throat Colds	Cuts and Abrasions
Head Colds	After Shaving
Smoker's Throat	Chapped Hands
Bad Breath	Dandruff

COST OF VISITING FAIR IS SET AT $80 A PERSON

Estimate Covers Area in 700 Mile Radius.

Sixty per cent of the population of the United States will be able to spend a week visiting the World's Fair and other points of interest in Chicago next summer at a cost of about $80 each, according to a study just completed by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The estimate covers the total expense of a visitor from any community within 700 miles of Chicago. It includes railroad and sleeping car fares, hotel room, meals, local transportation in Chicago and admissions to the Fair and other entertainments in Chicago.

Area Covered by Estimates.

"Our $80 estimate covers all prospective Fair visitors from the area bounded by a line drawn through Syracuse, Baltimore, and Norfolk, Va., on the east; Columbia, S. C., Montgomery, Ala., Jackson, Miss., and Little Rock, Ark., on the south; Oklahoma City, Wichita, Kas., and Bismarck, N. D., on the west, and Winnipeg, Man., and Ottawa, Ont., on the north," said John L. Coyne, vice president of the Association of Commerce, in charge of conventions.

"Naturally, those living nearer to Chicago will be able to enjoy the same program at much lower costs. Low rates promised by various passenger associations, combined with reasonable rates of Chicago hotels and the relatively low admission charge of the Fair itself will make a week's visit a real depression bargain."

The cost of a week in Chicago was estimated as follows in the study of the Association of Commerce.

Railroad fare—round trip, 30 day limit, 700 miles each way	$36.95
Lower berth—tourist—both ways	7.50
Hotel in Chicago—5 days at $4	20.00
Meals—Seven days	14.00
Admission to Fair—3 days	1.50
Admission to Fair side shows	1.50
Sight seeing trip in Chicago	1.50
Theater in Chicago	1.75
Baseball game	1.00
Day's trip on Lake Michigan	1.00
Admission to Art institute, Adler planetarium, Field museum, Shedd aquarium, Historical society, etc.	1.00
Local transportation in Chicago	2.00
Estimated total expense for week	$83.70

How Cost May Be Pared.

"While the estimate shows slightly more than $80," Mr. Coyne said, "we have made allowances for a visitor who would take in everything we have listed. Most of our fair visitors undoubtedly will forego one or more of the listed entertainment features and in all likelihood will visit institutions like the Art institute on the several free days available each week."

Mr. Coyne pointed out that lower hotel rates than listed might be obtained in the outlying hotels, and that the visitor might avail himself of public bathing beaches, public golf courses and other public recreational facilities. He said that in several cities in a 700 mile radius of Chicago local banks have started special savings clubs for those planning to attend the fair.

FOUR POLICEMEN TRAP 2 ROBBERS IN LOOP HOLDUP

Four policemen interrupted a robbery in the room of Rudolph Singer in the Saratoga hotel, 27 South Dearborn street, yesterday afternoon and captured the alleged bandits. They identified themselves as Harry Danford, 32 years old, 2121 Indiana avenue, and Joseph Daniels, 28, of 4033 Drexel boulevard.

Traffic Policeman Edward Gall was on duty at Madison and Dearborn streets when a man told him that a robbery was in progress in room No. 436 of the hotel. Gall summoned Policeman Michael Dugan, of traffic duty at Monroe street, and Policemen John J. McCarthy and Daniel Donigan of the Central station and they went to the room.

The two bandits came out with their hands in the air at the command of Dugan. One revolver was found beneath a pillow in the room and a second was thrown out the window and found later. Singer signed complaints against the prisoners charging them with robbery.

RUSH PLANS FOR STREET CAR LINE TO FAIR GROUNDS

Overhead Structure to Cost $224,600.

BY HAL FOUST.

Street car service to the World's Fair grounds seemed assured yesterday under a plan submitted by Edward J. Noonan, engineer for the city council railway terminals committee. It would carry the Roosevelt road car tracks on a viaduct over Wabash and Michigan avenues, and over the Illinois Central yards, with a terminal loop just west of the Court of Honor drive between Field museum and Soldiers' field.

Mr. Noonan said that the plan has been informally approved by engineers for the railroad, the street car company, the city and the south park board. Oscar Nelson, chairman of the council committee, appointed a subcommittee to get the formal approval of these bodies and to report back in ten days.

May Start Work Next Month.

"In all likelihood," said Mr. Noonan, "work can be started in January or February, and the improvement can be completed in time to carry from 15,000 to 18,000 passengers a day to the World's Fair."

The cost, exclusive of the street car company's expenditures on tracks and accessories, is estimated at $224,600. Part of this, approximately $125,000, is for a permanent structure that could come out o. the available traction fund, according to aldermen. The railroad and the south parks would share the remainder of the cost.

The viaduct would accommodate street car tracks only, but the design is such that pavement for automobiles could be added later. Pending this ultimate development, motor cars and pedestrians would continue to use the surface pavement.

Subway Plan Too Costly.

East of Michigan avenue the viaduct would be a temporary structure, located just to the north of the extension of Roosevelt road. It could be used by street cars while the permanent extension of Roosevelt road, for automobiles as well as tracks, is being constructed with the projected new railroad terminal.

SWEDEN IS URGED TO ENTER EXHIBIT AT CHICAGO'S FAIR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 19.—Efforts to persuade the Swedish government to reverse its decision not to take part in the Chicago Century of Progress exposition next year were begun today with the arrival of Tage Palm, secretary of the Swedish-American exhibition committee.

Palm said that Sweden's participation is keenly desired by Chicago's Swedish colony, which unanimously indorsed the exhibition committee's appeal. The plea will be delivered by the Swedish consul in Chicago to his government. Neglect of these facts and persistence in the present policy, Palm warned, would be misplaced thriftiness.

PACKERS OPPOSE TAX ON HOGS AS AN AID TO FARMER

Say They Can't Absorb 300 Million Dollars.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Witnesses for the packing industry appeared before the house agricultural committee today to voice vigorous opposition to the farm organizations' farm relief bill, with its proposal for a tax on the processing of wheat, cotton, tobacco and hogs.

Under the bill the receipts from such a tax would be distributed by commodities to farmers who had cut production.

Frank A. Hunter, head of the Hunter Packing company of East St. Louis, Ill., declared such a tax would cost the packers 300 million dollars.

Could Not Absorb Tax.

George E. Putnam, economist of Swift & Co. of Chicago, asserted that the packing industry could not absorb such a tax, that the consumers would not, and it, therefore, would have to be passed back to the farmer, with the result that instead of helping agriculture the "relief plan" would work great damage.

As proposed by the farm groups the tax on hogs would begin at ½ cent a hundred, live weight, being increased gradually to 2 cents, or until hogs had been restored to the price parity they enjoyed before the war.

Mr. Hunter testified that though his company had made a small profit during the last year, it was, so far as hogs were concerned, now running at a loss. Hogs, he said, were costing his company about $3.15; the resultant pork products were bringing in a net of about $2.90.

Chairman Marvin Jones [Dem., Tex.], declaring that in the face of an emergency "people like you are just sitting around protesting against things," asked Mr. Hunter whether he would favor a general sales tax, a portion of which would be turned over for the benefit of the farmer.

"That might not be a bad idea," Mr. Hunter declared.

"You can't just sit around," asserted Mr. Jones, "merely saying that the patient is getting the wrong medicine and therefore is to be allowed to die."

Calls It Blow at Packers.

"With the dose you're talking about giving us in the bill," retorted Mr. Hunter, "we packers will die."

Mr. Putnam testified that in 1931 Swift & Co., instead of its normal profit of more than 12 millions, had made a profit of $676,000, and in 1932 had run at a loss of $5,000,337.

"If we can make ¼ cent a pound the company has had an extremely properous year," he said, attempting to show how impossible it was that the packing industry should absorb even the proposed initial ½ cent tax.

Pork, he explained, was perishable, and had, therefore, to be sold not at an arbitrary price fixed by the packers but at a price which would keep stocks in quick motion. The purchasing power of the American people, he said, had fallen from 85 to 40 billions in the last three years. Therefore, he argued, it was hopeless to try to pass a tax on to the consumer.

BUSINESS GROUP CHIEF FOR 400 MILLION CUT IN VETERANS' EXPENSES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Government expenditures for veterans' benefits now amounting to more than a billion dollars a year, may be cut by an annual 400 millions "without reducing by a single dollar the payments to those who incurred disabilities in war service or to the dependents of those who gave their lives in such service."

That was the testimony today of Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He appeared before the joint congressional committee on veterans' legislation. He presented his organization's demand that the federal economy program include curtailment of the sums appropriated for the benefit of world war ex-service men.

"We ask no reduction in the expenditures for veterans whose service brought them disabilities," Mr. Harriman declared. "It cannot be in the public interest that federal expenditures be made for disabilities resulting from the normal hazards of civilian life for persons having in every sense a civilian status."

The special committee's report estimated that an annual saving of $402,912,000 could be achieved as follows: [1.] Denying compensation for all disabilities not clearly proved to be service connected. [2.] Repealing legislation granting hospitalization for disabilities not attributable to service. [3.] Limiting government life insurance "to the purposes for which it was undertaken." [4.] Placing compensation paid dependents on a basis of necessity and service connected disability or death. [5.] Returning disabled emergency officers to a disability compensation status. [6.] Placing veterans' relief legislation on a scientific basis with consequent reduction in administrative costs.

Action to drive organized gangs of automobile thieves out of Chicago by cutting off the sales outlets for their loot was taken yesterday by insurance companies and automobile dealers in adopting a plan which, both groups believe, will reduce by thousands the present automobile theft rate here of approximately 2,700 cars per month.

Having agreed that drastic measures must be taken if automobile insurance rates for Chicago are to be reduced and policy restrictions lifted, the underwriters and automobile men decided that only by destroying the market for parts stripped from stolen cars will it be possible to achieve their purpose.

Plan Exchange of Pledges.

The plan to accomplish this consists of an exchange between the underwriters and dealers of honor bound pledges.

In settling losses the underwriters will insist that bills for replacing stolen parts be accompanied by invoices from the manufacturers, proving the replacements to be new. The automobile men agreed to furnish these invoices and will receive, in return, a preferred standing with the insurance companies in the placing of repair and replacement business.

J. W. Burden, chairman of a joint committee of the underwriters, said both groups had further agreed on a combined effort to drive out of business the so-called "alley shops," known to be buying stolen parts from the car strippers. It is estimated that the latter receive about $35 for the parts stripped from an automobile worth $700.

Junk Stripped Machines.

The agreement includes a strict rule governing the sale of salvage. Stripped cars recovered by the police and turned over to the insurance companies which paid the losses will not be sold except as junk metal, and the salvage will be so mutilated as to prevent any possibility of its being rebuilt into a salable car.

What Chicago car owners are paying as tribute to the most highly organized automobile stealing and stripping racket in the country is revealed in insurance statistics. The public pays in the form of high rates and policy restrictions. Underwriters' figures show the cash loss for each car stolen in Chicago, whether or not recovered, an average based on the total loss figure and the total number of cars stolen per year, is $150. The total annual cash loss is approximately $4,860,000.

HOSPITAL TO GET STEAMFITTER'S $40,000 ESTATE

The major portion of the $40,000 estate of Jefferson D. Wright, 71 years old, a steam fitter, was given to the Augustana hospital yesterday in a ruling by Oscar B. Caplan, assistant to the probate judge. Three of Wright's friends, who contested a will produced by the hospital attorneys, asserted that his estate was given to them in an oral will made only a few days before his death last Sept. 4 in the hospital. Caplan's ruling invalidated the oral will.

The will which was upheld bequeathed $500 each to three physicians in the hospital, John Christenson, Melville H. Swanson and John Booher, and awarded $500 to each of two nurses, Mabel Josephson, and L. Nicholson. A friend, Thomas Benson, 1142 East 54th street, was given $200, and the remainder of the estate was given to the hospital.

The contestants were Charles A. Carlson and J. F. Knudson, both of 1216 North La Salle street where Wright had lived, and William O. Gunther, 3707 Bernard street. The friends asserted that they had placed the oral will in writing within 10 days of Wright's death and asserted that the second will was drawn while he was under the influence of hospital attendants. The men announced they would contest the ruling.

How to Guard against the FLU
Every Tribune reader is urged to heed these precautions
The flu epidemic has reached this community. The health authorities are doing their part, but every individual must be on guard.
Keep your medicine chest supplied with the sensible aids to health; any sickness weakens the system and lowers your resistance to germs.
Every household should have at least one hot water bag, in good condition, or an electric pad; and a fever thermometer. Sleep in airy rooms, with ample covering. Avoid an overheated house during the day; dress warmly when you go out. Beware of overcrowded cars, poorly ventilated public meeting places, stuffy telephone booths. Flu is contagious! Breathe through the nose. Keep the system alkaline, the bowels in good order; Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will help you do both. If you have any symptom of a cold, take Bayer Aspirin according to directions. Don't lose even five minutes! Genuine Bayer Aspirin can't harm you, but a common cold is dangerous at a time like this.
Eat plain foods, get enough rest, and don't over-do. Take these extra precautions to keep in sound physical condition, so your system will have normal resistance against germs.
At any sign of actual flu, call a doctor at once. Do not try to treat yourself for influenza!

WISCONSIN ACTS TO END MILK WAR, SAVE FARMERS

Price Slashes Can't Pass to Producers, Warning.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The department of agriculture and markets tonight issued a statement warning Milwaukee milk distributors that unless they voluntarily abolish price cutting, the department will fix a minimum at which the product may be sold.

The statement was read at a meeting of milk producers and distributors of the Milwaukee district in the Nightingale dance hall at the intersection of highways 55 and 74, near Menomonee Falls. Three thousand farmers attended.

It was written following an opinion today by Fred M. Wylie, deputy attorney general, that it is within the power of the agriculture and markets department to pronounce the Milwaukee price competition a violation of the unfair trade practices act.

He pointed out that dealers cannot pass losses on to dairy plant employes and producers when the losses were incurred through a price war.

Statement Given Out.

The statement read tonight follows:

"The department is prepared to and will, if necessary, issue an order declaring it to be an unfair trade practice, under the present ruinous conditions existing in agriculture, where the present price being received by the farmer for milk is below his cost of production and his reserves long since exhausted, to further reduce the price paid the farmer by the distributor to meet profit losses of the distributor caused by a price war between distributors.

"The threatened reduction in retail prices in Milwaukee is not in response to any consumer need or demand, but is being caused solely by ill advised price cuttings by a small minority of the distributors. It is an unfair trade practice to act, and under present conditions, charge to the producer the cost of this war between distributors being waged solely for their own ends.

At Distributors' Risk.

"If the distributors must engage in this price war they must do so at their own expense, and not at the expense of a part of the industry ...nt long since has been selling below its cost of production.

"And the commission is prepared to give, if it shall be necessary, the same protection to labor against having the costs of a price war between employers unloaded into its lap.

"And since continuance of the price war is likely to result in the elimination of distributors and tend to create a monopoly in milk distribution in Milwaukee, the department is prepared to, and will, if necessary, issue an order declaring the price war cutting of prices to such a level as is likely to so result, and this order will establish the minimum price for which milk may, in the emergency, be sold.

Plans New Laws.

"The department proposes further to have presented to the legislature a bill authorizing such control of milk, the marketing of and of milk prices as shall be necessary in this emergency to prevent a continuance of the loading of decrease in price upon the farmer, who already is operating below cost.

"This bill also will provide for like control with reference to the labor of wages in milk distribution, and with reference to price wars that threaten to create a monopoly."

Illinois Hotelkeepers Demand Outright Repeal

Nothing less than outright repeal of the 18th amendment will be acceptable to Illinois hotelkeepers, according to members of the board of the Illinois Hotel Men's association, who met yesterday in the Great Northern hotel. Passage of a beer bill and the possible legalizing of wine would be of some benefit to hotel restaurant business, according to Louis M. Harvey, president of the association, but until prohibition is repealed, the hotel business will remain handicapped.

"MOIST THROAT" FOUND SECRET OF COUGH RELIEF

Your throat and bronchial tubes are lined with millions of pores like tiny bottles continually supplying moisture to the delicate tissues . . . until you "catch cold."

Then these "bottles" get plugged up, phlegm accumulates, affording dangerous germs a breeding place. Your throat feels hot and dry. Tickling, irritation and coughing set in.

Your cough will be cured only when the flow of the natural fluid is increased, loosening the phlegm so that it can be expelled. Many cough "remedies" contain numbing drugs which merely deaden the nerves . . . but don't get at the root of the trouble.

PERTUSSIN, a scientific remedy, which doctors have prescribed for many years, is the extract of a famous herb which opens the tiny glands, stimulates the flow of the throat's natural moisture and brings quick relief. It helps nature heal that cough from the inside out.

When you feel that warning dryness take a few spoons of PERTUSSIN. It's absolutely safe. Sold at all drugstores, 60¢.

ARREST MARY NOLAN ON BAD CHECK CHARGE AT GOTHAM THEATER

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The unfortunate young actress who had so much trouble in her teens that she changed her name from Imogene Wilson to Mary Nolan, and then made a comeback in the movies, was apparently badly involved again today. The New York police took her into custody at the request of the authorities of Minneapolis, where she is accused of "larceny by the aid of a bank check."

She is alleged to have given the Madison hotel in the Minnesota city a worthless check for $304. Her explanation is said to be that she found herself stranded in Minneapolis, and got funds from the hotel. She offered a note and then at the suggestion of hotel officials signed a check, which she promised to make good, although she said that just then she had no funds.

Miss Nolan was arrested at the Orpheum theater where she was doing a vaudeville act.

There were three automobile deaths in Chicago yesterday and last night, increasing the Cook county toll for the year to 1,063. The victims:

Kaspar Humann, 83 years old, 2459 Wilson avenue. Died in Ravenswood hospital. He was struck by an automobile Dec. 16, at Sunnyside and Western avenues.

Thomas Fitzgerald, 2500 New England avenue. Killed by an automobile at Lincoln street and Washington boulevard.

Andrew Lananey, 64 years old, of 2232 North Mulligan avenue, a tinsmith. Fatally injured by an automobile in front of 6320 Grand avenue. The driver was Carl Christensen, 25 years old, of River Grove.

James C. Rinehart, 32 years old, 822 Green Bay road, Highland Park, was charged with reckless driving yesterday after he was captured by Evanston police following a wild 15 mile drive through Evanston, Winnetka, and Glencoe. Police said that he struck a pedestrian during the chase but the identity of the injured person was not learned.

Gives Comely Girl a Lift and She "Lifts" His Roll

A comely young woman beckoned last night to James Klima, a printer living at 2827 North Linder avenue, as he halted his car at Sheridan road and Irving Park boulevard. He opened the door and she sat beside him. Then she drew a gun and forced Klima to drive to Rokeby and Grace streets, where she took $25 and ejected him from his automobile. The car was found a few blocks away soon afterward. The girl was about 21 years old.

GERMAN TORPEDO TRAIN SETS NEW SPEED RECORD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—Speeding at an average of 78.8 miles an hour, a new streamlined combination Diesel motor and electric train traveled 181 miles from Berlin to Hamburg today in 141 minutes. This is said to be a record for motor trains. The train at times was clocked at 97 miles an hour. The return trip was made in 150 minutes. When the train is put into regular service next year the scheduled running time will be 129 minutes, which is 50 minutes faster than the present swiftest express.

The train, which is one long coach, accommodates 102 passengers. It has a refreshment car in the middle. It is driven by two Maybach Diesel motors, each of 410 horsepower. One motor is in front, the other at the back, each with an exhaust projecting through the roof.

The utmost efficiency is embodied in the train. Not even door knobs project from the body, so that wind resistance is minimized. The front is rounded off like a torpedo.

WOMAN ROBBED IN HOME.

Mrs. Minnie Budja was tied up in her home at 2400 Wentworth avenue by two men yesterday and robbed of $100 and a wrist watch.

WOMEN WORKERS RAISE $40,000 FOR WELFARE FUND

The efforts of a thousand women workers have brought the Emergency Welfare fund approximately $40,000. This was revealed yesterday by Robert A. Gardner, chairman of the welfare fund campaign, which has as its goal the raising of a $7,500,000 fund to care for the needy served by the city's private charities.

The women's division throughout last week solicited contributions from small loop concerns, outlying business houses and women's organizations. The largest donation from a woman's group came from the Woman's City club, which subscribed $1,110.

The employes of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad sent $3,774.10 and the staff of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway subscribed $2,500. The campaign headquarters reported. The Texas company gave $1,250 and the Shell Petroleum company $1,000. This brings the grand total to $3,798,446. It is expected that the $4,000,000 mark will be reached by Christmas.

MOVE GROWS FOR GENERAL UNION OF 6 BALKAN STATES

Bulgaria Holds Back on Minority Issue.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 19.—Under the guidance of A. Papanastassiou, leader of the Agrarian and Workers party in Greece, a movement for a general union of all the six Balkan states is being formulated here. It gained impetus at the third Balkan conference recently concluded in Bucharest, according to Papanastassiou, who headed the Greek delegation.

Papanastassiou believes a Balkan entente is realizable immediately. In fact, he refused to take a portfolio in the present government because its policy with regard to the Balkan union was not sufficiently emphatic.

Bulgaria Holds Back.

At the Bucharest conference a preliminary project for a Pan-Balkan pact was presented and was accepted by all the Balkan states excepting Bulgaria. The Bulgarian wanted a settlement of the question of protection for minorities before effecting any general political union.

The proposed Pan-Balkan pact envisages arbitration of any conflicts that may arise and the liquidation of differences which arose out of a long period of wars and frontier disputes.

"The Bucharest conference marked a great step forward in the realization of the Union of Balkan Peoples," Papanastassion said. "The absence of the Bulgarian delegation was regrettable. The Balkan union not only is useful, but it is necessary. The league of nations is the superior world organization, but to enable the league to fulfill its mission, it is indispensable that neighboring states should work together. It is all the more necessary for the Balkan states to unite, since they have ties of blood, institutions and culture."

Seek End of Squabbles.

The states involved are Greece, Albania, Jugoslavia, Turkey, Rumania and Bulgaria. In all of them are idealists who want to put an end to political altercations. For many decades it has been a sort of axiom of European politics that the Balkans are the trouble and storm center of Europe, but the impression is now gaining ground that the Balkans would not quarrel so much among themselves if the bigger states would stop meddling in their affairs and let them alone.

Apart from these annual Balkan conferences each fall, there are other signs of a growing spirit of coöperation. Among these is to be noted the inter Balkan games, which have just been concluded in Athens. These athletic contests are helping the various Balkan states to learn more about each other.

Serbs and Greeks Friendly.

A friendly spirit exists between the Jugoslavs and Greeks at the present time. A manifestation of this was given recently when the Jugoslavs raised donations to aid the Greek earthquake victims. The relations between Greec and Turkey are also marked by growing friendliness. It is expected that commercial exchanges between the two countries will extend this even further. The Athens newspaper Hestia in a recent article said: "We need a commercial attaché in Constantinople much more than a military or naval attaché."

The principal obstacle to pan-Balkanism seems to be the question of minorities.

There are those, of course, who think that the Balkan organization must not begin with a political pact or entente. This group thinks that before such a pact can be practicable, the pan-Balkan movement must first act as its task the promotion of an atmosphere of tolerance and collaboration.

PAIR ACCUSED AS ATTACKERS OF WOMAN SEIZED

Two men accused by kidnaping and attacking Miss June Cunningham, 33 years old, 6519 Woodlawn avenue, were arrested last night by police of the Woodlawn station.

They are Edward Connors, 24 years old, 7938 Vernon avenue, and James Whelan, 24 years old, 8005 Calumet avenue. According to Miss Cunningham, the two men offered her a ride at 65th street and Dorchester avenue, and after she joined them in their car insisted on her drinking with them. When she declined, she said, they both attacked her and thrust her out of the car at 55th street and Cottage Grove avenue. The men admitted they had picked her up, but denied the attack. Both were charged with rape.

Insull Hearing in Athens Due to Begin This Week

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Dec. 19.—The hearing on the extradition of Samuel Insull, former Chicago utility magnate, to face charges in Chicago of larceny and embezzlement, will come before the Greek Court of Appeals on Thursday or Friday, according to Athens newspapers tonight. Prosecutor Reganakos said the length of time required by the court to hand down a decision would depend on the nature and cogency of the defense's objections.

Kills Girl and Self in Auto

MISS IRENE FARRELL.

FRANK AMATO.

Gun in His Hand

A verdict of murder and suicide was returned yesterday at the inquest into the deaths of Miss Irene Farrell, 20 years old, 7708 Lowe avenue, a student nurse at the Little Company of Mary hospital, Evergreen Park, and Frank Amato, 32 years old, 12837 Sacramento avenue, Blue Island, a garbage collector. They were found shot to death early yesterday morning in an automobile parked in a cornfield near 151st street and Kean avenue, Orland Park.

Amato apparently had killed Miss Farrell and then shot himself. The gun was clutched in his hand. Love notes and poetry found in the car indicated that Amato, a married man and the father of four children, had carried on an affair with the girl.

The presence of the notes convinced police that Miss Farrell was killed after she returned Amato's letters and sought to end the affair. Miss Farrell was the daughter of Andrew Farrell, who operates a florist shop in Chicago. She was graduated from the Longwood academy and entered the hospital on Sept. 1.

The families of Miss Farrell and Amato said they knew nothing of the affair. Friends of Amato said he met Miss Farrell while collecting garbage at the hospital and that the couple had been together frequently in the last three weeks. Mrs. Anna Amato, the widow, appeared at the inquest, but did not take the stand.

CHILE'S NEW CHIEF BIDS ALL PARTIES TO JOIN HIS RULE

Allesandri Promises National Cabinet.

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 19.—Arturo Alessandri, who will assume presidential authority on Christmas eve, has promised a national government to guide the country through its political and economic troubles. Although a radical by party membership, he is calling upon the assistance of Conservatives, Liberals, and quasi-Socialists. Only Col. Marmaduke Grove, who was too red for Carlos Davila's Socialist junta, and the official Conservatives will be barred from the government and precluded from central and provincial administration jobs.

Seeking Support of Premier.

Alessandri made and is still making a supreme effort to secure the support of Javier Angel Figueron, former chief justice and present premier. Angel played a notable part in the overthrow of the dictatorship and is considered a valuable man to help straighten out the political impasse.

Alessandri's right hand man, however, will undoubtedly be Gustavo Ross, who spent many years in exile in France with the president elect. Ross is a financier and has been offered the post of finance minister. He is now on his way back from London, where he negotiated a secret pact with the Rothschild bankers. This is believed to offer the consolidation of $150,000,000 of British debts at a lower interest rate and with a moratorium of five years' duration.

The former war and marine ministries will be merged into a single department of national defense, to be intrusted to a civilian, as proof that generals and admirals are definitely out of the government. Emilio Bello Codesido, well known jurist, who has seen arbitration service in Mexico recently, has been offered this post.

Envoy to U. S. Favored.

It is taken for granted that Miguel Cruchaga Tocornal, present ambassador to the United States, will be given the portfolio of foreign affairs. Cruchaga is the most prominent lawyer in Chile and played a leading rôle in the Tacna-Arica arbitration proceedings.

Most of these unofficial governmental selections have been favorably received. The only exception is Ross. He is distrusted by the armed services and detested by the Socialists. As the closest personal friend of Alessandri, however, he is expected to exert powerful influence on the government's policy. He is opposed to the Cosach nitrate combine and economic experts fear he will bring the government into early collision with the American administration of the industry.

State of Siege in Effect.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 19.—The Argentine government tonight decreed a state of siege throughout the republic. It becomes effective at once. The measure was adopted to facilitate the government's investigations of the frustrated conspiracy to overthrow the government. Public meetings and other activities, usually prohibited under a state of siege, are permitted. Civil courts also will continue to function.

Woman Slayer Escapes from Belleville (Ill.) Jail

Belleville, Ill., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Inez Bernard, 26, a divorcee, who killed her former sweetheart, Walter Fadoski, in an East St. Louis motion picture theater three months ago as he was attending the show with another woman, escaped last night from the St. Clair county hospital here.

POLICE MASSED AT PARLIAMENT; FOIL RED MARCH

Shops Put Up Shutters; Subways Guarded.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 19.—A demonstration which the Daily Worker, a communist paper, attempted to organize against the "means of support test" for relief of the idle flopped tonight when the police cleared the entire region of Parliament square of all traffic except that of private vehicles having business there.

All precautions taken as a result of recent disorders around the houses of parliament were strictly observed. Steel shutters on shops were pulled down and subway station guards moved steel grilles three-fourths shut as a preparation to close the entrances in case of emergency. Large forces of police were rushed into Parliament square from Scotland Yard.

Police Halt Delegation.

A delegation carrying haversacks, supposedly containing petitions signed by one million persons against the "means test," marched to the main entrance of parliament. There they were stopped by the police, who permitted a group of six to enter. After bombarding Sir Henry Betterton, minister for labor, with questions and protests for nearly an hour, the sextet withdrew.

Three gatherings were scheduled in London to hear of the success of the petitioners. At the first meeting 200 persons listened to an attack on the police. Fifty persons attended the second session, and at the third, less than an hour after the assembly was called, nobody was present.

(The "means test" provides that persons "on the dole" must furnish proof that they have no other means of support on the expiration of the 26 week dole period. If it is found they have other sources of income they are refused further relief.)

While the idle vainly were attempting to demonstrate outside of parliament, the house of commons was discussing a new supplementary estimate for an expenditure of $90,500,000 on unemployment insurance and transitional payments. The last named represents direct relief for those ineligible to receive the dole in money, goods and maintenance of work houses.

Fund $32,000,000 in the Red.

The minister of labor explained that $32,000,000 was required to make up the deficiency in the unemployment fund, of which $63,000,000 was spent on transitional payments and $500,000 for assisting voluntary efforts for the idle. He pointed out that the original 1932 estimate of 2,500,000 idle men and women had risen to 2,770,000 between April and November, and that the number receiving transitional payments had increased from an estimated 800,000 to 950,000.

Sir Henry added that despite this increase, the unemployment figures for the United States, Germany and France were far greater.

J. J. Lawson, the Labor party opposition's official spokesman, stressed that the "standing army" of idle—those permanently out of work—is increasing rapidly. Prior to 1931, he said, no more than 100,000 persons were without work for a year or more, but that this figure had increased to 480,000 a week ago.

Objects to Administration.

George Lansbury, Labor leader, objected to what he called the "cynical and brutal manner" in which the government is administering the system of transitional payments.

Defending the policy of the government, R. S. Hudson, parliamentary secretary of the ministry of labor, cited several cases where people were receiving transitional payments when their families were well off. He mentioned one case in which an unmarried man was living at home and receiving a $2.50 payment. His father had $7,000 invested, owned four houses and lived in one of them.

24 INJURED, 300 SHAKEN BY TRAIN CRASH IN DEPOT

A six car suburban train carrying 700 passengers rammed into a concrete bumper abutment in the Union station yesterday. More than 300 passengers were shaken up, scores were bruised, and 24 received injuries which necessitated first aid and hospital treatment.

The train was a Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy suburban special, No. 116, carrying passengers from Downers Grove, Hinsdale, and La Grange. The engine, in charge of Engineer Theodore Patzeke, 50 years old, a veteran of 28 years' experience, was edging in at a four mile an hour pace.

Smoke Hides Track.

"I could see the next track to the right about fifty feet ahead of me," said the engineer. "But because of the heavy fog and mist and smoke in the trainshed, I could not see the track we were on. The track we were on was shorter than the other tracks and the engine hit the abutment before I could see it."

Many of the passengers on the train were standing in the aisles and on the platforms and steps of the coaches en the crash came. These persons were knocked off their feet and some were flung to the ground.

A number were given first aid treatment in the emergency hospital of the station.

List of Hospital Cases.

Those taken to hospitals were:

S. T. COLLINS JR., 45 years old, 2895 Washington street, Hinsdale, insurance broker.
W. H. RAY, Downers Grove.
MRS. ALMA FREEBERG, 61 years old, La Grange.
MRS. ELIZABETH MILLINTON, 54 years old, Hinsdale.
MRS. MAUDE McMAHON of St. Paul, Minn., who had been visiting in La Grange.
CLAY TAYLOR, 40 years old, Hinsdale.
GEORGE WEBSTER, La Grange.
GEORGE E. MASSEY, La Grange.

These persons received cuts, bruises, and some of them were possibly internally injured.

An investigation into the crash will be made, according to O. H. Frick, general manager of the Union station.

DIMES SATISFY KEEN HUNGER OF SCHOOL PUPILS

Depend on Hot Lunch as Chief Meal.

Do you remember 'way back when you were a youngster playing outside on a cold day, and how you stamped into the kitchen at supper time so hungry it seemed as if you couldn't wait for meal time?

Then put yourselves, readers, into the place of most any boy or girl in a home where food is so scarce that the children hope to satisfy their hunger in the school lunchroom. Their hunger isn't just a matter of a healthy appetite worked up out in the yard during a strenuous game of snowball. It's real hunger.

A Meal for a Nickel.

So if you have a few dimes or dollars to spare, perhaps you can give the Hungry School Children's fund a lift, and make some child happy for a week or a month with real lunches that come piping hot out of the school kitchen. A nickel gives a small child an adequate meal and fifteen cents will take the edge right off a high school pupil's appetite.

These gifts may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. They will be turned over to Miss Frances L. Swain, head of the household arts department of the board of education, who will see that they get to the neediest schools in the city.

JAPANESE FORBID LEAGUE TO CALL U. S. INTO DISPUTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Dec. 19.—The Japanese delegation to the league of nations today flatly rejected a proposal for conciliation of the Manchurian dispute by a committee on which would be included the United States and Russia. The proposal was made by a committee of the league assembly's committee of nineteen. The Japanese delegates thus are on the point of gaining at least another month's delay in their fight against interference in their Manchurian adventure.

The committee of nineteen will meet tomorrow to hear of the failure of its drafting committee's plan. Helpless, with none of the big powers' diplomats here in a mood to force a reckoning, they will record their defeat and postpone negotiations to set up a committee of conciliation until about Jan. 16. The Chinese, furious in the face of the new delay, charged the Japanese with maneuvering to win a clean victory in Manchuria before the conciliation begins.

The Japanese today also refused to permit the league to put the authenticity of the new state of Manchukuo in question. Moreover, they demanded that no committee of conciliation be allowed to interfere in "direct negotiations" between China and Japan.

SCIENTIST BAGS RARE TAKIN IN WILDS OF CHINA

Back with 7,000 Specimens for Field Museum

The pair of giant panda at the Field museum, made famous by the Roosevelt brothers, have in prospect a neighboring group, almost as rare, from their native Tibet. Seven takin, commonly known as "antelope goats," will be mounted in the Asiatic hall as the result of the two year Marshall Field expedition to China, from which Floyd T. Smith returned yesterday. One is the largest of its kind ever bagged, though an equally large trophy was secured previously from a different branch of the species.

All the takin were shot in the central part of the western Szechuan province, near the Tibetan border, by the party of which Mr. Smith was the only white member. They are of the Tibetanus branch, the previous champion trophy having been of the Taxicolor branch. There is a wide range of age in the group. The curved horns of the prize head are more than 23 inches. This animal weighed approximately 600 pounds. The coats of the takin are smooth and they resemble an ox more than any other animal, though they are not of that family.

Guerillas Burn Camp.

In the same section of China, in May, 1931, 300 fine specimens already obtained by the expedition were lost when guerillas attacked the camp and burned everything. Mr. Smith was away from the camp at the time. Trouble with the guerillas was encountered frequently during his marches. Smith reported, but he received excellent cooperation from officials of the central government at Nanking, and from the National Academy of Science. In several areas work had to be curtailed, however, because of these roving bands of warriors.

Mr. Smith's chief hunter went in search of a giant panda into the same region where the Roosevelts, Theodore and Kermit, distinguished themselves as the only two white men to see a panda alive. He trailed and killed the specimen, which was returned to the museum with the takin and the rest of about 7,000 trophies obtained by the expedition. It has not been determined whether it will be mounted.

Gets 7,000 Specim s.

"Most of the rest of the small animals, reptiles and birds that make up the 7,000 are known to science, but there are many that appear to be totally unknown, as far as description goes," explained Mr. Smith, who is a veteran zoölogist, and has made numerous trips to China. "In spite of the difficulties encountered the result of the expedition is gratifying. I went after the vertebrates, and the collection I got will take some time to catalog and mount."

RUSSIA RENEWS COLLECTIONS OF DAIRY PRODUCTS

Order Milk and Butter Turned Over.

MOSCOW, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Josef V. Stalin, head of the Communist party, and V. M. Molotoff, head of the Council of People's Commissars, issued a new decre tonight assessing the government's 1933 collections of milk and butter from the peasantry in the form of a special tax and placing them on the same basi as the present meat collections.

The order does not specify whether the collections next year will be greater or smaller than in 1932, but it assigns definite quotas both for individual and collective peasants ranging from 50 to 580 liters [53 to 613 quarts] of milk per cow per year, depending on the locality and the resources of the respective farms. Individuals are to furnish more proportionately and collective members on dairy farms the least.

Ask for More Butter.

The state dairy farms, operated exclusively by the government, were assessed a year's quota of 30,700 tons of butter, compared with a 1932 total of 22,000.

The decree fixed a flat price of 15 kopecks per liter to be paid to the peasantry for deliveries to the government, which compares with five rubles per liter now charged in the private market.

[Using the nominal valuation of 51.5 cents for the ruble, the price of 15 kopecks per liter is the equivalent of 7.7 cents a quart, the price of five rubles a liter is about 32.4.]

Will Punish Offenders.

Those failing to fulfill their government contracts will be subjected to fine and to forced sale of their products.

A part of the milk thus collected is to be turned over by the state to dairy farms for conversion into butter. Butter is one of the scarcest commodities in soviet Russia today, but official figures show that the government exported 27,875 tons in the first ten months of 1932, for which it obtained 14,496,000 rubles in badly needed gold.

'Shadow Flies' History Novel in Full Sense

Rose Macaulay Creates 17th Century.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Shadow Flies," by Rose Macaulay. [Harpers.]

ROSE MACAULAY of the scalpel-like pen, Rose Macaulay of the biting satire, Rose Macaulay of the pungent criticism of the state of the human mind in the years of our Lord and of ourselves, the author of "Potterism," "Told by an Idiot," and "Orphan Island" and "Dangerous Ages," all in their way feline-like writing, with velvet bedded claws which make a sharp wound in the reader's complacency, have given place to a new Rose Macaulay, who retains all of the skillful characteristics of her earlier works and adds a new bay leaf of scholarliness to her well merited laurel crown.

ROSE MACAULAY.

"The Shadow Flies" is a historical novel in the most thoroughly comprehensive sense of the word. It actually does re-create the period which it chronicles in every sense, not only in physical description, in idiomatic conversation of the day, but in an interpretation of the period, not from the perspective of the years but from its inner being. The period is that of the seventeenth century, when Robert Herrick was a somewhat roistering dissatisfied vicar at Dean Prior, when his verses were pretty things—or misguided ones, according to the point of view of the person who heard them; when Cambridge was the hotbed of a new school of poetry, with young men worshiping Dr. Donne and themselves writing vastly iconoclastic verse; when religion tore asunder Anglican, Jesuit, and Puritan, with Archbishop Laud shadowing them all; when witches were hunted like foxes, and when love was, as love always is, joy and tragedy so intermingled as to be an emulsion of emotion.

There is something alive about Miss Macaulay's pages, forever rooted in the period which she is chronicling, not a literary growth transplanted from another period. The reader has no sense of viewing the seventeenth century as it seems to a scholarly historian [naturally of a later period after time has had a chance to sift history from everyday affairs], but he is conscious of viewing it from the moment, from the hearts of those living during the days which were making its history.

Perhaps the fact that there are so many real characters in the book helps that illusion. Robert Herrick is a principal one, and the characterization which Miss Macaulay makes of him is not to be missed by any one who cherishes admiration for the poet or interest in the man. Sir John Suckling flirts his way through the pages.

In other fields there are other real persons like Sir Kenelm Digby and Laud. And through most of the book the love story which makes of the seventeenth century merely a part of the long, ceaseless rhythm of the emotions, the girl young, passionately eager to be a poet, the man she loves, the real John Cleveland, her ideal as an artist as well as a man, and thus twice dangerous to her, destined to break a fine and noble heart, and their tragedy in the book, serving as a sharp flame of emotion to warm the cold facts and intellectual contemplation.

"The Shadow Flies" is a book one does not, can not forget. The idiom is a little difficult at first, for, as Miss Macaulay says in a foreword, "I have done my best to make no person in this novel use in conversation any words, phrases or idioms that were not demonstrably used at the time in which they lived," but not until the reader has accustomed himself to it and he called upon to test his reactions to intense emotion and by that time he has been so skillfully and thoroughly translated into the period by the author that his feelings are galvanized as well as his intellect by the book.

"The Shadow Flies" is no facile tale, either in the writing or in the reading, but the intellectual ore one mines from its pages is rich and strange.

Clothes for a Trip to Southland

MISS MARIANNE STEVENSON
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Cool Linens

The crisp organdies, cool looking linens, and snappy beach clothes that were modeled yesterday afternoon by some of society's prettiest young matrons and girls at a preview of the Annette Simpson fashion showing for southern wear at Field's certainly made one long to go south.

And if the models were as pleased with their costumes as the audience was with them they undoubtedly went home last night and tried to persuade their husbands and fathers to arrange a southern trip for after Christmas. There were Mrs. Malcolm McAdoo and Miss Elizabeth Baum in crisp organdy frocks; Miss Ethel Dixon and Miss Nancy Traylor in cunning beach outfits; Miss Marianne Stevenson, Miss Louise Neff, Miss Jane Rowe, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., and Mrs. Arthur D. Bissell in "packable" linens; Mrs. Walter F. McLallen in a stunning wool outfit with chamois hat and trimmings on the coat, and Mrs. Walter Paepcke in mannish white linen which was heralded as "Just a Gigolo."

Good morning!

The Northwestern Mounted Police! Scotland Yard! The French Sûreté (France's secret police)! They always get their men!

This movie is unadulterated melodrama, with a strong mystery flavor that should go well with addicts of baffle books and such. It is an adaptation of two stories—"Secrets of the French Sûreté," by Ashton Wolfe, and "The Lost Empress," by Samuel Ormitz.

The plot concerns the abduction of a pretty flower girl by a Russian criminal who would substitute her for an empress lost during the revolution. The French police, assisted by the girl's lover, a picturesque thief, get busy. . .

The action is swift and interesting. Frank Morgan gives one of his smooth performances as the police inspector. John Warburton, the spit'n image of John Gilbert, is an aware and lightsome thief. Gwili André? Beautiful, but with about as much life and expression as the Goddess of Liberty.

Supporting rôles are satisfactorily portrayed; direction and staging get by.

(Now go on with your Christmas shopping! I haven't taken up much of your time.)

See you soon.

Church Club Party.

The women's committee of the Church club of Chicago is sponsoring a Christmas benefit and party for 1,000 needy children, to be held tomorrow night at the Chicago Stadium. Proceeds will go to the emergency fund of the Episcopal church social service institutions in the city.

MINUTE MYSTERY

CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

By H. A. Ripley

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

OUTSMARTED.

"I've been tipped that the Moreno mob is havin' a meetin' in the Bismark hotel in New York, to make plans for chiselin' in on our racket here," said Jerry Donovan of the firm of Donovan & Casin, contractors.

"None of that mob knows me," replied Dapper Dan Casini. "I'll go down there and see what it's all about."

Arriving in New York by plane, he secured an elaborate suite directly opposite that of the Moreno gang. Lady Luck was with him.

As he stepped into the corridor that evening, a strikingly beautiful girl opened the door opposite and called, "Hello, handsome! We're having a little party. Like to join us?"

"You're on, beautiful," was his rejoinder.

Finding himself in the midst of the gay party he knew he wasn't likely to get any information that night, so he decided to make his rivals pay for his fun and provide a little cigaret money. He started a crap game from which he emerged $300 winner and after ignoring the check for champagne and expensive food, much of which he had generously ordered, he handed his host his business card.

"Drop in and see us when you're in Chi," he invited with elaborate sarcasm. "If I'm not in town Jerry, my pardner, will show you around. Thanks for the joy ride!"

What a bunch of suckers they were! Plenty of the best to eat and drink and 300 besides!

Muggs, just muggs, was his awakening thought at noon next day. His complacency would have vanished, however, had he known that the party had already cost HIM $500!

No, they didn't pick his pockets; neither did they know the name of his bank.

HOW DID THE MORENO GANG OUTSMART DAPPER DAN?

Jascha Heifetz Is "Better than Ever" in Recital

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Returning to Chicago in better form than ever, if such a condition is credible, Jascha Heifetz played a violin recital at Orchestra hall last night, appearing as one of the items in the series of concerts for the benefit of the Girl Scouts of Chicago.

It might have been called a daring action on his part to play the Bruch G minor concerto, but Mr. Heifetz, daring much, accomplishes much. A decade or so ago this concerto was a best seller among all violin soloists. Every one played it, more or less effectively, until, like other best sellers, it went completely into the discard.

Mr. Heifetz would seem to be the one person in the world to usher it into its resurrection. A tone of pure gold, a technical ability that stops at nothing, a belief that its straightforward, somewhat naïve, tunes are well worth the hearing, all added their shares to a greatly effective performance and caused him to be called back until he finally appeared without his violin as a token that he would play no more at this point.

Elsewhere there was other good music. The program began with a performance by Mr. Heifetz, and his accompanist, Joseph Achron, of the Franck sonata, also received with much acclaim. Following the intermission there came the Saint-Saëns Rondo Capriccioso and a group of shorter numbers, one by Mr. Achron, two more arrangements by Mr. Heifetz, and others by Drigo and Bazzini.

Scotti to Retire After 34 Years with Metropolitan

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—After thirty-four years' service, Antonia Scotti is leaving the Metropolitan. The veteran baritone, who has been a member of the local opera company longer than any other singer, will make his farewell appearance on the afternoon of Friday, Jan. 20, after which he plans to retire to his native Italy. Scotti's final performance will be at a benefit performance for the Willoughby House settlement in Brooklyn. He will sing the leading rôle in L'Oracolo, by Francis Leoni, as part of a double bill with La Boheme. He is 66 years old.

Miss Emily Larned Gives Clever Party for Mrs. Stephen Browning

Only Authors Are Guests at Luncheon for Woman Who Published Book on 95th Birthday.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MISS EMILY LARNED added to her reputation for having unusual and delightful parties yesterday with the luncheon she gave for Mrs. Stephen G. Browning, for when the party assembled it was discovered that only those clever ones who have written, and what is more important, have had published, books, had been invited. Miss Larned hasn't written a book but all the guests were authors, including Mrs. Browning who celebrated her ninety-fifth birthday last spring by publishing "Full Harvest," a volume based on her rich and varied experiences and reflections on life.

Mrs. Browning's daughter, Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, who with Mr. Loesch gives Mrs. Browning a birthday party on each March 15, wasn't eligible to be invited to the party, but Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Cecil Barnes, Mrs. Graham Aldis, Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell (Marion Strobel), Miss Alice Gerstenberg, Miss Harriet Monroe, and Ira Nelson Morris were.

Mr. Morris was the only man and he really was invited to represent his wife, who is abroad. The party was given in the Cape Cod room of the Drake hotel where Mrs. Browning and the Loesches live. Miss Larned visited Mr. and Mrs. Loesch and Mrs. Browning at their summer place at Cooperstown, N. Y., last summer and it was while she was there that she decided to give Mrs. Browning a party this winter and introduce to her some of Chicago society's younger authors.

Miss Larned gave a tea recently for her great-uncle and when the guests arrived they found not the great-uncle in person but his portrait, which she had unearthed in the east this summer and which had just arrived to hang in state in Miss Larned's apartment at the Ambassador East.

Holiday Parties Start Tonight

The round of holiday dances for the debutantes will begin this evening with the supper dance that Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell of Winnetka are to give for their daughter, Miss Frances Bell, and their nieces, Miss Lucy Fairbank and Miss Jane Boyce.

All three girls have made their debuts—Miss Bell and Miss Fairbank at a joint tea given in the early fall by the Bells and Mrs. Fairbank in the gardens of the Bell residence, and Miss Jane Boyce at a tea given by her mother, Mrs. Livingston Fairbank, at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank.

Miss Bell is a freshman at Smith college and Miss Fairbank is a member of the sophomore class at Bryn Mawr.

Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank are to have 40 guests at a dinner for their three nieces preceding the dance, to which about 200 young people have been invited.

The University School for Girls will hold a holiday dance this evening at the school at 1106 Lake Shore drive. It will be strictly a school affair and the boys who have been invited correspond in ages to the undergraduates who are asking them.

The girls of the school have made all of the arrangements for the dance themselves and have put up simple Christmas decorations of fir trees and holly.

Miss Medora Pelouze, senior class president; Miss Martha Schuler, junior president; Miss Ann Callender, head of the sophomore class, and Miss Virginia Hodges, presiding officer of the freshman group, are prominent on the committee in charge. A group of mothers have been asked to chaperon.

Mrs. Edward F. Carry of the Lake Shore Drive hotel is to be hostess at a small luncheon at the Casino today

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

If you have an old soft wood floor which needs freshening, to brighten up the entire room interior, one good method to employ in its reconditioning is paint. Choose a good inside floor paint, a flat paint without gloss. Have the floor scrubbed very clean first, and sandpapered if it is rough, or if it has been painted and varnished before. In doorways where wear is severe, sandpaper a little deeper, though not down to the wood. Just rub enough for a footing for your new paint. After the paint comes the varnish. And then wax and polish if you like!

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Hiram White sails his four-master ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters, sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a South Sea island. Arlette Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Eden, an unemployed engineer, Roberta Millbank and Peter Cavan. Roberta's father died after his bank failed and Peter was his trusted employe. Benny, a cook, hires up for his keep. Henery Shepard, Becker of the western, fills the boat with a cargo of his own choosing, including a lot of used cars and launches and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. One owner of an unused car sends his French chauffeur, Raoul, along. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter, is made mate. The ship is seized by four stowaways on the high seas. A warning comes in over the radio about four bank robbers being at large and the captain realizes he and his crew are in their hands. After several days the bandits are overpowered and set adrift. The ship reaches Cape Town, where Henery's cargo is traded, through Peter Muller, a banker friend of Roberta's father, at a large profit. Their next destination is Sydney, Australia. Peter finds the robbers' loot hidden on the boat. The captain turns it over to the U. S. consul at Sydney. The cargo is discharged at Sydney and another picked up for delivery to Japan, where another profitable trade is made. Ladybird is against sharing any part of the treasure that may be found with the crew.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

SIGNS OF DISCORD.

Ladybird asked, "Then is it your idea that they ought to share up evenly with Arlette whose grandfather got the pearls and with yourself who furnished the ship and captained her? On what do you base the claim?"

"Let's go back to the start," the captain said quietly. "Both Arlette's page of notebook and my own said that Mr. Mordecai's heir or agent and I were to share evenly in whatever was found."

"Well, why not?" Ladybird asked. "Mr. Mordecai had got the pearls and had to sink them; and you, Skipper, had to go there with your ship and retrieve them. Fair enough. But why in the name of common sense, should Arlette and you share with these ladies and gentlemen of fortune, whose grandfathers did not find any pearls and who hadn't any ship?"

A Japanese naval officer waited for them.

The captain asked her, "Just what is your own arrangement with Arlette, Mr. Mate?"

Ladybird flushed. "Even lay. But then I not only staked her but made her do something about it. She wouldn't have started it but for me."

The captain said to Ladybird with no change in his pleasant voice that held like hers an Anglican accent though one more quaint, "It strikes me that you were a mite hasty about banking on half of Arlette's half share."

Her angry color deepened. "Why?"

"Because you might have known that the costs of such an expedition had to be taken out. Well, as it happens these folks that have helped run the schooner represent a big part of the costs of the expedition. I consider that as such they're entitled collectively to a third share. That is one-third to Arlette to split as she likes, one-third to the ship and one-third to be divided among the rest."

"Spoke like Solomon," said Benny. "Only so far's I'm concerned I'm willing to discount my share in them pearls for regular wages, the hull voyage."

Arlette said in her prettily inflected voice, "I think the capitaine is right. Besides," she turned to Ladybird, "I would divide my share with you. But we did not know how much that share would be."

Ignoring Ladybird the captain said to Arlette, "This matter of division lies entirely between you and me. We are the ones to decide. What do you say to my proposal of one-third to you, one-third to me and one-third to be divided between Roberta, Adam, Peter, and Raoul. Benny to get full wages for the voyage."

"I think it perfectly fair. I agree."

"Then to avoid any future argument we'll draw up such an agreement in writing here and now to be signed by all hands." The captain turned to Peter. "You're the business man. Just put that in the proper form."

Peter did so. He might have demurred on his own account being far from a grasping person, but he had Roberta's interest to protect, and his own position was practically the same as hers. At least he thought of it that way until Adam said bluntly:

"That is very liberal to Peter and Raoul and me."

"And why not to Roberta?" Ladybird challenged.

"Because, if you'll remember, my lady, when we pooled our capital that first night at the farm, Roberta put up two hundred dollars; Peter, nine, sixty. You chipped in a fiver and I contributed twelve cents."

"And I, nothing," said Raoul sadly, "because I was not there. Not that it mattered because my wages are still owing me."

"Well," said the captain, "let's waive all that."

Peter drew up the agreement and they all signed. Capt. Hiram took the paper, then rose. His square handsome face was stern; not angry but austere. There was also a different note in his habitually pleasant voice. It held a deeper pitch and its resonance was compelling.

"Now, as that is all settled, I have a little more to say. This voyage started on a shoestring. Then the shoestring began to grow and thicken and sort of weave itself into a sennit that kept getting stronger and stronger until it was like a tow line. And then what happens? The first sign of discord shows itself. It's always that way. It's the history of treasure hunting. Everything goes all right until it begins to look as if the venture might succeed. From that moment it goes from bad to worse right up to when the treasure is found and that's apt to finish it. Human greed and avarice, jealousy and bad blood.

"Well, that's not going to happen here." He struck the table a slap with his calloused hand. "I shan't stand for any of that at all. We're not ignorant sailors or a tough crowd of adventurers here aboard. We're honest, God fearing men and women that have been through bad luck. Each one of us had someting to contribute. We've given our best and we're going to keep on giving it. There's to be no bickering, no ill feeling whether on the surface or down underneath—I want that you all agree to that——"

Taking their assent for granted, he returned to his habitually pleasant voice.

"But there's another point. Whether we get these pearls or whether we don't, we'll still be a long way from home."

"What about winds?" Ladybird asked.

"Favorable from here to the Carolines where we want to go. After that variables until we get across the equator and after that southeast trades that are ahead until we get down around 30 degrees south where we can expect prevailing northwest winds which is to say fair wind right across——" He rose. "Going ashore?"

"Henery and I have got some things to do," Ladybird said.

"I got to buy grub," said Benny.

The four of them went ashore. As the boat drew in they saw a private or perhaps official rickshaw with the men in clean whites and the sun sparkling on its lacquered sides spin down to the landing. A Japanese naval officer smartly uniformed got down and waited for them. It was the commander of the gunboat that had met the Abigail offshore and towed her in.

"Wonder what's up now," said Capt. Hiram as they disembarked.

The officer saluted them in naval fashion, then said in his flawless English: "I have just left your consul, Captain, and as I saw you coming in I have waited to save your missing each other. He was about to off aboard your ship."

"Thank you, Commander," said Capt. Hiram.

Candied Fruits Make Luscious Christmas Gift

BY MARY MEADE.

Five days to shop—but nobody seems worried. And the answer seems to be that this year Christmas has taken up its headquarters in the kitchen and is phoning its shopping list—to the grocer.

Women who invariably gave neckties and military brushes to men, and books and stationery to their girl friends, have been found by this questioning reporter swathed in aprons and merrily packing boxes with teasers for sweet tooths—while socks and gift pajamas take a well earned rest.

There are fruit cakes—the smartest new ones being baked and given away right in the glass baking dishes in which they were cooked; fudge, divinity, bonbons, taffy, popcorn candy, and a thousand variations—and finally an abundance of our own favorite sweet which we've been longing to talk about for weeks—namely, candied fruits and glazed nuts.

People are bound to crave sweets, especially so along with big appetites at holiday time. Most of them have been eating sensibly all year and a sudden orgy of rich candy and cake eating is bound to cause a revolution. The best solution I've found is that given by candies that are at the same time fruits. If you are packing candy boxes this week, crunchy fruit dainitnesses plus a sugary nut or two will make excellent fillers for the corners, or a gayly arranged assortment of glazed fruits will tend to the whole box.

For our candied fruits we have the choice of apricots, cherries, pineapples, citron, oranges, figs, etc. Simply let the fruit drain if it is in juice and wipe the pieces dry. Now prepare a sirup of one-third as much water as of sugar—for instance, three cups of sugar to one of water—and boil until sirupy. Drop in the fruit and cook over a low flame for ten minutes; be careful that the sirup does not burn. When the pieces have become transparent and glossy drain out the fruit and toss it in a bag containing some granulated sugar. Dried prunes, peaches, apples, pears, apricots, etc., may be candied in the same way by first soaking them in water over night.

And have you tried candied cranberries yet this season? We're doing them this way: First pick over and wash one cup of large red berries. With a needle prick each berry several times to prevent the skins from popping. Meanwhile prepare a sirup made of one cup each of sugar and water boiled together until the sirup threads. Drop in the whole berries and cook gently until the sirup jells when dropped on a cold plate. Sieve out the berries one by one from the sirup and arrange them on a waxed paper. When they are almost dry roll them in granulated sugar and tuck into the chinks in your candy box, or use them on desserts much as you would candied cherries.

Candied nuts or fruits differ from glaced products in that the former have rough, granular surfaces, while the glaced foods have simply a smooth, ungrained, and unsugared outside covered with a thin coating of brittle, transparent candy. For the sirup-candy you will need:

GLACE FOR FRUITS AND NUTS.

1 pound (2 cups) sugar.
½ teaspoon cream of tartar.

Stir the ingredients until dissolved, then let boil without stirring to 320 degrees F. At this point remove at once from the stove and drop into the sirup your choice of crisp nuts or fruit sections, taking pains not to stir the sirup or otherwise cloud it. Lift out the pieces at once with a fork and dry on oiled paper.

Straight Lines Make Grace and Beauty

Right—Wrong sitting posture.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

We women have developed into just about the "sitting-est" body the world has ever seen. We sit and sit and sit. A big majority of us are sitting in front of a typewriter pounding away all day, or sitting, poring over figures—anyway, sitting! For diversion, we sit in at a game of bridge, or sit in at a movie.

We sit our way to work and home again. Well, if all God's girl children ain't got hips, 'tisn't because they aren't courted heartily!

Now, I don't say that sitting properly will reduce hips. If they're heavily padded they're going to require a bit stiffer reform work than that. BUT, they're not going to spread so easily if you keep the check on them that a good sitting posture requires. Beside, since we sit so much of our life away, we might just as well make as smart a picture of ourselves as possible.

More than that, this upright sitting business will keep the figure younger looking than just about any other prevention you can possibly employ. It's going to keep the spine young and it's going to hold your abdomen in. And it's going to keep that age hump off the back of the neck and between the shoulder blades.

When you sit reading, or working, hold your abdomen in. Don't let it swell out in a lax, loose paunch. Draw the muscles in taut. No telling how many fat stomachs are made chair-slouching. The slumping gives ugly lines to the body, and you know what I told you about smart lines being the test today of a young figure.

Don't sit on your spine. Sit on the back of your thighs. Sit far back on the chair. If you must lean forward, bend from the waist. Don't slide forward on the chair. When you want to relax, relax your spine against the chair back. And HOLD YOUR ABDOMEN IN!

Joan Crawford Rents Her Bike to Film Studio

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 19.—There are several scenes in Joan Crawford's new film in which she rides a bicycle. So Joan is renting her own bike to the studio at so much a day. Yes, Joan is part Scotch.

John Farrow, writer, and Lila Lee's rekindled flame, is to be promoted from his typewriter to a megaphone to direct Bill Boyd in "Brave Cowards" at Radio. The story is about a navy flyer. Bart Cormack, ex-Chicago newspaper man, wrote it.

Katharine Hepburn, who, by the way, once furnished the runner-up opposition in the Connecticut women's golf championship, has a Scottie dog who plays golf with her. The dog doesn't retrieve the ball and bring it back to her, ah, no, he is too smart for that; he follows the ball and sits down beside it to show Katharine where her drive went.

One chap who attracted much attention at the studios he visited last week was Vincent Bacardi of the Cuban family of rum exporters.

Helen Hayes fans will love to know that M-G-M plans co-starring her with Jean Harlow in a film called "Sex Appeal."

by her debutante niece, Miss Peggy Carry, daughter of the Joseph C. Carrys of 1317 East 50th street.

Two young Winnetka girls are to be hostesses at a dinner dance for young people of "prep" school age tomorrow night, Katherine Bulger and Evelyn Shuman. Dinner will be served at the residence of Katherine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Bulger of 409 Sheridan road, with dancing later at the Indian Hill residence of Evelyn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Shuman.

A dancing party for some of the young Highland Parkers of preparatory school age will be given Thursday night by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Odell at their residence for their daughters, Patty and Frances.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Calhoun Smith are to chaperon the dinner and box party that the Charles B. Shaffers will give Thursday night for their daughter, Barbara, who is at home from the Ogontz school for the holidays. There will be twelve in the party that will dine first at the Palmer house and then see the Princeton Triangle club's play at the Auditorium.

Dinner Party For Marie Gardner

Mrs. Henry A. Gardner of 844 Bryant avenue, Winnetka, is giving a dinner at home Friday evening for her daughter, Marie Louise, before the young people's dancing party at the Indian Hill club. There will be about thirty guests. Miss Gardner will arrive at home from Dobbs Ferry Thursday.

Mrs. Lorenzo Johnson and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ayres Boal, of 701 Sheridan road, Winnetka, will keep open house Christmas afternoon, as is their custom. Mrs. Johnson will leave shortly after New Year's day for her winter residence at Santa Barbara.

William D. Truesdale Jr. of Winnetka, who will be at home from Purdue tomorrow, is giving a small skating and supper party on Friday, Dec. 30, for Miss Betty Edmonds of Winnetka, one of the season's debutantes.

Miss Harriet Fentress arrived at home on Saturday to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress of Hubbards Woods. Miss Fentress goes to Vassar and her brother, Paul, who is a student at Princeton, will arrive at home on Thursday of this week.

The Fentress family will have their annual "at home" on New Year's afternoon, after 5 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville W. Thompson of 179 Lake Shore drive have cards out for their annual "at home" on New Year's from 5 to 8 o'clock.

Harvard Club Luncheon.

The Harvard club of Chicago will hold its annual Christmas luncheon for undergraduates and prospective Harvard students on Wednesday, Dec. 28, at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton club. There will be an informal program of short talks by men who are in touch with the pending change in administration and with athletics and scholarship at Harvard.

Howard F. Gillette, who was elected recently to succeed Barrett Wendell Jr., as president of the Harvard club, announces that the annual dinner in February will be a momentous occasion, as the club will have as its principal guest, President Lowell, who will be making his last visit to Chicago as president of the great eastern university.

Besides Mr. Gillette the new officers of the club include William H. King Jr., William Burry Jr., and Clay Judson, vice presidents; Dwight Ingram, secretary, and William J. Louderback Jr., treasurer. Barrett Wendell Jr., Thomas H. Fisher, and William A. Magie II. are directors.

Silas Strawn Speaks Today

There will be a large gathering of members of the Chicago council of foreign relations at the luncheon the council is giving today for Silas H. Strawn, who will tell the audience what he learned about "The World Economic Situation" at the recent meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce in Paris, where he acted as chairman of the chamber's American section.

Graham Aldis will preside as usual at the luncheon, and at the speaker's table there will be, besides the speaker and Mrs. Strawn, Mrs. Aldis, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Winston, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, Mr. and Mrs. Philip B. Maher, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Johnstone and the Strawns' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley M. Dixon.

Announce Waltz Contest.

All you who are of an age to boast of your prowess as waltzers take notice! The young women in charge of the supper dance to be given on Jan. 6 in the Urban room of the Congress hotel for the benefit of Emerson house have decided to hold a dance contest and Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin is to be the judge. In addition to the waltz, there will be a tango and a modern dance—a mongrel sort of affair without any particular name, for it is a combination of a one-step and a fox trot—to be judged by Mrs. McLaughlin also.

The Averill Tildens of Winnetka welcomed home their daughter, Harriet, from Vassar on Saturday and their other daughter, Ruth, from the Bishop school at La Jolla yesterday. Mrs. Tilden's nephew, Ripley Bayliss, who lives in California, arrived on Sunday from the Tabor academy at Marion, Mass., to spend the holidays with the Tildens.

Miss Jean Lamson, daughter of the Warren A. Lamsons of Winnetka, is at home from the Walker school at Simsbury, Conn., for the holidays. Miss Virginia Lamson leaves on Dec. 28 for a week's visit in Detroit.

Sampson. Jane Sampson already is at home from the Gulf Park college at Gulfport, Miss., for the vacation period.

Another holiday subscription dance on the north shore which promises to be well attended by the young people invited to it is one to be held on Thursday at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house in Evanston. Stout Fella Is in Love with Two Pretty Girls

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A demon for punishment, wouldn't you, too, call a young man who lets himself fall in love with two girls? To be in love with one usually has enough complications to satisfy the average man. But "Robert's" heart is torn two ways.

There's the young girl he's known pretty nearly all her life. This young girl dropped a suitor on account of "Robert." She's charming and a dear—and if she finds out about girl No. 2 there's going to be one more broken heart in Loveland. So "Robert" thinks.

An older girl came along last summer. Not older than "Robert," but older than the first girl. She's the finished product, suave, smooth, not only charming, but devastatingly charming—a girl who has made a striking place for herself in the professional world! Much sought after, but Robert's is her favorite voice on the telephone. He is the escort she likes best to parade.

The first girl has the tug of old and tender associations; the second brings glamour into her conquest. Maybe, boys, you can tell us what to do?

We think time might be let into the decision. Say—six months, a year. Perhaps the glamorous one's glamour might fade in the meantime. Maybe a new telephone voice might prove more welcome. We understand perfectly the appeal of a girl with a number of men at her beck and call. We understand the glamour of the professional career.

The old schoolpal is up against real competition when the glamorous lady arrives on the scene. But there's the question of having to live with the woman. Year in and year out it's no small job to have to play the glamorous creature's mate. But, then, some men like the rôle.

Table Linens Forecast Big Feasts Ahead

Stores Show Delightfully Informal Things.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Evidently, all diets, all special reducing formulas, and everything that sounds like spartan control for the appetite during the next few days, are temporarily taboo. One shopping expedition proves this surmise, for everything in the way of appetizing color and contrast has been designed for slightly starved but esthetic eaters. Table linens are delightfully informal, even gay and carefree, from the cheerful breakfast linens to the afternoon tea cloths and clusters of napkins that cling to them.

Look for the red and yellow checked sets consisting of a fringed table cover with red and yellow fringe and the fringed napkins to match . . . then cast your gloating eye over a black and white modernistic set that looks like a lot of Chinese squares, one interlaced with three or four larger and wider open squares. Some of the smart black and red glassware can be used effectively on either of these breakfast get-togethers.

One shop is showing some splashy red dotted breakfast linens, white backgrounds with green, black, blue, red, and yellow dots sprinkled lavishly over the white spaces. And if you like stripes or plaids and checkered linens for an early morning start, you'll invest generously in any of the new designs under that sort of patterned influence.

Some Christmas shoppers go in for towels in a big way. Having exhausted the thrills of colored table linens they can have a grand time sending colored towels to practically every one on the longest list from a peranickity bachelor with definite ideas about such domestic accessories, to college going young things who cheer loudly for personal color and identification glory when it comes to such absorbing companions.

Watch any particular person beam approvingly over a bath ensemble of beige colored towels, bath rug, and wash cloth all banded with deep brown or black or dark green, and monograms of the contrasting color can be had for a modest though extra sum. For the bachelor gal who cries for green, you can buy some of the most refreshing green shades that ever left the sea green depths of an ocean, and what's more you can buy these mermaidish things with shells, small fish and seaweed decorating the wavelike borders of white.

Peach colored towels and the rest of the modern bath equipment are positively good enough to eat. You can choose between cheery yellows and romantic lavender shades and some cinnamon pink tints that will give you a bad half hour of hesitation before you finally decide.

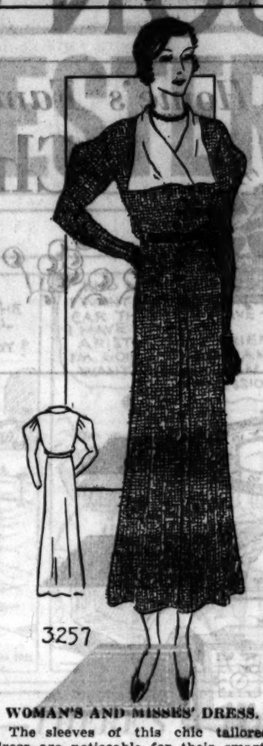
But the towels that will travel to the best schools and be welcomed with the loudest cheers are the highly colored affairs that manage to shriek loudly for attention . . . you have never seen such brilliant, even bold color combinations, wild orange shades combined with eyefilling bands of sooty black . . . some striped towels that must have been copied from the giddy Mexican serapes, and other audacious combinations that should brighten the bluest Monday.

All this splendor is safely and snootily packed beneath that most ubiquitous of modern inventions, the thin, tough, very transparent layer of cellophane and without any supersalesmanship are instantly selected by thrifty, thinking, appreciative Christmas gift givers.

Party for Children.

The Country club of Evanston will hold its annual children's Christmas party on Friday afternoon.

Unusually Pretty Sleeves Seen in Becoming Design



WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

The sleeves of this chic tailored dress are noticeable for their smartness, and the dress is one that will be useful for daytime wear. The soft rever neckline is generally becoming, and the skirt, fitted perfectly through the hips, has a comfortably full hem. A rust and black soft woolen with black bone buttons, black leather belt, and the revers of the dress fabric is a pleasing suggestion. A striking and smart scheme is to use purple wool crêpe combined with a violet shade.

The pattern, No. 3257, comes in sizes 13 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material with ¾ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Miss Rosalie Fellows Bailey gave another of her Sunday suppers last night at her residence, 1 East 93d street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Garrett Bibb of 410 Park avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Van Rensselaer Schuyler of Plainfield gave a tea dance on Saturday in the ballroom of the Hotel Pierre for their debutante daughters, Miss Kate Young, daughter of Mrs. Bibb, and Miss Marjorie Schuyler.

Let Youngsters Put Handwork Into Christmas

They Adore Making Gifts "All by Themselves."

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

It helps our children a lot if we can remember things about our own childhood that made us very happy, or unhappy either, for that matter. The latter we can try to avoid—and the former to duplicate. For my part, as I look back, the days—even the weeks before Christmas were a long spell of pleasure. Gathering around the lamp on a big table, we'd draw and paint and sew and make all the things which were not too secret to be seen by the "general public"—that is, the family. For the rather secret things we might erect a barricade, while for the very secret ones we went into another room, or else we worked on those in the daytime alone.

Whether you have several children or only one, if they put the work of their hands into Christmas preparation it will add to their fun and to the meaning of Christmas for them. What they make will depend on various things—how old they are, how deft they are, and how much they are filled with the desire to put themselves into their giving and into Christmas.

The children who are good wood craftsmen will want to use their skill on finished pieces of cabinet work, perhaps. The artistic child will model, or draw, or paint his gift. The younger children will want to do things "all by themselves, too," and they should be allowed to, no matter how crude the result. With them the thing to guard against is their getting overtired and nervous while working, so that they lose their zest for the job they are doing. But "I made it all myself" must be part of their feeling, if it's a possible thing, even if it's only writing a name on a card.

Which brings to my mind that the making of Christmas cards is another jolly Christmas occupation. Often ideas or plans for these may need to be worked out with a grownup.

There are a dozen and one other things for the children's hands to do. Making candy for presents, or stuffing dates, or shelling nuts for a little basket, wrapping presents and making Christmas tree ornaments are only a few. Some people still have the old fashioned tree with homemade ornaments, like colored paper chains, silver paper stars and strings of pop corn—all of which can be done by very small girls and boys.

Margery Maxwell Is Chorus Leader for Off the Street Club

A group of children from the Off the Street club, 1534 West Van Buren street, who are to sing Christmas carols for the Advertising Council of Chicago on Thursday at their fifth annual Christmas party benefit, had a special leader for rehearsal yesterday. She was Margery Maxwell, opera star.

The proceeds from the council's program which is to be held in the Hotel Sherman, will help finance the children's activities of the Off the Street club. Boys and girls between the ages of 4 and 18 spend their leisure hours in supervised play in the club, which was founded by the late Frank H. Thomas, advertising man, as a memorial to his son, who perished in the Iroquois theater fire.

Yesterday the American Legion auxiliary of the department of Illinois distributed their Christmas gifts, a pair of bedroom slippers to every hospitalized man in Illinois. There are at present about 6,000 ex-service men in hospitals.

Members of the North Shore Women's club visited the Sexton school, Wells and Wendell streets, yesterday and played Santa Claus to hundreds of pupils.

THE STAGE

Maude Adams intends to return to the stage again next fall in a play, specially written for her use by Philip Barry, in which she will have the rôle of a nun. She will present the piece in New York, thus making her first Broadway appearances in sixteen years. The revival of "The Merchant of Venice," in which she toured last season, was not acted in that city.

Katharine Cornell will bring her staging of "Lucrece" to its New York première at the Belasco theater this evening.

Gilbert Miller, one of the most active of play producers in New York and London during the last ten years, has signed a contract to direct cinema productions for Columbia Pictures.

The revival of Ziegfeld's production of "Show Boat," which suspended its tour two weeks ago, will resume performances Dec. 26, probably with Helen Morgan's name in the star's position. This musical comedy is a possible midwinter booking for Chicago.

The next offering in the series of children's matinée entertainments at the Goodman theater will be "Jack and the Beanstalk." The first performance will be given next Saturday. There will be special holiday matinées on Dec. 28 and Dec. 30, as well as regular Saturday performances until Jan. 14. C. C.

ASHAMED... of her baby!

SHE hated to have her neighbors see him! But another girl's advice changed all that!

She still thought he was the loveliest baby any young mother ever had. She choked back her tears when she thought how proud she could have been to show him to her girl friends, her mother's friends. She hated the thought of it. It hurt. His baby skin looked so terrible. Covered with angry red bumps that just wouldn't clear up. Everything she tried had failed to help them. When any went away more came in their places. What could she do? She had tried everything anyone had suggested to her. No good came of it. The places looked angrier. The baby cried. He lost sleep. Lost weight. He scratched himself with his sharp little nails. He was worse.

Then a girl she hadn't seen for years told her about the wonderful help mothers had received from Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using several cakes of soap and two boxes of the ointment, her baby was completely healed.

FREE! Helpful advice on care of your baby's skin. Suggestions you can use too. Write for folder X-13, Cuticura Laboratories, Malden, Mass.

NOTRE DAME BEATS NORTHWESTERN, 28 TO 25

WHO'S IN LINE FOR STAGG JOB? AH, WHO ISN'T?

List of Nominees Is Like a Census.

With the customary strategic silences prevailing on the Midway and at Ames, Ia., present home base of Nelson Metcalf, athletic-director-designate, the University of Chicago coaching situation remains as blank as it was two and a half months ago, when the impending retirement of Coach A. A. Stagg was announced.

Announcement of the new coach should be forthcoming within the next six weeks, so spring practice plans can be made, but thus far Metcalf has not made his recommendation. The recent elimination of Stagg from the list of possibilities has only served to widen the field for fireside conjecture. The names of Pat Page, Jimmy Phelan, Fritz Crisler, Jess Hawley, Judge Walter P. Steffen, George Veenker, Dana Bible and Don Peden have been mentioned, but for that matter so have Otto Strohmeier, Ken Rouse, Hunk Anderson and Howard Jones.

Peden's Record Impressive.

Reaction to the latest addition to the rumor roster, Don Peden, has been favorable on the Midway, where the principal debate has been whether the university should try to obtain a man of established reputation or a young coach with more promise than renown. Peden, a former Illinois athlete, has been at Ohio university for eight years, and has made an impressive record. His team won seven of its nine games this year, defeating Navy, 14 to 0, and losing to Indiana, 7 to 6. Last year his team lost to Indiana, 7 to 6, then won the remainder of its games by decisive scores to take the league title.

Coach Stagg, who definitely crossed the Rubicon in search of new adventure last week when he rejected the university's proffered position as chairman of the committee on intercollegiate relations, has returned from New York, where he addressed the Phillips Exeter alumni. He declined the Chicago position, he said, mainly because he wishes to remain in active coaching service, but partly because he does not want to be "in the way, doing things my successor ought to be doing."

Considers Seven Positions.

Since October he has had seven opportunities to work elsewhere than Chicago which he deemed worthy of consideration, Stagg said yesterday. Not all of these are coaching jobs, however. The only bid which has been made public is that from the College of the Pacific, about which he received further word yesterday.

"I haven't given serious consideration to any of the offers," Stagg said. "I've had one chance to coach a professional team, but I'm not the least interested in professional sports. I still have an unsatisfied ambition and I want to start on another adventure. In a sense, my son, Paul, and I will be starting on our new careers almost together."

Paul Stagg, Maroon quarter back last year, will receive his bachelor's degree at the university's graduation exercises today and plans to enter Columbia university next year to earn a master's degree in physical education before going into coaching work.

Ambition Wins Admiration.

Chief among the mixed reactions of Maroon students and alumni to the news of Stagg's retirement has been admiration for his unshakable ambition to continue coaching, which amounts literally to a religious conviction.

The plot has the makings of a Greek tragedy, with fate, in the form of age, running counter to the ambitions of a dominant and vital personality. Though Stagg will draw a pension of $3,000 a year, he has deliberately rejected the security of the larger additional amount the university offered and has expressed willingness to uproot the associations of forty-one years and start anew at a lower income to satisfy his ambition to build character through football coaching.

PRINCETON FIVE RETURNS TO BEAT HARVARD, 40 TO 20

Fritz Crisler brought a band of veterans to reopen the old feud with the Crimson, and they lived up to their reputation. The Eastern Intercollegiate league champions took an early lead and never were headed. At half time the score stood 24 to 11 for the gold and black.

BASEBALL BROADCASTS.

BECAUSE of a radical difference of opinion concerning effect on attendance, major leagues left optional with individual clubs the question of permitting baseball broadcasts from their parks. The Chicago Cubs' president was one of the strongest advocates against inhibition of such public service.

WILLIAM VEECK.

The Cubs unquestionably have profited over a period of years by their policy of granting broadcasting privileges and by their "ladies days." They have profited because these means of publicity create new fans. Attendance figures at Wrigley field bear out this opinion.

Now, it is reasonable to suppose that a person with the time and the money would rather witness a Cub contest than to hear an air report. There are many persons in Chicago who cannot take the time on week days for that purpose, but perhaps they get snatches of the broadcast over the air. Their interest is sustained. They are potential Sunday patrons. Chicago always has been a great Sunday attendance city.

In this time of depression there are many who cannot afford baseball. They have the time but not the money. Their interest is maintained by air reports which they have the time to hear if not the money to go to the Sheffield avenue grounds. None can tell us they will not be at the windows to buy tickets when conditions change.

Here's another point: Persons within a fifty mile radius or even farther are made baseball fans by radio broadcasts. Not once but many times during the season they take advantage of Sunday rail or electric excursion rates to visit Cub or Sox parks.

Women form a greater proportion of fan attendance than ever before. We noted that particularly during the world series. We note it in our Wake mail from those choosing to call themselves fannettes. From a free ticket on "ladies' day" to a paid ticket with hubby when he is able to go is not a far step.

Bill Veeck, Cub president, is not dumb in his advocacy of broadcasting and "ladies' days."

There are some sports in which The Wake thinks broadcasting does exert an adverse influence at the gate, but that is not part of this comment.

About Broadcasting.

Harve: Baseball magnates are so-called big business men. If big business spends millions of dollars a year advertising different products over the radio why don't the club owners realize the value of baseball broadcasting?

Many people, like myself, work during the week and stop on the way home to hear the baseball game's finish. Many of my neighbors never knew what baseball was all about until they heard it over the radio, attended a game, and became fans.

Last but not least, we still have cripples and war veterans who receive pleasure from these broadcasts.

A Christmas Problem.

A list of names and a scratching of head
To recall what each gave to me last year;
I must not pay more nor must I pay less—
That I make a mistake makes me tremble with fear.
What I spend may mean food that I do without,
To say nothing of dresses and shoes and hose;
I may owe for groceries and meat and rent,
But a Christmas debt one honestly owes.
O, well, I'll cut down my card list, I say,
So I scratch out a name now and then,
And I find when I've finished—O, what's the use?
With all of my scratches I've added 'bout ten.

Yanuskus and Bride "Make Up"; There'll Be No Divorce

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—And they lived happily ever afterwards.

The romance of Pete Yanuskus, Illinois football star, and pretty Robbie Lucille Cross of Paducah, Ky., began to point to that kind of a story book ending here tonight after a day of conflicting stories involving the love affairs of the Illinois half back and his bride.

PETE YANUSKUS.

Yanuskus blamed himself for the wide publicity his marriage has created because he told his friends that Miss Cross had become his bride in a secret marriage on Thanksgiving day, when in reality the wedding had taken place at Benton, Ky., on Jan. 1, 1931.

Decide on Divorce.

"Soon after the wedding we came to the conclusion we had made a mistake" Yanuskus said here tonight. "We saw no way of making the grade financially and agreed shortly after the marriage to obtain a divorce."

Such a divorce suit was started by Mrs. Yanuskus and at about the time the football hero was announcing his secret wedding, reporters in Paducah, Ky., dug through the court records and uncovered the bill for divorcement Mrs. Yanuskus had filed.

In the record of the suit was a letter written by Yanuskus to his wife on Jan. 5, 1932, a part of which read: "We made a big mistake when we got married. We must have been insane. There is no way I can support you because I cannot even keep myself. I've never lived with you and don't intend to, either. I'm through with you and the whole mess. It's best that you get a divorce or anything you like. See you in the Chinese-Japanese war. As ever, PETE."

The girl charged in her bill for divorce that Yanuskus stayed at her parents' home four days after they were married and then left and never returned. She charged abandonment and nonsupport, saying he gave her only $30. She sought no alimony or property rights.

To Visit Kewanee Relatives.

Mrs. Yanuskus arrived here late last week to join her husband. "Now we've decided we can't live apart" the football player told reporters here tonight. "The divorce suit has been dropped and we have abandoned all thought of a separation," he continued. And Mrs. Yanuskus said "Pete is telling the truth."

They will spend the Christmas holidays with Yanuskus' relatives in Kewanee, Ill.

Resignation of Fordham Football Coach Confirmed

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Jack Coffey, managing director of athletics at Fordham university, today confirmed reports of the resignation of Maj. Frank Cavanaugh as Fordham's football coach.

"It has been no secret," said Mr. Coffey, "that Maj. Cavanaugh desired to leave as coach. I imagine he felt that his health was not good enough to give his best efforts to the team."

Young Stuhley Lasts Just 28 Seconds with Slaughter

Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Sammy [Kid] Slaughter, Terre Haute middleweight, knocked out Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., in 28 seconds here tonight. The match had barely started when Slaughter landed a solid right squarely on Stuhley's jaw and he went down for the count. He was out nearly two minutes. Slaughter weighed 161¼ and Stuhley 154¾.

EAST FOOTBALL STARS WORK OUT, LEAVE FOR COAST

Meet Western Eleven for Charity Jan. 2.

Twenty-one football players from 12 schools in the central west and east assembled at Dyche stadium, Northwestern university, yesterday for their first workout as members of the East team which will play the West team in a charity game at San Francisco, Jan. 2. The squad left for the coast last night.

The squad will be agumented later by one player, Joe Kurth of Notre Dame, who remained on the coast following the Notre Dame-Southern California game. He will join the team at Palo Alto, Cal., where headquarters will be established at Stanford university.

West Leads Series, 4-3.

The team is in charge of Coaches Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Andy Kerr of Colgate. These coaches have selected and directed the East team in the annual charity game for the last five years. Seven games in all have been played in the East-West series with the West being victorious four times and the East three times.

Both coaches expressed themselves as well pleased with the group of players selected for the team this year. The team lacks the weight and size of squads in former years, but the coaches felt that this deficiency would be more than made up for in speed and versatility.

Best Back Field, Hanley.

"I think we have the best back field of any of our teams," Coach Hanley said. "In Newman, Rentner, and Berry we have three of the best passers of the last collegiate season. It would be hard to find a better group of full backs than Horstmann, Manders, and Viviano.

"Our line will be smaller than usual, but all of these players have been great in their respective conferences and I see no reason why the team should not shape up as a strong aggregation by the time we put in a few days of practice at Palo Alto."

Twelve schools are represented on the team, as follows: Illinois, Northwestern, Michigan, Purdue, Yale, Cornell, Colgate, Brown, Fordham, Minnesota, Notre Dame, and Pennsylvania. Eleven players were selected from the east and eleven from the central states.

Work Out in Snow.

The players were issued their equipment yesterday, and then took part in a brisk workout in the snow. Both Coaches Kerr and Hanley use the Warner system in their coaching.

Many of the players on the squad have played under different styles of coaching during their college careers, but yesterday they seemed to adapt themselves to the new system with ease. Frequent workouts will be held at various stopovers on the way to the coast, which will give the coaches an opportunity to familiarize the team with their new attack before they arrive at Palo Alto.

After dinner at the Orrington hotel last night the squad returned to Chicago, and departed at 9:35 o'clock over the North Western railroad.

Who's Who on Squad.

BACKS—Gil Berry, Illinois; Pug Rentner, Northwestern; Harry Newman, Michigan; Roy Horstmann, Purdue; Joe Crowley, Yale; Bart Viviano, Cornell; Bob Rowe, Colgate.
ENDS—Dick Fencl, Northwestern; Paul Moss, Purdue; Jose Martinez-Zorilla, Cornell; Frank Meadows, Brown, and Joe Zapustas, Fordham.
TACKLES—Marshall Wells, Minnesota; Joe Kurth, Notre Dame; Bob Gonya, Northwestern; John Wilbur, Yale.
GUARDS—Frank Jabionsky, Pennsylvania; Bob Smith, Colgate; Joe Hills, Colgate; Jack Manders, Minnesota.
CENTERS—John Oehler, Purdue, and Tom Gilbane, Brown.

YALE ALUMNUS TO GET STEVENS' COACHING JOB

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—A Yale alumnus will succeed Dr. Marvin A. Stevens as head football coach of the Eli football team, it was reliably reported today. The name of Reginald D. Root, Eli freshman coach, was prominently discussed as the next Yale coach.

Root, who is 29 years old, is a former Yale tackle. He coached at the University of Mexico, Roxbury school, and Taft school before he returned to his alma mater. Root played on the 1924 and 1925 Yale teams. Stevens resigned last Saturday.

EAST VS. WEST—THERE'S A FOOTBALL GAME!

Decatur, Ill., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Loyola university's basketball team defeated Millikin tonight, 31 to 24. Connelly's sleeper shot 15 seconds before the gun ended the first half gave the Chicago team a 16 to 14 advantage.

Loyola's pivot play worked the ball through the Millikin defense for short shots, Motz leading the attack with five baskets. Millikin was forced to rely on long shots.

Millikin tried several combinations, and Goldman, a freshman playing his first college game, showed ability. Spillman also played well.

MILLIKIN [24].	B	F	P	LOYOLA [31].	B	F	P
Miller,f	0	0	2	Connelly,f	3	1	0
Goldman,f	2	2	1	Oblenroth,f	2	2	0
Steinhauer,c	1	1	1	Motz,c	5	1	2
Spillman,g-f	3	0	0	Cavanaugh,g	2	0	2
Kolinaitis,g	3	0	1	Hogan,g	1	4	0
Musso,c-g	1	1	2	Silvestri,g	1	0	0

MOTZ GETS TEST

Center play will be emphasized when the Loyola university basketball team meets St. Ambrose college of Davenport, Ia., tomorrow night, at Loyola gymnasium. It will be Loyola's fourth game in eight days and its last until Jan. 2.

St. Ambrose's chances for a victory rest almost entirely with Kenny Austin, its 6 foot 4 inch all-Iowa conference center. The fate of the Loyola team, to a great extent, depends on the play of Harold Motz, 6 foot 3 inch sophomore center.

WASHINGTON TO OFFER PHELAN A NEW CONTRACT

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Advised that Jimmy Phelan, football coach at the University of Washington, had announced he may not be back at Washington next year, Earl Campbell, graduate manager, said a contract would be offered Phelan Wednesday before the coach leaves for the east, and after that, "It's up to him."

Campbell said he was not at liberty to discuss the terms of the contract, either as to salary or years.

"I have been unable to get anywhere in conferences here over my contract," Phelan said. "I can't say anything yet about other offers, but I am scheduled for an important conference on my trip.

"We lost a lot of ground the last year, and I'm not going to sit around and dig my own grave. I want to know the score before I leave."

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

YOU may be interested to know that Chicago now has two National league champions, the Cubs in baseball and the Bears in football.

The Bears, however, have gone the Cubs one better, for they can claim the world championship, there being no team to dispute their title.

GEORGE HALAS.

Chicago lost the world's baseball championship to New York and won the football crown from Portsmouth, O. It wouldn't surprise me to read a quotation from Gabby Hartnett or Guy Bush to the effect that there is more glory in losing to New York than winning from Portsmouth.

Maybe so. But the Bears had to fight just as hard to beat out towns like Portsmouth and Green Bay as the Cubs did to whip Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, and Philadelphia.

The Bears' victory should prove popular all over National league territory. They seemed definitely out of the race a few weeks back because of a series of tie games, but they never quit trying. The Chicago club has done as much, probably more, than any other team to increase the appeal of the professional game. George Halas, manager of the Bears, by presenting a strong squad year after year, has won a following as enthusiastic and loyal as many of the college elevens can claim.

The Bears won the title in a night game at Chicago Stadium on a gridiron 40 yards shorter and about seven yards narrower than regulation dimensions. The venture proved entirely satisfactory to the spectators, who would have been forced to sit in subfreezing temperature at Wrigley field to see the game had the management of both teams not agreed to move it indoors. It was not so popular with the players.

It was the first time many fans had opportunity to observe closeup the duties of the various positions. They got a kick out of the blocking and tackling. They winced and squirmed at the impacts along the line. They came away with a better knowledge of the game.

For the players, particularly the quarter backs, it was like a new sport. The short field changed the whole idea of field generalship. For instance, after a team took the ball on the 15 yard line after a touchback, it was only 45 yards from a touchdown. So there naturally was a strong temptation to use scoring plays. At the same time it was only 15 yards from being scored upon in case of a fumble.

On fourth down a long forward passer like Molesworth of the Bears felt he coud pass into the end zone instead of punt. If it landed in the end zone, it would be equivalent to a punt as the ball would be brought out to the opponent's 15 yard line, and there was a chance it might be completed for a touchdown. But in case it wasn't completed and didn't land in the end zone, it would go to the other team only 15 yards from the Bears' goal.

I watched the game in the company of two prominent college coaches, Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hanley of Northwestern. Both thought it was high class entertainment, but neither would admit that the champion Bears could whip a championship college team.

"Those fellows are too big and too experienced for the average college eleven," said Mr. Kerr, "but I think a squad with a lot of man power like Southern California, Michigan, or Notre Dame would give them all the competition they want.

"My Colgate team [which this year was undefeated, untied, and unscored upon] handles the ball better than either the Bears or the Spartans and I think we would worry either club with our foward passes, but I don't believe we would be able to make much headway with running plays."

In historic possibilities the game not only will be remembered as the first title contest decided indoors, but it probably will go down as the final Chicago appearance of the greatest attraction football has developed—Red Grange.

Grange hasn't said definitely that he is through with professional football, but he has taken about all the punishment a player of his age can assimilate. He has been a marked man since he first became famous at Illinois.

If Grange has played his last game, it can be said that he passed out as dramatically as he entered. He was all but knocked out in the first half with a blow on the head that temporarily deprived him of his senses. Against the wish of Coach Ralph Jones he came back in the closing moments to score the touchdown that clinched the championship for Chicago.

They say that no man is a great fighter until he gets up off the floor to carry on to victory.

They can say the same about Red Grange, the football marvel of his day.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 19.—Notre Dame ended Northwestern's victory streak here tonight, 28 to 25. It was the home team's third basketball victory in a row over the Wildcats.

Six thousand, a capacity crowd, saw the battle which equaled any in the long series between the universities. Four times the score was tied, and on three of these occasions it was the Northwestern quintet which came from behind.

After the last rally, by means of which Northwestern created a tie at 23 to 23, Capt. Joe Reiff pushed a one hand toss through the net from ten feet away. That basket, perhaps the most spectacular of many which bordered on the impossible, gave the Wildcats the lead for the first time in the game.

Big Ed Goes Into Action.

Less than five minutes remained to play. Big Ed Krause, recently returned from his football duties and scarcely in the best of condition for basketball, now took command. He smashed under the backboard for a short shot which tied the Wildcats. Then he stepped to the free throw line and made good on Elmer Johnson's foul. This point would have been sufficient for victory, but with one minute remaining, Krause sank another basket.

Northwestern's defeat can be laid to ineffective and uncertain handling of the ball. While the team showed flashes of brilliance on offense, many of the passes sailed out of bounds or were too difficult to handle. Phenomenal long distance shooting by Don Brewer, who scored three times in the last half, and individual work by Reiff kept Northwestern in the game.

Notre Dame Has Reach.

Notre Dame had an advantage of height. This was utilized at the center tipoffs, where Krause almost always gave his team possession and under the backboard. Krause hit five field goals, all within a step of the goal. He was followed by Joe Voegele, whose four field goals matched the Wildcats' scoring pace in the early portion of the last half.

Notre Dame drew eight personal fouls and Northwestern three. Lack of penalties, however, did not indicate that the play wasn't up to the slambang standard of other years. Johnson's second personal, when he held Krause, so incensed the Northwestern center that he talked out of turn to Umpire Lane. He drew a technical foul but Krause missed all three of the penalty shots.

It's 15 to 9 at the Half.

Krause and Crowe got Notre Dame away to a 4 to 0 lead, which soon was built up to 9 to 4. The Wildcats' first rally tied the count at 9 all with five minutes of the half left. Then Johnny Jordan, sophmore forward from Chicago, made two long goals and Krause slipped another for a half time score board reading: Notre Dame, 15, Northwestern, 9.

Culver and Brewer scored baskets in the early minutes of the final period. Voegele then dribbled in to score after which Krause took Al McGuff's shot off the board and stuck it through the net to reëstablish Notre Dame's six point margin. Brewer's pair of goals, both from the side, was followed by Moonshower's basket from the center. The teams now were tied, 19 all.

Reiff Sinks Two.

Voegele clicked in two goals from the side. Brewer kept banging from a distance for the Wildcats and although he failed, Reiff and Johnson made successive followups. For the third time the score was tied, this time at 23 all.

Then came Reiff's one hand goal for Northwestern's momentary lead. Krause's last spurt, of which you have already read, swung victory to Notre Dame. Lineup:

Cancel Qualifying Rounds for Agua Caliente Golf

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Qualifying rounds for the $7,500 Agua Caliente open golf tournament were cancelled today by the management of the tournament for the reason that only 100 professional golfers had signified intention to enter. A field of that size, club officials said, could be handled without strain. The tournament will be held Jan. 11-14.

BABE DIDRIKSON VOTED GREATEST GIRL ATHLETE

Experts Name Her Over Helene Madison.

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The country's sports experts experienced no difficulty whatever in singling out the feminine performer most entitled to recognition as America's outstanding girl athlete of 1932.

She is Mildred Babe Didrikson, Texas "wonder girl," double Olympic champion and, in the opinion of many observers, the greatest all-around athlete her sex has ever known, regardless of any issue now over her amateur standing.

Collects 77 Votes.

Out of a total of 199 votes cast in the second annual Associated Press poll, Miss Didrikson received 77, nearly 40 per cent. Her nearest rival, Helene Madison, Seattle's record-breaking champion of all women free-style swimmers, polled 45 votes to finish a good second. Another far westerner, Helen Wills Moody, queen of the tennis courts for years, occupied third place with 21 votes.

In a close contest for fourth place, the new national golf champion, Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, emerged with a three-vote margin over Eleanor Holm, slim and pretty champion of the backstroke swimmers. Their totals were 16 and 13.

Miss Didrikson's performances were ranked by many sports observers as superior, relatively speaking, to the accomplishments of any masculine stars of the year. Her vote, too, was larger in the Associated Press than that accorded Gene Sarazen, picked as the outstanding performer among the men.

A One Girl Track Team.

The Texas girl, all by herself, won or tied for first place in a half dozen events in the National women's track and field championships, collecting enough points to win the team title. She captured the Olympic javelin throw and 80 meter hurdles with world record performances and finished second to Jean Shiley in the high jump. She has played football, is a star at basketball and wallops a golf ball well over 200 yards.

The tabulated results of the Associated Press poll follow:

Mildred Babe Didrikson, Olympic champion and all-around star, 77.
Helene Madison, world free-style swimming champion, 45.
Helen Wills Moody, world tennis champion, 21.
Virginia Van Wie, national golf champion, 16.
Eleanor Holm, backstroke swimming champion, 13.
Helen Jacobs, American tennis champion, 6.
Stella Walsh, Olympic sprint champion, 5.
Helen Hicks, former national golf champion, 3.
Katherine Rawls, national swimming champion, 3.
Glenna Collett Vare, former national golf champion, 3.
Georgia Coleman, Olympic diving champion, 2.
Jean Shiley, Olympic high-jump champion, 2.
Amelia Earhart, aviatrix, 1.
Dorothy Poynton, diving star, 1.
Maureen Orcutt, golfer, 1.

Girls Find a Place in Ski Tournament

The boys couldn't keep THE TRIBUNE'S ski tournaments to themselves. Chicago girls, who have been practicing during the last two weeks on the Riis park slide, have insisted that they receive equal consideration. So the officials of the tournament yesterday decided to provide competition for the girls in two age classes.

Girls 15 years of age and under will compete in one group, while all those 16 years of age and over will be eligible for the gold medal award in the senior classification. Silver and bronze medals also will be given for second and third places in the girls' classes. These are the same awards that the boys receive in each of their four age groups.

Entries Close Dec. 27.

The entry date for the girls' competition also will close at midnight Dec. 27. No letters will be accepted postmarked after that date.

The rules for the girls' tournament will be the same as those for the boys. Each contestant will be expected to make at least two jumps. Form and distance will be combined to rate the skiers.

The tournament will be held New Year's afternoon at Riis park, Fullerton and Meade avenues. It is likely that the first jumper will start down the slide at 1:30, although definite announcement of time will be made later by the tournament officials. Probably two hours will be required to finish the competition.

Riis park not only offers excellent ski competition for beginners but the rolling slopes can accommodate several thousands of spectators. Last year 30,000 saw the boys' meet. The entry list was approximately 140, but there seems no doubt now that this list will be exceeded. The girls' division, of course, will add to the numbers.

May Increase Limit.

If possible the number of competitive jumps may be increased to three for each individual. This will be determined entirely by the entry list and it will be within the province of the chief of the hill to make the regulation prior to the start of the meet.

Frank M. Kalteux a commissioner of the Northwest Park district, who with his fellow officers has cooperated with THE TRIBUNE in staging this tournament, announced yesterday that plans have been completed for the New Year's meet. This is sufficient snow to hold the tournament unless the temperature rises 20 degrees above freezing and stays there for a week.

Kalteux will not see this year's tournament, however, since he is leaving the latter part of the month for Norway with a team of American skaters. He is president of the National Skating association.

Tuley Heavies Win Second in Row, 43-27

The Chicago Public High School league basketball teams evidently are anxious to play their games as quickly as possible. Four teams jumped the gun yesterday. Tilden Tech defeated Englewood, 24 to 13, in their central section lightweight game which was scheduled for Thursday at Englewood gymnasium, while Tuley triumphed over McKinley, 43 to 27, in a west division heavyweight game at McKinley which was scheduled for today.

In the only regularly scheduled game yesterday Bowen's heavyweights made their league debut with a 31 to 24 victory over Calumet on the winners' court. It was Calumet's second consecutive league defeat. Lawler led Bowen with five baskets and one free throw.

Tuley's victory over McKinley, its second of the league season, made it one of the favorites for the west section championship. Tuley won from Harrison Tech in its opening sectional game. Harrison annually is considered one of the leading threats in the section. Gwee led Tuley's attack, sinking eight field goals and four free throws.

Tilden Tech took a lead of 8 to 1 at the end of the first quarter against Englewood. At the half Tilden was in front, 11 to 8. Kautz was Tilden's high scorer with eight baskets and 3 free throws. It was Englewood's first league game of the season.

St. Patrick scored a double practice victory over St. Michael on the former's floor. The St. Patrick heavyweights triumphed, 33 to 11, after the lightweights had won, 32 to 23. The lineups:

MARQUETTE U. TO BATTLE INDIANA FIVE TONIGHT

Hoosiers in Milwaukee for First Time Since 1922.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Marquette university basketball team will play Indiana university here tomorrow night.

The game marks the first appearance of an Indiana athletic team in Milwaukee since 1922, when the Hoosiers came to the Milwaukee auditorium to beat Marquette, 20 to 17. The two teams met at Bloomington last winter and Indiana won, 30 to 18.

Indiana opened its season with triumphs over Wabash and Cincinnati but is looking upon Marquette as its most dangerous nonconference foe.

Three veterans form the nucleus of the Indiana team this year. They are Taylor Hoffar, center, and Woodrow Weir and Glen Hodson, forwards. A bitter fight is on for the guard positions with a pair of sophomores, Bob Porter and Jack Heavenridge, as the probable successful candidates.

OWEN STILL OUT

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Red Owen, captain of the Illinois basketball team, will not be able to accompany the Illini when they depart tomorrow for Columbia, Mo., where they will play the University of Missouri Wednesday night, Coach Craig Ruby said today. Owen is laid up with an abscessed ear and will probably not see action until January. The loss of Owen will prevent Ruby from putting his strongest five on the floor against his old team.

At Columbia preparations are being made to give Ruby a welcome, with a reunion of former teammates and men who played under him. As a player at Missouri Ruby was an All-Valley forward three years and captained the team two seasons.

CHICAGO FACES TASK

With most of the practice schedule still ahead, Coach Nelson Norgren faces a difficult task in improving the University of Chicago basketball team. Considerable progress will have to be made if the Maroons are to cut any figure in the Big Ten race this season.

There is no promise of any great offensive strength, for the team has no shooters of real ability and its best men are not of the rugged type. The inability to rely on scoring places stress on defense, for it will be only by holding down the opposition's score that the Chicago team will have a chance.

Chiz Evans, the only veteran forward on the team, will return to college for the winter quarter. Out of residence during the autumn, he has been practicing with the squad, but has not played. Evans is an aggressive player, good under the basket, and should be the most consistent scorer.

If a Rabbit Has Spots on Liver, That's Tularemia

BY BOB BECKER.

How can tularemia, the rabbit fever, be detected in an infected cottontail? This is the question John Seybold, a Chicago hunter, wants answered and thousands of rabbit hunters doubtless have the same question in their minds. Mr. Seybold's letter on his experiences with handling rabbits follows:

"According to a story in a recent issue of THE TRIBUNE a woman died of tularemia. How can the presence of this disease in a rabbit be detected? I have heard that rabbits thus affected do not run fast. Not everybody has a chance, however, to enjoy seeing the last run of the rabbit that he intends to eat. Fortunately, I do my own shooting, and I can say that my rabbits always run fast, some even too fast!

"I skin and clean rabbits about once a week during the entire season. In this connection I have experienced that at least one out of three rabbits has round or oval shaped bodies adhering to parts of the intestines. Frequently, but not quite so often, I find some of these bodies also in the liver of a rabbit.

"They are about the size of a pea and are filled with a transparent or often milky substance. The presence of these bodies is not at all new to me. I have noticed the same thing in cleaning the European hare when I was in Germany.

"I remember skinning these hares and rabbits with open cuts on my hands, but never encountered any physical disturbances.

"Would you advise me whether or not my experiences are in any way connected with tularemia?"

Mr. Seybold must have missed an article in this department which discussed the presence of these whitish oval shaped bodies in rabbits. The article appeared some weeks ago and pointed out that these foreign bodies are in no way connected with tularemia.

They represent a stage in the life cycle of an intestinal parasite, are destroyed by thorough cooking and in no way render the rabbit unfit for eating.

As a matter of fact, numerous scientists have been telling hunters from time to time not to throw away rabbits which have these small foreign bodies in the body tissues.

Tularemia is not so easy to diagnose. The most easily detected evidence is the presence of yellowish or yellowish white spots on the rabbit's liver. Because a hunter cannot detect the presence of tularemia by external examination we have the common warning: Clean rabbits with rubber gloves to avoid possible infection. However, as we pointed out recently, only a small percentage of cottontails are infected with tularemia. In Michigan, for example, the figure is put at one per cent.

1933 CONTRACT NOT A SOURCE OF GRIEF TO RUTH

Babe Looks Forward to Another Two Years.

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Back from his hunting trip in North Carolina, Babe Ruth was interviewed today while he and his wife, Claire, were busy sending their usual 645 Christmas cards. George Herman, now turned art connoisseur, stopped to point out the beauties of a couple of Old English hunt prints which adorned the walls of the Ruth apartment on West 88th street.

"The first thing they ask me now is, 'How about your contract for 1933?' Folks seem to be more concerned about it than I am," the Babe laughed. "Well, I have been signing with Col. Ruppert since 1920 and he always has treated me like a father would. There is no reason why I should expect him to change now. If we had five or six more Rupperts in baseball stadiums seating 80,000 certainly would not be big enough.

Looks for Another Two Years.

"I believe I have about two more years of competition in me and I can see no cause for reducing me at this time. One of these days the colonel will call me over to his office and we will talk things over for half an hour. Then we'll both know just where we stand.

"If I retired from baseball today I could get a position which would pay me almost as much as I have been getting from the Yankees, but baseball is my game."

"I certainly hate to think of the day when I will have to lay my bats away," Ruth resumed mournfully. "I brought in the era of high salaries, and when I quit I am afraid that baseball will go right back to the $2,500 to $4,000 contracts that were the usual thing when I began to crash those home runs in 1919.

"The magnates would do a terrible thing if they cheapened the game. I was glad to learn that the economy howlers were stopped at the meetings last week."

Admits Boston Offer.

The interviewer asked Ruth what had become of the proposition to make him manager of the Red Sox, with a financial interest in the club.

"It was real hot for a while, but it seems to have died out," he replied. "I certainly would hate to quit New York while I still was active as a player. This is my home. It always will be my home. I love Boston, too. Its fans are very appreciative, and a first division club at Fenway park would make a fortune. But a committee composed of the six leading managers of all time could not make any headway with the Red Sox as they stand today. I sure would hate to finish up a has been in the cellar.

"However, everything I am, everything I have, I owe to baseball. If the game sends me to Boston—well, that would be that."

"I have been analyzing all those trades and the answer is another world series for the Babe," the big fellow chuckled. "The Browns got the better of that big deal with the Senators, and the White Sox have been strengthened through the purchase of Simmons, Dykes, and Haas and getting Rhyne and Durham from the Red Sox. With our star rookies benefitting from experience, the Yankees will be stronger.

Calls Simmons A's Loss.

"When Connie Mack sold Simmons he got rid of 25 per cent of his attack, and his threat. Who will hit behind Foxx now? Watch the bases on balls Jimmy gets. Now, I am not saying that Philadelphia is hopeless—not with that pitching staff. Cramer and Coleman look like pretty good outfielders, too. But the other clubs have played right down our alley.

"Still those deals should benefit the game. We needed a lot of changes. Our own club looks good as it is. Don't give up on Crosetti at short. For a nervous kid looking at American league pitching for the first time he did darned well last season. And he took a chance on anything and everything in the field."

Ruth looked out toward Riverside park, where a lot of boys were disporting themselves in the snow. "We've got to bring those kids into baseball," he said. "The need for it never was more urgent. Look what happened to Doc Walsh of the Giants! Shot down in cold blood by a dope fiend. Kids who are athletic go clean. Why not send Walter Johnson, George Sisler and men of that type out among the boys of America? That would be a great investment for baseball."

Ruth said that, while he already had started gymnasium work, he was only four pounds heavier than he had been at the close of the world series. He is going to cut his training season and will not leave for Florida until Feb. 20, giving him little more than a week of golf before the Yankees call him.

Olympic Skate Stars Race on Stadium Ice

Chicago's ice skating stars in the winter Olympic games at Lake Placid, N. Y., last winter will compete in a series of exhibition match races at the Chicago Stadium tonight. They include Eddie Schroeder, Eddie Murphy, and Oneil Farrell, along with Helen Bina, who captained the American women's team.

Farrell, Murphy, and Schroeder will participate in three races of 500, 1,500, and 5,000 meters. The match races are a result of a protest which Farrell and Murphy filed when they were omitted from the American team which will compete in the world's championship meet at Oslo, Norway, next month. Schroeder was given a place on the squad.

All Silver Skates Winners.

The races will not give Farrell and Murphy an opportunity to make the American team, even if they should beat Schroeder, but the events will mark another chapter in the rivalry which began several years ago among the three skaters. All have won leading annual meets in Chicago, including THE TRIBUNE'S Silver Skates Derby.

Even if Farrell, Murphy, or Schroeder fails to break records, one new mark is assured. This record will be established by Miss Bina. This 20 year old girl, who holds the National women's championship, will skate a 1,000 meter exhibition race against time. It will be the first time the event has been skated indoors and her mark will go as a women's world record.

All skaters are in good condition. The recent cold wave enabled them to use the outdoor rinks for practice. Farrell, Schroeder, and Murphy indulged in their final preparations at Jefferson park yesterday.

Nine Open Races.

There will be seven open races for men and two open events for women. Among the racers who will compete in the men's events are Wilbur Marks, national intermediate champion; Eddie Stundl, joint holder of the 500 meter world's indoor record, and Harry Kaskey, who was a member of the 1924 and 1928 United States Olympic teams.

There also will be an exhibition by members of the Chicago Figure Skating club.

Tonight's program:

Murphy-Schroeder-Farrell match race, 500 meters.
Murphy - Schroeder - Farrell match race, 1,500 meters.
Murphy - Schroeder - Farrell match race, 5,000 meters.
Helen Bina [for world's indoor record], 1,000 meters.
Classes AA, A, B, and C, 880 yard races.
Class A, 440 yard dash.
Class A, 1 mile race.
Class A [women's event], 440 yard dash.
Class B [women's event], 440 yard dash.
Intermediate, 880 yard dash.
Exhibitions by Chicago Figure Skating club, four events.
Barrel jumping, fiery hoop act, the Masked Marvel.

PITT DEFEATS BUTLER FIVE IN OVERTIME, 38-30

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Pittsburgh was forced into the second overtime basketball game ever played by a college in Butler fieldhouse tonight, but won from Butler, 38 to 30. Weak defensively, Pittsburgh was far superior on the floor in the [illegible] half and by repeatedly outplaying Butler after the tip off, pulled away in the finish. Butler led 8 to 4 at the end of 10 minutes and 13 to 9 at the end of the first half.

The Panthers gained the margin for the first time in the second half after eight minutes leading 23 to 22. They were tied 26 to 26 with five minutes to go and again 29 to 29 at the last minute and half. C. Hughes missed a free throw as the gun popped, but immediately scored from the field in the overtime. McCamant and Smith each got a field goal before Miller finally made a free throw. Two free throws by Smith and another by McCamant ended it. This was Butler's first defeat by Pittsburgh.

Ponzi Runs 73 in Victory Over Natalie

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Breaking his own high run record of 72 by one point, Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia tonight scored the most smashing victory of the national pocket billiard tournament by defeating Pasquale Natalie, Chicago veteran, 125 to 2, in 14 innings.

The chubby Ponzi also added to his laurels as a speedy player by requiring only 52 minutes for the triumph. He holds the previous time record of 50 minutes, made when he defeated Frank Taberski in only four innings early in the tournament.

In the afternoon matches, Bennie Allen and James Mills were the victors. The Kansas City veteran defeated Taberski, 125 to 56, in seven innings, scoring a run of 70. Mills turned back George Kelly, 125 to 84, in 17 innings.

Ponzi's victory puts him back into the running with at least a chance of tying for fourth place, but the undefeated Ralph Greenleaf still holds a distinct edge on the field. The standing:

New York Awaits Baer's Manager on Schmeling Bout

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The arrival tmorrow of Ancil Hoffman, manager of Max Baer, coast heavyweight, is expected to expedite plans for the next ring appearance of Max Schmeling, former world's heavyweight champion. It is believed a definite decision will be reached on whether Schmeling and Baer will fight in this city next summer under auspices other than those of Madison Square Garden, or whether the battle will be transferred to Chicago. Regardless of where the proposed match is held, it is planned to have Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight titleholder, as promoter or matchmaker.

"We have no definite plans right now beyond the fact that I am still determined that Schmeling will not fight his next battle for the Garden," said Jacobs. "Hoffman is coming to this city in response to a telephone conversation with Dempsey. He is coming prepared to commit Baer to a contract for a Schmeling bout, and I will be ready to sign for Schmeling to fight either in this city or Chicago."

There were no Pittsburgh plays for the Trojans to work against, for Coach Howard Jones announced that he had no scouts trailing the Panthers as they marched through their schedule without a defeat.

However, Coach Jones said he would send the squad through heavy workouts on their own plays.

McMILLEN AND STEELE MEET AT FRONTON TONIGHT

Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football star, and Ray Steele of California will meet in the main match of a wrestling show at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, tonight. The two heavyweights will go to one fall with a one hour time limit.

Steele's style on the mat is similar to that of Jim Londos, inasmuch as he is content to let his opponent carry the battle to him and then profit by the aggressor's mistakes. McMillen will enter the match at 215 pounds, 10 more than Steele. Each is 6 feet tall.

In his most recent Chicago showing McMillen defeated Hans Kampfer, the powerful German.

Both of the main bout principals have designs on a match in Chicago in the immediate future with Jim Londos, as has the veteran Joe Stecher, former champion, who is matched with Joe De Vito in the semi-windup.

In one of the three supporting numbers, Pat O'Shocker, Salt Lake City Irishman, is paired with Dorna Ostapavich, giant Lithuanian.

Chicago wrestlers appear in the other two, Jack Smith opposing Sid Nabors and Stanislaus Lurik meeting Johnny Plummer, who is substituting for Paul Jones. Jones has a broken hand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—Quiet strength ruled in the bond market today. Year-end investment interest was evident in steady buying in best grade utilities, rails, and industrials.

Speculative interest was chiefly in foreign bonds and some industrial issues, which extended last week's gains markedly. A sharp spurt in United Drug of Delaware 5s made that issue of outstanding interest in the domestic division.

German Bonds Rise.

There was no news of bullish import, but the steady undertone evident in business and other parts of the economic structure stimulated further buying in the bond market on the assumption that market again would be the first to benefit from a new impulse toward general recovery.

A break in Argentine bonds followed the news of political disturbance in that country. German loans, however, commanded most interest in the foreign division, as government and private corporation issues continued a steady advance into new high ground for the year. Both the German government 5½s and the 7s attained the best levels quoted since the European crisis in the summer of 1931.

New Highs for Year.

The persistent buying of German issues was attributed in part to repatriation of the bonds to Germany and buying on the news of the reich economic revival and expectation that Germany would be able to continue service on its foreign debt as long as it maintains its present favorable trade balance.

A number of new 1932 highs were scattered through the domestic high grade list, with utilities i the lead.

Domestic government issues also held firm around best levels of the year.

Worthington Pump and Machinery.

Please advise me as to Worthington Pump and Machinery corporation. —S. S. B.

Worthington Pump and Machinery corporation manufactures pumps, compressors, steam condensers, Diesel engines, meters, and other heavy machinery. Its products are used by public utilities, oil and pipe line companies, municipalities, shipbuilding and manufacturing concerns, and mining. Operations are world-wide.

New management assumed control in 1927. Many plants were sold. The manufacture of obsolete and unprofitable equipment was discontinued and research was started to develop modern, improved machinery.

The company manufactures producers' goods. At a time of slack business activity consumption of consumers' goods contracts and much plant capacity becomes idle, thereby eliminating present need for machinery manufactured by this company. Another factor has been the curtailment of road building and public works construction by governmental bodies. Foreign business has been handicapped by exchange difficulties and tariffs.

In only two of the last seven years have preferred dividends been earned. Net loss for the first half of 1932 was $1,698,000, against net income of $210,000, or $1.32 per preferred share, for the corresponding 1931 period. The carry-over of unfinished contracts from 1930 into the first half of 1931 enabled the company to operate at a profit in that period.

In the second half of 1931 the company operated at only 50 per cent of capacity and finished the year with a loss of $660,000. Net income for 1930 was $2,056,000, or $8.23 per common share, against net income of $2,529,000, or $11.96 per common share, for 1929. Net income for 1928 was $974,000, against $600,000 for 1927 and $366,000 for 1926.

Current position, although not as impressive as in recent years, remains strong. On June 30, 1932, current assets were $12,289,000 and current liabilities were $814,000. Working capital was $11,974,000, against $14,427,000 the year before.

There is no funded debt. There are outstanding 55,928 shares of $7 class A preferred, 103,217 shares of $6 class B preferred, and 129,921 shares of common, all with a par value of $100 a share. By April, 1932, unpaid accumulated dividends on both classes of preferred were paid. Nothing has been paid since.

Both classes of preferred are speculative and the common is more so.

Florida Power.

Please give me your opinion of Florida Power corporation 5½s, due 1979. —Mrs. P. B. E.

They are somewhat speculative.

NEW MACHINES DESIGNED TO CUT COSTS ON FARM

Fuel, Labor Outlays Reduced.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Several millions of dollars invested in the last eight months by manufacturers of farming equipment are now bearing fruit in the form of new machinery to help farmers reduce their costs in the race for existence under new competitive conditions.

The new equipment to "make good farmers better farmers" has combined inventive genius with economical production costs and like the new values offered in the automotive field attest a confidence in the future of the nation on the part of the makers. Any one of two dozen new lines of equipment are expected to create revolutionary effects, from an economic standpoint, in the branches of agriculture for which they were designed.

Steel Barns an Example.

Take for example the new all steel barns being built by a large barn maker in Wisconsin. They are designed to meet the need for modern efficiency and cleanliness in dairying and poultry raising primarily. But they also reduce heavy fire and lightning risks.

The framework, sheeting and all other parts of the new barn are of steel construction. The plans call for units which will fit the purses and needs of a farmer with any standard sized herd or flock. The design provides a separate container for the hay, which so often causes heavy losses in farm fires.

Another dairy equipment manufacturer with offices in Chicago has developed a "combine milker" which meets the demands of city health departments for a "milking parlor" to produce clean milk and cream. The milk is not exposed to air from the time it leaves the cow.

Make New Cream Food.

This same manufacturer has a new device for farmers to fasten to their cream separator. The attachment reduces the flow of milk in the machine which makes a very heavy cream. When salted it makes a delicious spread for bread, or can be mixed with dates, honey, etc.

A Wisconsin firm has developed a new sugar beet topper which successfully plows the beets out of the ground. A device on the machine grabs the entire beet plant and carries it to the chopping knives, minus the dirt. It is said it will eliminate need for transient labor and cut the labor cost 75 per cent.

A large tractor company at Peoria has cut deeply into fuel costs on both farm and contractor work with tractors by perfecting a Diesel engine using the same fuel now used in oil burner furnaces. One of these machines plowed 7,000 acres of land in 46 days at a fuel cost of 5.73 cents an acre, doing a job that would have required 360 horses, and at a fuel cost 40 per cent less than that of the usual gas engine tractors.

Tractor Size of Horse.

A Chicago implement concern has just made a bid for business among the smaller farmers of the nation by perfecting a tractor that weighs little more than a big draft horse but has the sustained pulling power of four big draft horses. It costs no more than the lowest price motor car, does belt work and supplies power for binders or other machines.

A tractor tire has been developed and is now on the market, perfected at Akron, O., which is said to increase the rate of plowing by 27 per cent and to make a saving of 23 per cent in fuel costs. It is based on the new type airplane tires, has about 12 pounds air pressure.

Still another new implement has been launched which brushes, polishes and grades 1,000 bushels of potatoes or more a day. It is quite similar to the recently invented machine which brushes fuzz from peaches, and is said to have made potato growing on muck lands such as those in northern Indiana or in Cook county practicable.

Bale Hay "On the Run."

A Racine concern has introduced a new machine which bales hay "on the run" taking the hay direct from the windrow. Not only does it save extra haying operations, but it has baled as high as 9 bales of hay an hour, saves the leaves of alfalfa or clover and thus far has a record free from hay "firing."

A Philadelphia concern also has a new fertilizer distributor and seed drill for growers of muck crops, which drills fertilizer 2 inches under the seed which is planted in the same operation. It saves both labor and fertilizer costs, its makers claim.

Canada Grain Raisers Spurn Tax Built R. R.

BY SCRUTATOR.

The United States is not alone in grandiose schemes to help the farmer. Canada has practically matched the wheat stabilization experiment of this country but has gone us one better by building a railroad to help grain shippers and paying them a bonus to use it.

A few years ago the farmers and politicians of western Canada had a dream of opening up a shorter and cheaper grain route to Europe by way of the Hudson Bay. So they worked on the dominion government to push the Hudson Bay railroad through from The Pas, Manitoba, to Churchill on Hudson Bay and to build docks, an elevator and do other work to make it a port. Laying the rails was completed in 1929 and the rest of the work was finished in 1931.

New Line Unpopular.

But the wheat of western Canada didn't flow to the 2,500,000 bushel elevator on Hudson Bay. It seems the farmers preferred to ship their grain by way of the Great Lakes and eastern ports or by way of Vancouver and the Panama Canal. The Hudson Bay railroad and the port facilities at Churchill represented an investment of around 56 million dollars. What could the politicians do to justify this expenditure?

The dominion government last year decided to offer free handling and free storage at Churchill if shippers would route grain via Hudson Bay. The western shippers declined and the government elevator stood empty and the railroad didn't get the business. However, just recently the dominion government made the cheerful announcement that nearly 3,000,000 bushels of wheat had been exported via Churchill during this season. But the details of how the shipments were arranged were reported this week by the Financial Post and have considerably dampened any enthusiasm over the new route.

Give Free Storage.

It appears that the Continental Grain company, New York, affiliate of a big European importing firm, last May made a deal with the Canadian railways and canal department. It agreed to put 2,000,000 bushels of grain in the government elevator at Churchill in return for free storage, export 1,000,000 bushels and replace this amount with new wheat to be stored free of charge over this winter. Moreover, the government agreed to elevate and load the grain during the 1932 shipping season.

The Continental Grain company put 2,000,000 bushels in the elevator last May and the grain was stored free, which amounted practically to a bonus of a cent a bushel per month. One million bushels were exported in August. The bonus of this amount was four cents storage and one cent a bushel elevating and loading charge, a total of $50,000. In addition, around 2,000,000 bushels were exported by other operators free of elevating and loading charges, representing a bonus of $20,000.

The Taxpayer Pays.

But the Continental company left 1,000,000 bushels in storage from last May and replaced 1,000,000 bushels exported. This wheat will be stored free until next August and then handled free, which represents a bonus of $210,000.

"When the bonus policy is concluded next August," the Financial Post says, "the total cost to the treasury will have run to approximately $280,000. While the figure is what the government has in effect handed over to shippers, the cost to taxpayers of the elevator is much higher without allowing a cent for interest or expenses of the railway. The elevator alone costs over half a million dollars yearly in interest and depreciation."

Treasury Asks Tenders on $100,000,000 91 Day Bills

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Secretary Mills today invited tenders for $100,000,000 of 91 day treasury bills to be sold to the highest bidder on next Friday. The bills will be dated Dec. 28 and will mature on March 29 when they will be redeemed at face value. The money received for the bills will be used to retire $100,000,000 due on Dec. 28.

Irish Propose to Pay $1.25 for $1 on U.S. Loan

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Dec. 19.—(AP)—President de Valera announced to the Saorstat today that the government has decided to propose legislation providing for the repayment at the rate of $1.25 on every dollar of Irish Republican loans raised in the United States in 1918 and 1920.

Such legislation is to be introduced into the dail immediately after its reassembly Feb. 1. The technical nature of the bill will be to amend the Funds act of 1924.

The principles of repayment, President de Valera said, will include:

First, the sum of $1.25 will be paid either in stock or cash for each dollar subscribed in loans, the amount already paid on each dollar by receivers to be regarded as payment in part.

Second, the payment on $10 and $25 bond certificates will be completely in cash.

Third, payments on bond certificate of denominations of $30 and upwards will be in stock in multiples of $5, in cash for odd amounts in dollars and cents.

Fourth, the stock will have Irish Free State government security bearing interest at the rate of 3½ per cent per annum, tax free in the Irish Free State, payable yearly, and redeemable at the nominal value at the end of a period of five years or at any intervening date by purchase in the open market.

The total amount owed America is in the neighborhood of $5,000,000 at par. The amount will be made up of portions of the first and second dail loans floated in America in 1921 by De Valera, who worked for his passage across the Atlantic on a tramp steamer despite British efforts to capture him.

RAIL DIRECTORS WILL HAVE TO GET USED TO PAYING

To be a railroad director after Jan. 1 will not have the lure it has had for many years. Under the recent rulings by eastern and western railways, directors will have to pay a fare like other travelers except when they are riding on their own lines.

Many prominent men have been prevailed upon to serve as directors because of the pass privilege the job carried with it. Big shippers, bank officials and others have been able to ride free because of their directorships. The director of a small railroad could get a pass on any line in the country. Under the new ruling he will have to pay a fare on all lines but his own.

Railroad men admit that the ruling is not universally popular. Men who for years have ridden scot free can't get accustomed to the idea of paying a fare. Generally, however, directors say that the move is a step toward efficiency on the part of the badly tangled railroad industry.

Government Bonds and Banks.

One may even go wrong buying government bonds. A story is told of the head of one outlying bank who decided it was wise to maintain extreme liquidity.

The capital of the bank was $100,000. Believing that even long term governments were a sound liquid investment the bank bought $500,000 of treasury 3½s near par. The issue was selling in the low eighties just at the time that the bank was experiencing a heavy run. It was necessary to sell the government bonds at a discount of about 20 per cent.

The loss incurred was nearly equal to the bank's total capital. Coupled with other losses this unfortunate investment in government bonds forced the bank to close its doors.

Making Financial Reports Intelligible.

W. T. Holliday, president of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, urges corporation heads to furnish more complete and intelligible reports to stockholders. Frequently the reports are so cryptic, he says, that one is unable to tell what the business of the reporting company is.

The observation has point when it is recalled that Middle West Utilities company in a preliminary statement for 1931 reported earnings equivalent to 89 cents a share on 15,700,000 shares of common stock outstanding. Less than five months later the company was in receivership.

Tipped Into Bankruptcy.

Yesterday's bankruptcy schedule contains a note confirming the suspicion that tips aren't what they used to be. Sam Lewis, a bellboy, who lives at 5125 Kenmore avenue, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. He listed assets of $20 and liabilities of $320.

Ratify Merger of Investment Trust Concerns

Stockholders of the Continental Chicago corporation and Chicago Investors' corporation yesterday ratified the merger of the two companies previously approved by directors.

Charles F. Glore, president of Continental Chicago, told stockholders of the company that the management has steered clear of injudicious borrowing despite the deflation in the value of its assets in the last few years.

"The assets of the corporation continue unencumbered," Glore said. "This insures your participation in the ultimate recovery of values."

The consolidated corporation will have assets of $26,665,151. Despite the drastic depreciation both concerns have suffered both have been able to keep in a sound position because of their freedom from bank and funded debt.

The pro forma balance sheet of the consolidated companies shows liabilities, minus capital stock and surplus, of only $756,525 as compared with cash alone of $3,365,186.

The Continental Chicago corporation has ridden the tide of deflation from a top figure of approximately $60,000,000 to its present $23,867,384 asset value. Its flexible corporate structure has enabled it to avoid the troubles of many investment trusts.

RAIL MANAGERS REFUSE OFFER BY UNION HEADS

Wage Parley Still Is Deadlocked.

The railway wage conference stumbled through nother deadlocked day yesterday, with the unions offering a hair splitting concession, which the managers curtly rejected.

The concession, as forecast in yesterday's TRIBUNE, involved a tentative withdrawal by the unions of the claim they had advanced when they proposed a one year renewal of the so-called Willard agreement, under which they are now accepting a 10 per cent deduction until next Feb. 1. Their claim was that the Willard agreement had bound the managers to refrain from serving notice of a basic pay cut while the agreement was in force and that any renewal must bind the managers identically.

Would Postpone Issue.

The managers having denied that claim, the unions proposed in their latest offer to "postpone the issue on the theory that a controversy postponed may never arise, or its adjustment rendered easier at a future date."

Chairman A. F. Whitney read the proposal for the labor forces at the morning joint conference in the Palmer house grand ballroom. Chairman W. F. Thiehoff and the managers' committee declined even to discuss it.

They stalked out of the ballroom almost immediately, indicating by this action that they found the suggested compromise so small as to be almost imperceptible. They drafted a terse answer over the luncheon table.

Managers' Attitude Stiffens.

That answer indicated a stiffening of the managers' attitude. Rejecting the proferred compromise in one short sentence, the answer renewed for the third time the managers' proposal of last Thursday for a renewal of the Willard agreement for six months, with indefinite extension thereafter, and declared that offer was "the utmost that present business conditions justified."

The managers dispatched their reply by messenger instead of delivering it in person. A buzz of anger rose from labor's 1,250 delegates when Chairman

Cort Theater May Be Made Into Garage

BY AL CHASE.

If present plans are carried out, one of Chicago's best known playhouses is to be converted into an eight story garage. J. E. O. Pridmore, architect of the Cort theater at 132 North Dearborn street, has made sketches whereby that twenty-three year old place of amusement may shortly have an audience of approximately 200 motor cars. U. J. Herrmann, owner of the theater, and other interests, are contemplating the change if Mr. Pridmore's studies show that such a move is practical.

U. J. HERRMANN. [U. & U. Photo.]

The tentative plans call for four main floors and four mezzanine floors, reached by ramps, which would make the four story building the equivalent of an eight story structure, so far as storage of cars is concerned. The Z system of construction, originated by A. W. Smith of Seattle Wash., where two big garages of this type are now successfully operating, is contemplated by Mr. Herrmann.

The Cort theater, one of Chicago's smallest and most intimate of loop playhouses, has the distinction of being the first in the world of the "atmosphere type"—with the ceiling representing the sky. Mr. Pridmore originated this. It has been copied extensively. Mr. Herrmann, popularly known as "Sport" Herrmann, has been owner and manager of the Cort for many years.

CHICAGO FIRM LOW BIDDER ON $8,600,000 DAM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 19.—The West Slope Construction Company of Chicago was low bidder in a field of seven on the construction of Dam No. 1, in San Gabriel canyon, when unit bids were opened by the Los Angeles board of supervisors today. The Chicago company offers to construct the dam in its entirety for $8,600,527, using a granite facing, and for $8,633,032, using a poured concrete facing.

The bids are $12,000 and $22,000 lower than the estimate of E. C. Eaton, chief engineer of the Los Angeles county flood control district.

INVESTORS SEEK TO BUY CITY'S NEW BOND ISSUE

But Exchange Still Key to Refunding.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Recent economy measures and the reduction of tax levies by the various local governments—city, schools, sanitary district and county—have already been reflected in improved standing for the securities issued by these bodies, according to bankers handling the current bond refunding operations for the city of Chicago.

Frank M. Gordon, vice president of the First National bank, and a member of the group of bank officials who are working out the refunding plan, yesterday disclosed that a number of inquiries had been received from investors wanting to purchase bonds of the new issue for cash.

Investors Want to Buy.

"I have received calls from a number of people who do not hold maturing bonds, asking for the opportunity to buy the new bonds," Mr. Gordon said. "Other banks report the same experience.

"It is possible that cash buyers may take up some of the new bonds that will be left after the time has expired for holders of the old bonds to trade them for the new 6 per cent issue.

"We do not, however, anticipate any considerable volume of cash buying. The success of the plan still depends wholly upon the willingness of holders of maturing bonds to accept new bonds. If any substantial amount of the outstanding bonds fail to be tendered in exchange, the plan will fail and default will occur."

Holders' Response Favorable.

Response to the bankers' requests for cooperation from bondholders continues to be entirely favorable, they reported yesterday, although a large proportion of holders remain to be interviewed.

Mr. Gordon pointed to the ready sale of the $20,000,000 state of Illinois 4½ per cent relief bonds as another indication of improved standing for issues of public bodies in this state.

"Not only was the issue heavily oversubscribed by dealers," he said, "but the bonds were moved almost

STOCKS DECLINE AT CLOSE AFTER EARLY STRENGTH

Auburn Gains 3 Points in Livelier Trade.

BY FRED HARVEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—Stocks looked good for the greater part of today's trading, but the list fell into its ingrained habit of leaning toward heaviness in the final hour and small losses outnumbered gains at the close. Volume approximated 900,000 shares.

There was nothing in the way of news over the week-end to change the market picture one way or the other, and traders were satisfied to allow the list to drag along close to the final levels of last week. The fact that favorite shares were able to maintain a firm undertone despite the lack of incentive for a rise, however, kept up interest among such few speculators as are left around the tickers.

A Rally, Then Decline.

In the morning the market went through a monotonous cycle of backing and filling, with the list getting nowhere. By noon dullness was acute, but then something of a rally developed on news that President Hoover's debt message would be put before congress later in the day. Presentation of the President's position on the matter, however, failed to stir much enthusiasm, and, with United States Steel sagging to new lows, halfway through the closing period the general market again slid into the downgrade.

Blame for the market's soggy performance was popularly laid to the weakness of United States Steel. Whatever attempts were made to put across a rally were repeatedly dampened by Steel's failure to join in the procession toward higher ground. Traders just could not pry it above its previous close and support levels. Steel common was the worst offender, closing down 1¾. The preferred, possibly because of less pressure, looked better and registered only a fractional net recession.

Auburn Rises Sharply.

Acting as though the oil pool in the issue was getting active again Auburn furnished most of the market's reason for optimism. Steady buying pushed Auburn up more than 4 points before offerings were met, and even after some selling that speculative favorite closed up more than 3 points.

Auburn's upward flurry was attributed to operations by the group which had previously operated in the issue and which were taking advantage of the stale short interest supposed to be in the stock.

While they failed to post improvements of any note on the day, oils were especially strong in early trading, as traders looked with favor on the industry following the Texas shutdown order.

Coppers became an interesting group on reports that foreign buying in the list was in evidence. International Nickel, Anaconda and Kennecott all showed increased activity and were somewhat stronger than the general run of shares in other sections.

Paced by Consolidated Gas and Columbia Gas, utilities gave a good account of themselves.

With traders chary of the group pending definite developments from the Chicago wage conference, rails were neglected and dull. Weakness in New York Central was a drag on the market.

HIDE FUTURES

Trading on the New York Hide exchange was only fair with sales of 440,000 lbs. Prices were unchanged to 5 points higher. Closing bids—old contracts—March, 4.30c; new contracts, December, 3.85c; March, 4.40c; June, 5.10c; September, 5.57c.

WHEAT FUTURES DROP, SELL CLOSE TO RECORD LOW

Fears as to Political Events Check Trade.

WHEAT PRICES IN GOLD

Wheat prices in United States funds in leading markets, computed from rates of exchange prevailing at the time they closed, follow:

Chicago, May	46¼	47
Winnipeg, May	37⅛	37⅜
Liverpool, March	43⅜	43⅝
Do May	47¼	47⅝
Do No. 2 Manitoba	50⅝	50⅞

Buenos Aires, February	37⅝	37¼

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Deferred deliveries of wheat futures came within ¼c of the all time lowest figures of the season yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Scattered selling on a fractional decline of old style March in Liverpool to 43⅜c, a new all time record low furnished the incentive for pressure.

Fears as to possible developments at Washington which might affect the grain trade and agriculture in general continue to check operations on either side of the wheat market.

May wheat dropped 1¼c from the early high in the local market and touched 45⅞c, but rallied to 46⅛c at the last, being off ⅛c from Saturday's finish at the close. December was also ⅛c lower at 44¾c, while July was off ⅛ at 46⅝@46¾c. Liverpool was firm early but weakened later and finished ¼c lower to ⅝c higher, while Winnipeg was ⅜@½c lower in Canadian funds. Buenos Aires was affected by unfavorable weather conditions for harvesting the new crop gained ¼c.

Reduce Argentine Estimates.

There was some buying of wheat in Liverpool early on an official Argentine estimate placing the exportable surplus from the old and new crop at 152,000,000 bu, or 24,000,000 bu less than Broomhall's recent figures, but the report fell flat as far as affecting the local market was concerned. The United States government report on acreage and condition for the 1933 crop will be given to the trade at 2 p. m. [Chicago time] today.

Buying against bids and local short covering checked the decline in wheat, but there was no snap to the buying.

A decrease of 1,919,000 bu in the domestic visible supply of wheat brought the total down to 166,867,000 bu, compared with 212,374,000 bu last year.

Light Trade in Corn.

Yesterday's receipts of corn of 56 cars were the smallest for the first day of the week in a number of weeks and caused considerable comment on the part of the trade, being regarded as an indication of the slowness with which farmers are selling at the current level of prices.

Corn futures held within a range of ⅛@⅝c and closed ¼c higher to ¼c lower, December being 23@23¼c; May, 27¼@27⅝c, and July, 28⅛@28⅝c. The visible supply increased 583,000 bu for the week and is 28,193,000 bu against 10,881,000 bu last year.

Cereal interests were moderate buyers of oats and they closed ⅛c higher. December was 15⅛c and May, 17⅛@17⅜c at the last. Rye was ⅛@⅜c lower with December, 30⅜c and May, 33½c. Barley was off ½c despite favorable reports regarding the beer bill from Washington. May finished at 29⅝c.

PRODUCE MARKETS
